R. L. BORDEN INAUGURATES HIS TOUR OF CANADA AT HALIFAX MEETING

Lays Down Principles On Which He Hopes to Win at Next Election—Spoke at Length On What His Party is Prepared to Do if Elected—Were Few Interruptions.

HALIFAX, Aug. 20.—Under most auspicious weather conditions and to the accompaniment of the music of St. Patrick's band which was the prime feature of the evening, R. L. Borden inaugurated his tour of the Dominion at the Empire Rink tonight.

R. L. BORDEN.

The attendance was large, many ladies being present and quite one-third, probably more of the audience being Liberals.

Senator MacKenzie was chairman and in addition to Mr. Borden, J. C. H. Wilson, M.P., J. C. O'Mullin and Professor R. C. Walden were the speakers of the evening.

There were a number of Conservatives of prominence in the city and party workers from the various wards and Messrs. A. C. Bell, C. E. Tanner, M. P. P. and J. M. Baillie, M.P.P. of Pictou, on the platform.

Mr. Borden's speech was evidently prepared in answer to the charges of critics in his own party, who have been passing him for his lack of initiative and of policy.

Mr. Borden spoke for one hour and a half and received a good hearing. He explained that after his defeat in the last election he had determined to relinquish his leadership of the Conservative party, but was prevailed upon to retain it by the unanimous request of the Conservative members of the Dominion House.

What Good Government is
There were, he said, three essentials of good government: honest administration and expenditure of public money. Appointments to the civil service, based not alone on party service, but on merit and efficiency.

On these headings he dwelt for over an hour. A government, he wanted to say, despite what may be said to the contrary, was exactly what the people had. He had these essentials, he observed by the party in power, and it was needless to say that in Mr. Borden's opinion they were not, the curtain would have gone down there and then. He frankly confessed that it was a good thing that the party went out of power when it did. He should have even gone further and said it would have been better if it had gone out sooner than it did.

He then went into the question of Liberal pledges, appropriation and expenditure, and spoke at length on the government's voting down all efforts at investigation. He said that appointments to office were devoid of any merit except political efficiency. What about clean elections? He was not bigoted enough to say that the Conservative party have not run elections that are not clean. But he would confess that there was nothing like it since 1896, meaning the Liberals' attitude. He then gave his impression of the attitude of the two parties regarding political reform. The government had promised to bring down a bill looking to this. He freely confessed that the law is a pretty stringent. With regard to say-offs, both parties are agreed that there should be a bill that enacts that no election petition can be withdrawn until sufficient reason for such an action is forthcoming. It is of no use for us to cry out against the law unless we are prepared to carry out a campaign of purity. It was not good enough to shout purity and then resort to the same means as our opponents. When you are beaten see that the law is tried to the full and that men are brought to justice. Do not be content with the tools, get at some of the respectable rascals and see that a few of the penitentiary.

Mr. Borden solemnly said: We may find it hard to combat certain influences in our own party, but some might like to adhere to the methods of the other party. Complete reforms of the civil service law than took his attention. Thorough and complete reform was needed, he said. He did not believe that the competitive system was best, with some appointments notably it can never apply.

Then he came to the Senate and its reform. He realized the dangers of an elective Senate. But it may be forced upon us. No such important change should be made without the consent of the provinces. He stood for a reform which would make it a representative body.

As regards immigration Mr. Borden was of the opinion that the last should share in the influx of new settlers, quality rather than quantity to be emphasized was our requisite. Abolition of the franchise system and a rigid inspection of new comers was also his policy. He believed in the management of the public domain in the interest of the people.

The Interests
Touching of the government owned railways he said that the I. C. R. had not proved a very satisfactory testimonial to that system. But he would say that a denial to govern a railway is to deny ourselves the right of self-government. The I. C. R. should be freed from all partisan control and placed under a commission.

PASTY FOOD
Too Commonly Used.
The use of pasty cereals is not advisable. A physician says: "Pasty cereals are very indigestible and a bad thing for the stomach, causing a depressed feeling and quite a train of disorders, particularly of the intestines and nerves."

"Cereals such as wheat and oats, can be cooked long enough and well enough to fit them for human use but the ordinary way of cooking leaves them in a pasty condition."

An Indiana man says: "My physician prohibited the use of oats and wheat for I was in a bad condition physically. I had pronounced dyspepsia. He said the heavy taste was indigestible, but that Grape-Nuts being a thoroughly cooked food and cooked in such a manner as to change the starch into the form of sugar, is very easily digested."

I have become very fond, indeed, of Grape-Nuts and all the uncomfortable feelings have disappeared. I have gained nearly twenty pounds in weight and have none of the distressed feeling after my meals which I had formerly. Grape-Nuts food has done the work. "There's a Reason." Read "The Road to Wellville" in pkgs.

Mr. Logan acknowledged the greeting, and made a few remarks. He said in the course of his remarks that he was an intense Canadian and that he was particularly interested in the Maritime provinces. He urged that there should be a unity of purpose. It was found at Ottawa that the "New Brunswick" members were yelling for New Brunswick, the Nova Scotia members for Nova Scotia, and the Maritime members for Maritime.

Mr. McRobbie said that while owing to the heavy tourist travel just now it might be found that the hotel accommodation was inadequate still he trusted they would be comfortably accommodated and he hoped the weather would be propitious. Mr. McRobbie announced the while the men were deliberating this afternoon the ladies would be given a drive about the city, and announced that they would meet at the Royal hotel parlors.

Mr. McRobbie then called upon Mayor Sears to extend the welcome on behalf of the city.

Mayor Sears
The Mayor said:—Mr. President and gentlemen of the Maritime Board of Trade:

"I am pleased to meet you in this informal manner and to be able to express my gratification at seeing so many present ready to participate in what is ever of so much importance to our mutual interests—the consideration of our requirements and necessities in a business and commercial way."

Hospitality is a sentiment not a function, and is the sincerest and warmest expression of the conscience of the heart in regard to what is considered its relations and obligations to others should be, as far as the social side of life reflects, and for the city and its citizens, I most heartily bid you welcome to our midst and place at your disposal all that hospitality and good fellowship may proffer."

"I trust your observations may be conducive to the fullest and happiest results, and that commercially and in every way that we could wish the results of this council may be worthy of the importance of the Maritime Provinces."

"One of the most important subjects on the programme for discussion is that of technical education. I have often thought that if the Maritime Provinces could unite in establishing a technical college it would be of great benefit to the industrial life of the country."

His Worship also touched upon the great advantages of the Elgin Home at Nauyasigwanuk, which was so highly extolled by Earl Grey, and he thought that something might be done in the way of extension of this work.

Secretary Treasurer's Report
Secretary Creed read his report as follows: To the President and Members of the Maritime Board of Trade:
