SIMPLE SUNDIAL

In Proper Shape.

Although we all have clocks and watches by which to tell the time, the sundial will always retain a certain charm by reason of its antiquity, and any garden possessing one has a fea-ture added to it that nothing else can supply. So come, boys, especially you handy ones, and make a dist and then plant at its base some quick growing vine and have a thing of beauty that

One of the simplest sundials consists of a metal disk. You may make it any size you wish, dividing its circumfer-ence into twenty-four equal parts, num bered from 1 to 12, twice around, as shown in Fig. A. The best metal to use is zinc, as it does not rust and is easily marked and cut.

In the center of the disk is fixed a straight pin, called a style. It must be exactly perpendicular to the disk, as the accuracy of the dial depends on this, and also on its being placed exactly parallel with the earth's axis.

This latter is effected in the following way:

Make a tiny hole in the metal disk, close to the style, and then on the first clear night place the disk on its support in such a position that by locking through the little hole you may bring the north star in line with the style When you have obtained the right angle, fasten the disk in place, and your sundial is complete.

The shadow thrown by the style will point to the hour of the day, and of course you need hardly be hold that on cloudy days the dial will not work, as the sun is needed to cast the shadow.

Another way to find the angle or place in which the disk should rest is to cut a triangle out of pasteboard, as Fig. B designates, having the angle at C just equal to the latitude of the locality where the dial is to be used. You may easily do this by finding the atitude on a map and then drawing the angle with the aid of a piece of metal called a protractor, which is marked off in degrees and which may be bought of any dealer in drawing

Fix this triangle, with the aid of a compass, so that the angle B points due north and the base BC is horizon-tal. Then place the dial so that the style points along the line AC with the free end toward A. When so placed the figure 12 in the dial must be directly below the style, as the picture shows.—New York Herald.

a lion it will go out like a lamb," is founded on a scientific principle. If it comes in with high, blustering winds, there is an unusual degree of evaporation, caused by these winds, and hence an unusual amount of water vapor in the air. This results in constant show-ers during the latter part of March and in April, and these showers break the violence of the winds and give us the proverbial lamblike behavior.

The weather of March and April is f special benefit to the earth. The high winds of March are needed to dry the soil and thus keep the seeds from rotting soon after the planting, and the April showers supply the principal nourishment on which the seeds depend for development

Why is "o" the noisest of all the vowels? Because you can't make a horrid, loud noise without it, while all the others are inaudible.

Why can you never expect a fish-monger to be generous? Because his business makes him sell fish. Why would an owl be offended at your calling him a pheasant? Because you would be making game of him.

Maryland Physician Cures Himself of Eczema with Cuticura Remedies. Prescribes Them and Has Cured Many CasesWhere Other Formulas Have Failed-Dr. Fisher Says:

CUTICURA REMEDIES POSSESS TRUE MERIT

My face was afflicted with eezema in the year 1897. I used the Cuticura Remedies, and was entirely cured. I am a practicing physician and very often prescribe Cuticura Resolvent and Cuticura Soap in cases of eczema, and they have cured where other formulas have failed. I am not in the habit of endorsing patent medicines, but when I find remedies possessing true merit, such as the Cuticura Remedies do, I am broad-minded enough to proclaim their virtues to the world. I have been practicing medicine for sixteen years, and must say I find your Remedies A No. 1. You are at liberty to publish this letter, or any part of it. I remain, very truly yours, G. M. FASHION NOTES.

Riding Habits For the Girl Who Sits Astride-Chiffon Bows on Girdles. For the girl equestrienne who is fol-lowing the accepted cuetom just now of riding astride the very latest habit shows the divided skirt buttoning in panel fashion down the front and topped by a loose pony jacket. This suit appears in rich, deep hues of green and blue cheviot, while thin black serge showing a hair line stripe of white is the material which is considered very smart.

Chiffon bows and plaitings and small cut steel buckles trim many of the dressy girdles. Narrow black velvet or satin ribbon about a quarter of an inch wide is also used.

A stunning linen dress is of tan in a soft biscuit shade. The skirt, overskirt and bodice are scalloped and embridered in white thread.

Not only linen gowns, but those of control of the strength spirites.

The blouse illustrated is carried out in a pale tone of green crape. It is plaited about the round neck and over the shoulders and encircled by two bands of Irish lace. The sleeve brace-lets, as the French call the bands at the ends of short sleeves, are of the ecru lace. JUDIC CHOLLET.

tened on it would defy the whole of Hans Andersen's cavern of winds. In shape it is nothing more than a very small cocked hat, a tiny Napoleon stape, in chip with a soft glace rosette at each point. The most acutely Gibsonian headdress rises uncrushed in front of it, and the motor vell drapes over it neatly.

Colored shoes, with stockings to Colored shoes, with stockings to match, have superseded black shoes. It would look ugly even with a dark dress to wear black stockings and shoes. The little varnished shoe with paste buckles may be tolerated, but the stocking must be of some bright

The more varieties of trimming and the more varied the designs the smarter is the little linen bolero suit. Imitation Irish lace renaissance braid, embroidered motifs combined with net and valenciennes lace are used on the same garment.

The little girl's dress seen in the picture is attractively carried out in white mull and English embroidery. The full skirt is tucked between bands of the embroidery. And the bloused waist has bands and neck trimming of the same embroidery. JUDIC CHOLLET.
