Trouble About

CENSUS ENUMERATORS.
There seems to be much dissatisfaction prevalent in regard to the appointment of the takers of the Census. We hear of trouble at Bonavista, Catalina and elsewhere.
A correspondent on the West Coast has written to us in the following strain:
"There is a great deal of dissatisfaction and intense indignation along this West Coast in connection with the appointment of the Census enumerators. The teachers, who had always been appointed for this work, seem to have been left entirely out of the question on this coast. I am a teacher and had my application with the Government in the early part of the summer. It is said that the appointments were purposely delayed until the re-opening of the schools, in order to leave the work for the teachers, but along this coast it is well-known opponents of the Government who have got the appointments and when this is not the case, irresponsible boys who have come to the District a few years ago. In one large section a stranger has got the work, while there were at least a half dozen local applicants, and three of them teachers."

Poor Labrador Voyage

Mr. M. T. Flynn, of Mortier Bay, arrived here yesterday in his schooner from Griffin Harbor, Labrador. It is 40 years since Mr. Flynn was on Labrador, and he was piloted down the coast by Mr. Patrick Costigan. Mr. Flynn says that the reports given of the catch of fish on the Labrador are greatly exaggerated and that the voyage would be a poor one. Better work was done at Griffin Harbor possibly than anywhere else, but Mr. Flynn says that even there a number of traps secured only from 25 to 30 qts. for the summer. Mr. Flynn exhibited much enterprise in going to Labrador when he saw the fishery was a failure at his own place, and he was rewarded by getting 200 qts. Trawlers were more in evidence on the Labrador than ever before and did poorly. This, however, was owing to lack of bait, and their failure this year to make good does not indicate that under more favourable conditions they might not have done well. Mr. Flynn's schooner narrowly escaped disaster in going down the coast during a dense fog. Before the lookout was aware of it the vessel was close on board a large iceberg, and when it was kept away after it was sighted by the sides of the great berg could be touched by the men on the vessel's deck. Had she hit it she must have gone to bottom as the vessel was going at a good pace in a free wind.

A Shocking Case.

The details of the crime with which the two men—Collier and Benoit—are charged are of a shocking character. We learn that the woman attacked was only three weeks married, that she is Collier's sister-in-law, that her husband was away, and when she was seized by the men she was cruelly treated and almost smothered. The nearest house was nearly a mile away and when her aggressors left and she could reach this neighbour's she was in a state of collapse. The affair occurred at Port au Port about the latter part of August, and is one of the most brutal affairs which ever occurred in this country. As to the men charged with the crime, Collier is a married man, but Benoit is young, being only 17 years old.

Germany's Great Fleet.

Special to Evening Telegram.
KIEL, To-Day.
The magnitude of Germany's naval resources assembled here was strikingly shown by the review. Ninety-nine fighting ships participated. This number does not include a large number of torpedo boats, torpedo boat destroyers, mine planters and submarines. All the German ships flew the Austrian as well as the German colors in honor of the Austrian heir presumptive, who was on board the imperial yacht Hohenzollern as an imperial guest, and as a reminder of the political ties existing between Germany and Austria.

Germany Becoming Reasonable.

Special Evening Telegram.
BERLIN, To-Day.
The French proposals to Germany, according to an apparently inspired article printed to-day in the local Anzeiger, were submitted in the form of an elaborate draft of a treaty. The paper says there will be no haggle over the question of territorial compensation if Germany is given a free hand to trade in Morocco. Germany is willing to grant France full political freedom, providing France takes over the corresponding political obligations, including the protection of life and property of German subjects and ends the abnormal statutes under which the French authorities sheltered themselves when German rights were infringed.

Bourse Affected.

Belgian Preparations.

Special to Evening Telegram.
BRUSSELS, To-Day.
The military precautions being taken by the Belgian Government for the purpose of preserving the neutrality of the country, in the event of war between France and Germany, continue to be the absorbing topic of discussion at the capital. Thirty field pieces have arrived at the fortified town of Nunk, 36 miles from Brussels, from the National Arsenal at Antwerp. Last week two special trains arrived at Namur, carrying sixty field guns and twelve Hotchkiss guns and five carloads of ammunition. The arrangement of frontier garrisons is nearly completed, so that the 40,000 men of the army on a peace footing can be disposed effectively.

Surprise Party.

The friends of Miss Ida Moulton gave her a surprise party last evening at the residence of Mrs. W. H. Bartlett, Victoria Street. Games and songs made the evening pass all too quickly and a very jolly time was spent. Miss Moulton leaves by the Stepano on Saturday in company with her father and mother for California. Miss Pitman, on behalf of the gathering, presented her with an address and souvenir locket. Miss Moulton replied, thanking all for their kind wishes and gift. She takes with her the good wishes to fall.

An Interesting Football Match.

At 5:30 p.m. to-morrow a football match will take place between the Collegians, this year's League champions, and a picked team from H.M.S. Brilliant. We understand that the naval team is a very good one, with fast though careful players. The Collegians have proven their worth this season, are a fine aggregation, and a fast and well contested game is anticipated. It will take place on St. George's Field.

The Reward of 'Cheek.'

An Officer Wins a Daring Wager.

Paul I., the eccentric Czar of Russia, assassinated in 1901, was very particular as to his dress, and considered trifling matters of supreme importance. This peculiarity was once taken advantage of by an officer of the Guards, Major Vaksel, to win a wager. The major, the joker of the army, had let several hundred roubles be at his disposal to win the tail of the Emperor's wig on parade.

The next day the Emperor happened to be present at an early parade, and as chance would have it, took position for a moment in front of the daring major. Breathing with excitement and terror, Vaksel's companions beheld that rash officer's right hand steal slowly from his side, rise to the level of the Czar's neck, and give the wig's hanging tail a most decided tweak.

In an instant the Emperor's face, pale with fury, was turned upon Vaksel's countenance, which, however, reflected only an expression of child-like innocence, mingled with the most deferential astonishment. "Who dared do that?" demanded the enraged Czar, his eyes flashing evidence of his most dangerous mood was upon him.

"I did, your Majesty," said Vaksel, who, however his heart may have fluttered, managed to preserve outwardly unflinching calm, together with an expression of innocent surprise. "It was crooked, your Majesty," he added in a confidential undertone, "and I straightened it for fear the young officers should see it."

Paul's countenance cleared at once. He stared fixedly, however, at Vaksel's innocent-looking face for some seconds. Vaksel admitted afterwards that this was the trying moment; but he had said to himself, "If I waver, I am lost!" Then the Czar spoke, and spoke so that all might hear: "I thank you, colonel!" If every a step in rank was gained by purest effrontery, it was so acquired on this occasion, and Vaksel left the field not only promoted to a coveted position in the Guards, but richer by many hundred roubles as the result of the wager.

Mother of Woman Alleged to Have Been Murdered.

Appears on the Stand—Sensation at the Beattie Trial at Chesterfield.

Chesterfield Court House, Va., Aug. 28.—Suddenly, and without the faintest intimation hitherto during the trial, the prosecution to-day confronted Henry Carl Beattie, Jr., with Mrs. R. V. Owen, mother of the woman he is alleged to have murdered.

In a taxicab, whose arrival was timed to coincide exactly with the moment Sheriff Gill exhibited in the court room the clothing worn by Beattie's wife on the night of the murder, Mrs. Owen came to Chesterfield. Her presence in the vicinity had been a well kept secret by the prosecution.

Quickly and without the usual perfunctory questions incident to the introduction of new witnesses, Prosecutor Wendenburg questioned the woman as to her knowledge of the domestic life of the Beatties, and brought to the surface a point intended as relevant to the alleged motive of the murder, namely, that Beattie's physical condition, due to dissipation, had caused much unhappiness to his wife. The prosecution in the vicinity had been a well kept secret by the prosecution.

The prosecution's idea to-day apparently was to prove that Beattie killed his wife because of his fear that his father might learn of his condition and cut him off from the family.

The testimony of Mrs. Owen took Justice Watson as well as the crowd in the court house by surprise, and immediately the court suggested a recess and conference with counsel of both sides, jury and prisoner to discuss further testimony along this line.

The most vital broadside of testimony aimed against Beattie has been planned by the prosecution. The motive, the underlying propagating force, that might incite a man to murder his wife was carefully associated by the Commonwealth for emission through a string of witnesses. Besides arranging for testimony concerning Beattie's relations with Beula H. Binford as indicative of his alleged desire to eliminate his wife, so that companionship with the Binford girl might continue unobstructed, the Commonwealth was prepared to pour into the record the evidence of physicians and others, who would tell of Beattie's alleged physical illness, in an effort to show that the prisoner feared his wife might inform his father of them and that the latter then might disown him. From Richmond Sunderland the prosecution has secured witnesses to testify as to Beattie's visits to certain resorts and as to his being seen at such places with the Binford girl.

Oxford Graduate Kills

His Three Children and Himself.

South Thomastown, Maine, Aug. 20.—That the horrible tragedy of yesterday in which Edward Bennett, an Oxford graduate, was the chief actor, had been premeditated and carefully planned, there is to-day no doubt. Last evening Bennett killed his three children and then took his own life. Two of the children were killed by the use of cyanide of potassium and chloroform.

It is quite clear that the red man is the last thing that the white man will ever understand, and his whole culture is grossly caricatured, in common parlance, and even in the works of theologists, everything that he has heard is indiscriminately called "occultism," in the sense of magical magic. As a matter of fact, the Indian doctor had learned much of the secrets of legitimate medicine. He employed a tea or decoction of herbs, barks, roots and leaves with therapeutic properties he was familiar with, and always used his medicine singly. The stomach, or internal, was a valuable discovery of his, and the vapor, or Turkish bath, was in general use. It is only a few years since he was condemned for taking the patient out of his house into a tent, now the practice has become a general one.

Finally, the medicine man—or woman, for women were among the most successful practitioners—possessed much personal magnetism and authority, and in his treatment often sought to restore the equilibrium of the patient through mental or spiritual influences, and there is no doubt that he was accomplished in hypnotism and suggestion.
