Aching Joints

In the fingers, toes, arms, and other parts of the body, are joints that are inflamed and swollen by rheumatism—the acid condition of the blood which affects the muscles also.

Sufferers dread to move, especially after rising or lying down, and their condition is commonly worse in wet weather.

"I suffered dreadfully from rheumatism and had been completely cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla, for which I am deeply grateful." Miss Frances Serra, Prescott, Ont.

"I had an attack of the grippe which left me weak and listless and I had not recovered my strength when I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla and this medicine has entirely cured me. I have no hesitation in saying it saved my life." M. J. McDermott, Toronto, Ont.

Hood's Sarsaparilla
 Removes the cause of rheumatism—no outward application can take it.

Conservative Majority—29
 Let us MAKE IT FORTY.

To the Independent Voter.

There are thousands of voters in Canada who have never allied themselves with any political party; that is, they have never tied themselves permanently to any party; and there are thousands more in both parties who prefer the interests of Canada to the interests of their party.

The question for them is, how can they best make their influence felt for the public good?

At present this influence is greatly minimized by the fact that they vote against each other.

All efforts at uniting this large and intelligent class of electors by third party organizations have hitherto failed, as witness the history of the Patrons of Industry and of the numerous parties now represented in the British Columbia legislature.

The result of the independent electorate voting effectively would be to bring about in Canada the rotation of parties in office which prevails in England.

The elector who conscientiously believes that his own party is keeping faith with the country, respecting its principles and fulfilling its pledges, is right to support its party.

The elector who regards both parties as about equally good or equally bad can do much to improve both parties by generally voting against the government of the day, if recalcitrant to his professed principles, and so teaching the politicians of both sides that they are the servants, not the masters, of the country.

In England, the electorate no sooner places a party in office than they begin to defeat it at the bye-elections, on the principle that men in power easily lose their heads unless kept in awe of the electors, and at the general elections the government is almost invariably defeated.

Obviously, this rotation of parties is entirely the work of the independent electors, who hold the balance of power between Liberals and Conservatives, and use it. It is only when the Government of the day is conspicuous for its courage, straightforwardness, patriotism and progressiveness, that it is perpetuated in power.

In any country where the electors are in the habit of breaking up governments with a sharp tern there is a wide awake susceptibility and sensitiveness to public opinion which secures a robustness to politics which makes aptly for the public good.

On the other hand, if a party does wrong and is returned to power through blind partisanship, the men who rule the party become emboldened to dare more, and the country is plunged into extravagance, because the voters, having just come through an election, realize how easy it is to hoodwink the electors.

After twelve years of power the Liberal party have grown arrogantly conceited. What benefits favored members of their party may suit the country. If not, so much the worse.

Mr. Borden's promise of restitution to the country of all that has been illegally taken from it, and the prospective loss of their spoils in graft and deals have driven the bootlickers and grafters to the worst extremity of their craft. The friends of good government in the West must be on the alert until the last good vote is polled.

Of Ontario it is sufficient to say that it has but recently given a Conservative majority of 85 in the provincial house at the provincial elections in June last, and that on all sides the same symptoms which foretell the downfall of the Borden government are unmistakably present in this election. We look for a majority for Mr. Borden of at least 40 from Ontario, giving the Liberals the benefit of any doubt.

Upon the foregoing advice, the composition of the next Parliament will be roughly as follows by provinces:

Conservative Victory Assured.
 All signs point to the defeat of the Laurier Government and a sweeping Conservative victory at the elections next week.

Reversals such as these are the most hopeful and wholesome features of our political system. They sweeten government and cleanse it of those sinister forces that would degrade it into the means of warring the will of the people. Good citizens may rejoice in the enlightenment and independence of public opinion without which they are not possible.

From every side there come the most positive assurances of an overwhelming sentiment against the misrule at Ottawa.

Mr. Borden's tour has been a veritable triumph, while the presence on his platform of representatives of the Provincial governments of New Brunswick, Ontario, Manitoba, and British Columbia, have emphasized the national character of the protest against the inefficiency, extravagance and dangerous methods of the Liberal Ministry.

Mr. Borden admitted at Sault Ste. Marie that the election of ten Conservatives in Quebec would mean the defeat of the Government. Mr. Borden had 11 supporters from that province in the last parliament, and a Conservative gain of from ten to fifteen seats is confidently expected. The secession of the National party from the Liberal ranks at the election, the appearance of Mr. Borden's name on the nomination paper of the straight Conservative candidate, and the preponderance of the Conservative candidates are conclusive signs that the younger men of his race and province are not satisfied with Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Members of Mr. Borden's party on tour have secured us of an awakening in Quebec beyond their best expectations.

Women's Ailments

There is no need whatever for so many women to suffer from pains and weakness, nervousness and sleeplessness, anemia, hysteria and melancholia, faint and dizzy spells, and the hundred other troubles which render the life of too many women a month of misery and suffering.

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS
 Have Restored Thousands of Canadian Women to Health and Strength

Young girls budding into womanhood who suffer with pains and headaches, and whose face is pale and blood water, or women at the change of life who are nervous, subject to hot flashes, feeling of pins and needles, etc., are tired over those trying times by Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

They have a wonderful effect on a woman's system, making pains and aches vanish, bringing color to the pale cheek and sparkle to the eye. The old, worn out, tired out, harried feelings give place to strength and vitality, and life seems worth living.

Though you say you'll do better you're said that before, and to check you right out would be best.

For though you can promise the pleasingest things, that talk is found hard to digest; so it seems to be time that the diet was changed, and a change is as good as a rest.

Not an Ounce of Protection

Knighthood and honor for Sir Wilfrid Laurier followed on the announcement of the British Preference. Many people have wondered how the Liberal party swallowed protection so easily.

More have pondered on the spectacle of Sir Richard Cartwright sitting in a Cabinet where "free trade as it is in England" was a curiosity and where Mr. Fielding weighed out pounds of protection in place of the ounce that used to choke his financial windpipe.

It was a masterpiece of political sleight of hand that gave us partial free trade under the loyal title of "Imperial Preference." One can almost see the wink with which these apostles of free trade introduced to their colleagues an expedient which would at once dish the Conservatives and satisfy the Protectionist wing of the Cabinet by endorsing Protection. The people wondered why Sir Wilfrid Laurier when he proclaimed the Imperial Preference announced that he asked nothing in return. Why should he? He had his reward in the submission of those members of the Cabinet who were convinced that protection could not be distributed, and in the immense prestige which it gave him as an Imperialist.

But its effect as a measure of Free Trade has been drastic and sure. The woolen industry has been struck down by it, and the cotton manufacturers have struggled on with their heads just above water. And scores of other industries which could have competed with those of any other nation have languished and died under the lowering of the duties upon English made goods.

If we were paying that price in return for concessions from England which would have helped our farmers and assured good prices and the best market for the crop which is the greatest factor today in Canada's prosperity, we would cheerfully have made the sacrifice. And if it were necessary to evidence our loyalty to Great Britain we would have given it willingly.

But the party which has played with that loyalty and made it a counter in the game of politics can hardly blame the manufacturers if they prefer to have the trade policy of the country put into the hands of those who are frankly protectionist and wholly outspoken of the country's need of it.
