AMERICAN LADY CORSETS

Will Fit You Perfectly

American Lady Corsets are worn by thousands of ladies all over America. They stand for the final word in corsetry; producing to perfection fashion's demands for this season, namely, the modish low bust, the very long hip and back—in fact the uncorseted effect so sought after.

"American Lady" boning is very superior, made of specially selected material—flexible more or less to meet the demands of the various figures for which it is intended.

American Lady Hose Supporters are made of Para rubber thread webbing, giving the best possible wear.

We control "American Lady" Corsets for Charlottetown and guarantee them to give satisfaction.

The Vatican Library.

During a brief sojourn in Rome certainly one of the objective points of interest is the celebrated Vatican library. Other libraries there are in the world containing many more volumes, such for instance as the Bibliotheque Nationale of Paris, but the value of the Vatican library lies chiefly in its rare books and precious manuscripts.

Because of this the scholar comes here to do research work which he can do in no other place. Indeed, hundreds of great and valuable books have been written that never could have taken shape and form were it not that scholars had the wealth of the Vatican library at their hands. It was here that the great German historian, Mommsen, did his research work, and here, too, Dr. Pastor, the author of an admirable history of the Popes during the Middle Ages, found his data and weighed his facts. I regret that though armed with a letter of introduction I have not been able to meet Dr. Pastor as he is at present out of the city. When at Iona Brook University a few years ago I heard much of Dr. Pastor for it was here he gained renown, first as a lecturer in history before the late Pope Leo XIII summoned him to Rome and gave him a place in the Vatican library.

As an instance of how the Vatican library can witness to the truth of history when all other libraries fail I have only to cite the case of the settlement of colonization of Greenland by the Norsemen. The Vatican contains the report of Catholicity in its life and progress in Greenland before the colony became extinct. This is practically the only reliable source of information on Greenland nearly all other documents have been lost.

Among other books in manuscript form that will interest the student who visits the Vatican library is the Defense of the Seven Sacraments, by Henry VIII, King of England, with the King's signature and the same King's love letters to Anne Boleyn. And just here I am reminded that when I was looking through the library in Valletta, Malta, I found the original charter of Henry VIII constituting himself on the 7th of July, 1538, the Protector of the Order of the Knights of St. John and setting forth the conditions for the entrance of the Order in England. In 1547 Henry confiscated the property of the Order in England. A pretty poor royal protector when Kingly looking was in view.

Lovers of Virgil and Dante will find in the Vatican in manuscript form a Virgil of the Second Century and the Divine Comedy with a for their bread under a tent. In the midst of the movements that agitate minds and empires, that approximate distances, and re-establish, as it were, all the communications of the human family, one may believe that a merciful design of Providence is developed for the conversion of the world. Shall the salvation of the infidels be retarded by the indifference of the Christians? It should, however, be recollected that the cause in question is ever our own, and that the struggle between idolatry and Christianity is not ended. Paganism has never entirely disappeared from amongst us, neither from opinions nor from manners; and who knows but that the victories of faith in the East might bring back a more glorious reign to our ancient Europe, where it seems to grow weak. Let us consider this, and if at any time we are tempted to repose in the selfish enjoyment of the benefits of Catholic civilization, let us recollect those countless multitudes who as yet know not the redemption of our Lord Jesus Christ.

Here in the Vatican library are seen the many varied and rich gifts presented to the late Pope Leo XIII on the occasion of the golden jubilee of his priesthood in 1887. I will jingle out one of these for notice: The beautiful statue of Our Lady of the Rosary, the gift of the diocese of Massa and Carrara in Italy. It is the most beautiful piece of sculpture in Carrara marble I have ever seen.

Another gift quite unique is to be seen—that of the King of Siam to Pope Pius IX. Evidently the following inscription is the King's own as the English and spelling are not quite up to the mark: "To His Holiness the Pope Pius Ninth in Holy Father of Roman Catholic Christian World."

All over Africa the custom is springing up of developing mission farms or plantations. A tract of ground is purchased, or donated by the State, and the Fathers introduce the cultivation of some staple product of the soil. In one place it is sugar, in another it is coffee, in still another it is cotton. The idea is to teach natives some self-supporting occupation to wean them away from their warlike practices to the cultivation of the soil. Incidentally the mission becomes self-supporting and the people are able to contribute to the necessary improvements. It is the old story of the early Middle Ages over again, with the monastery the center of the rising cities.

Particularly in this case in the Belgian Congo, where every annual agreement is given by the government to these farm missions. The fathers of the Heart of Mary and the Jesuits have most prosperous missions of this kind. The Jesuits have twenty six Fathers and fourteen lay Brothers working in this corner of the vineyard of the Lord. Ki Sanctu is the residence of the Prefect Apostolic, Father de Vos, S. J., who has under his spiritual charge seven central stations, each with a number of farm chapels in the district round about it. At the present moment, we are informed, there are 20,000 Catholics in the prefecture, with an annual increase of 800 baptisms, exclusive of baptisms administered by the catechists to those in danger of death.

With the opening up of the new railroad in Uganda the Mill Hill Fathers laboring in that territory are adopting the same practice of establishing farms, while farther south, in the Kaffir country, the system has been developed quite extensively. Who knows but the good Fathers may be laying the foundations of a Paris or a London somewhere in the heart of the Dark Continent?

Ozanam and the Foreign Missions.

The name of Ozanam is familiar to those interested in charitable works. It is not as well known that the founder of the St. Vincent de Paul Society took also an active part in the development of the Society for the Propagation of the Faith, and was for eight years editor of the Annals.

Frederic Ozanam was not a clergyman, but he was "a man of God" in the full sense of the word. And whilst trying to relieve the distress of the poor around him, he did not forget the greater misery of those who are deprived of the light of the Faith, and he exerted his fellow Catholics to come to the help of their brethren. This is what he wrote in the Annals in 1836. His remarks are quite timely and will be read with interest, and let us hope with profit, by his admirers and followers:

"It seems that the impetuous wind, which was felt in the concaculum on the day of Pentecost, begins again to blow over the Christian world. Vocations are becoming more numerous. The priesthood and the religious orders feel an irresistible impulse towards those heroic combats which astonish the delicacy and cowardice of our days. But how long shall it be more easy to find men disposed to go in search of spots in the extremities of the earth than the small sum needed for their passage upon the deck of a ship, or for their bread under a tent. In the midst of the movements that agitate minds and empires, that approximate distances, and re-establish, as it were, all the communications of the human family, one may believe that a merciful design of Providence is developed for the conversion of the world. Shall the salvation of the infidels be retarded by the indifference of the Christians? It should, however, be recollected that the cause in question is ever our own, and that the struggle between idolatry and Christianity is not ended. Paganism has never entirely disappeared from amongst us, neither from opinions nor from manners; and who knows but that the victories of faith in the East might bring back a more glorious reign to our ancient Europe, where it seems to grow weak. Let us consider this, and if at any time we are tempted to repose in the selfish enjoyment of the benefits of Catholic civilization, let us recollect those countless multitudes who as yet know not the redemption of our Lord Jesus Christ."

The famous Jesuit College of the Rue des Postes, which has furnished so many soldiers who have died in France, is about to be demolished by the order of the Government. A formal leave taking took place a few days ago, when a number of old students assembled to rehearse the glories of the old school. Cardinal Amette president, and the Count de Mun spoke feelingly of the past.

The age for military service has been fixed at 20 years. The vote on the question by the Chamber of Deputies was 376 against 193. On July 17 the court confirmed the divorce granted to Mrs. Darrieux, formerly the famous Baronesse Vaughan, the morganatic wife of King Leopold. At the same time the court authorized an inquiry into the alleged misconduct of the Baronesse while she was the wife of Darrieux.—America.

Belgium.

It is reported that an immense sheet of water has been discovered in the sub-soil of the Campine near Moll that will be sufficient to supply all lower Belgium with drinking water. On July 14 a company was organized in Antwerp to make it available for the Communes of the Province, a certain number of which representing 325,000 people have consented to favor the project financially. Antwerp, however, holds out. Count de Boillet Latour, who was formerly Governor of Antwerp, is president of the company. The International Congress for the Protection of Children will meet at Brussels during the next

Germany.

An enormous concourse of people gathered in Leipzig for the Twelfth German Turnfest, which opened July 12. The attitude of a great portion of the membership of the Farmers' societies toward the Government was displayed when the representative of the Imperial Chancellor Dr. Lewald, emphasized in his address that the Turnvereine stands independent of political parties "upon German monarchical ground."

The protest made to the statement was so vigorous that the interference of the police was necessary to enable the speaker to proceed. Proceeding the public exercises, solemn services were held on the following day by Protestants and Catholics in their respective churches.—Severe attacks are made in the German press against the section of our tariff reform bill which calls for a sworn statement from all foreign dealers that the goods imported into the United States were not manufactured by children under fourteen years of age. It is quoted as an instance of American brasserie.

While no uniformity exists in our own child labor laws, it is odd, the German organs claim, that we should dictate social policies to other countries.—President Lowell of Harvard University was enthusiastically received at Berlin and special honors were accorded him at the University. He was greeted by the students with the "Star Spangled Banner" sung in the German version made by Less.—America.

WAS TROUBLED WITH SOUR STOMACH AND BILIOUSNESS.

Sour Stomach and Biliousness are caused by a sluggish Liver, for when it is not working properly, it holds back the bile, which is so essential to promote the movement of the bowels, and the bile gets into the blood instead of passing through the usual channel, thus causing many stomach and bowels troubles.

There is only one way to prevent the liver from becoming upset, and that is by the use of MILBURN'S LAXA-LIVER PILLS.

Miss Julia Lang, Yarko, Sask., writes: "For several years I was troubled with sour stomach and biliousness, and did not get any relief until I used Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills. I had only taken them two weeks when my trouble was quite gone, and I will recommend them to all who suffer as I did."

The price of MILBURN'S LAXA-LIVER PILLS is 25 cents per box, or 5 trials for $1.00. They can be procured at all dealers, or will be mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.
