Germany's Latest Crookedness.

Count Von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador at Washington, has addressed a memorandum to President Wilson, asking that the United States prevent their citizens shipping arms to the Entente Allies, unless the latter permit foodstuffs to reach Germany's civilian population. This demand is all of a piece with the rest of Germany's crooked demands. They proclaim a blockade of the British Isles and France, and attempt to carry it out by the murderous method of sinking mercantile ships with the object not only of preventing food, arms and ammunition reaching these but Germany and allies are preventing the foodstuffs in Russia, particularly wheat from reaching Great Britain and France, and yet in spite of these actions, Germany has the effrontery to ask the United States to commit the unneutral act of selling arms and ammunition to us, and this in face of the fact that Germany has always permitted her people to sell these articles of war to countries at war, and in face of the fact that Germany has made foodstuffs a contraband of war by her Government taking over all the foodstuffs which may be, or may arrive, in her territory. The failure of Germany to receive foodstuffs rests with herself. She made them contraband. She tried to starve Great Britain and France by a submarine blockade, and the Allies have made reprisals, without resorting to an inhuman action such as sinking mercantile vessels. They are following the procedure recognized by International Law, capturing ships, and bringing ship and cargo before a Prize Court, and resting the right of taking over ship and cargo on the judgment of that Court. The markets of America are as open to Germany and her allies as to Britain and her allies. She can buy all the foodstuffs she likes there. She can purchase arms and armaments. But this is no good to her because she has been driven off the sea, and being beaten there, she is trying to even up matters, by asking the United States to take away from the citizens there a right exercised by all nations under like circumstances. She is practically asking the United States to become her ally in helping her to fight her enemies. Not only is she making this effort through diplomatic channels, but she has been and is conducting a campaign in the United States to affect public opinion in this matter with a view to bringing pressure to bear upon the Government. In the issues of American newspapers which came by the last mail, we find full page advertisements calling upon American manufacturers to cease taking armaments orders from the Entente Allies and asking workmen to stop working on them.

EYE-WITNESS NOTES GERMAN LOSS OF CONFIDENCE.

LONDON, To-day. It is a significant fact that although a month has passed since the action at Neuve Chapelle, the enemy has made no attempt to retake any quarters, but has remained inactive. The British Army Headquarters on the Continent, in a communication dated April 9, looking back over the past four months, it is instructive to note the gradual weakening of German resistance on our front. Formerly, offensive action on our part was met with an immediate counter stroke. This is the first occasion on which the enemy has made no reply at all. This does not mean, of course, that their resistance is collapsing, but the Germans have none the less admitted that with very few troops at their disposal on this front, they are unable to avenge their defeat. Some light has been thrown on the conditions prevailing in the area behind the German lines which serve to confirm the impression that the general situation is creating great anxiety. Referring to the condition bordering on panic, which prevailed at Lille during the fighting at Neuve Chapelle, this writer goes on to say: "Both officers and men have openly expressed their uneasiness. Apparently a marked change began to occur in the general demeanor of German troops soon after Christmas. Till then they had been absolutely confident, but latterly this feeling has been steadily decreasing. German soldiers have told French civilians they recognize they would be overpowered by the mass of men Britain was going to place in the field. They have tried to persuade them that the British were equally bent on ruining France, that they would grab everything for themselves. In conclusion, the Eye-Witness mentions the fact that the German war levy on Lille, Roubaix and Tourcoing during March amounted to one million dollars.

COUNT VON BERNSTORFF'S MEMORANDUM.

WASHINGTON, To-day. President Wilson and Secretary Bryan had under consideration last night draft of the reply to be made to the memorandum of Count Von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador, relative to the question of preventing shipments to the Allies, unless foodstuffs were permitted to reach Germany's civilian population. "We have the whole subject under consideration, and I am not prepared to discuss it," said Secretary Bryan.

R. N. R. STATION BLOWN UP AT LERWICK.

LONDON, To-day. Despatches from Aberdeen telling of the explosion at Lerwick, capital of the Shetland Islands, in which many persons were killed, was followed by rumors that a German spy had blown up the Royal Naval Reserve station at Lerwick. As soon as the news of the explosion reached here, the Government took over the telegraph lines into Scotland, making it difficult to secure any details of the disaster.

FRENCH WANT SHELLS WITHOUT NUMBER.

LONDON, To-day. A statement from Field Marshal French which was read at the Recruiting meeting here last night, urged the necessity for munitions. He said, "I want to pound the enemy and to go on pounding them, regardless of expenses and regardless of the number of shells I use, because by doing so I am saving the lives of our gallant men. More ammunition is the danger to our men in making advances, I know that when the time comes for a great move, we can break through the Germans."

ACTIVITIES OF GERMAN EMBASSY THE ABSORBING TOPIC.

NEW YORK, To-day. A Washington despatch to the Herald yesterday, says the activities of the German Embassy have become the absorbing topic of thought with officials here, engaging attention of the departments of the State Treasury and Justice, while action to be taken by the United States with regard to the memorandum of the German Ambassador.

men Ambassador, Count Von Bernstorff, charging the United States Government with unneutral attitude in the European conflict, has not been determined. There is every indication that attention is now being given to the general activities of the German Embassy that will uncover facts which either will enable the United States to demand the recall of the Ambassador or to stop the campaign which he is waging to influence political feeling throughout the country. The Department of Justice has entered upon a thorough investigation of all questions affecting violations of neutrality, and other matters which directly involve these activities of the German Ambassador.

TERRIBLE EXPLOSION.

ABERDEEN, Scotland, To-day. The Free Press publishes the following telegram from Lerwick: "A terrible explosion has occurred. Harbor Street was wrecked and many lives lost. No details are as yet obtainable. Lerwick is situated on the east coast of the mainland of Shetland Islands, and is defended by an old fort dating from the time of Cromwell, and is one of the chief stations in Scotland for the Royal Naval Reserve. The capital of Shetland is Archipelago."

DULL METAL ON UNIFORMS.

ROME, To-day. An order is printed in the Military Journal, directing all army officers to wear dull metal on their uniforms and scabbards of their swords. This is a measure which is usually adopted on the eve of war.

EX-ITALIAN PREMIER SAYS WAR IS INEVITABLE.

LONDON, To-day. The Daily Mail's correspondent at Milan telegraphs: Signor Giolitti, former Premier, who has been against Italy's participation in war, on his arrival in Turin met some intimate friends with the remark: "War is inevitable." To-day the Corriere della Sera publishes articles stating that the hour of Italy's supreme decision approaches, but that there is no alternative to war. I learn that provision already has been made for the lodgings of the General Staff in a certain town at the commencement of the war.

That Double Drowning

BOTH BODIES NOW RECOVERED. Respecting the sad drowning fatality at Fogo, referred to elsewhere in this issue, the subjoined messages have since been received: To Minister of Marine and Fisheries from A. Stone: "Regret report double drowning accident last night of Edward Hodge, second son of John Hodge, and Miss Hopkins, Church of England School teacher; body of latter not yet recovered." To Deputy Minister of Justice from Magistrate Cook, Fogo: "Terrible accident occurred here at 10 o'clock last night. Edward Hodge, son of J. W. Hodge; Miss Hopkins, Church of England teacher, and native of Heart's Content, and Miss Oake, daughter of Hubert Oake, fell through ice in harbor. Miss Oake managed to throw herself on the ice and got ashore and gave alarm, but owing to darkness some time elapsed before help reached the others. Edward Hodge was quickly taken from the bottom and showed some signs of life. Doctor did everything possible to restore him but after working for two hours pronounced life extinct. Search continued for Miss Hopkins' body but it could not be recovered."

Sea Lord's Daily Prayer.

Baron Fisher's Attendance at Church Before Beginning Each Day's Work. (London Daily Mirror.)

Hard-worked as they are, both Lord Kitchener and Lord Fisher, the First Sea Lord, find time for the performance of religious duties. A few weeks ago, says the "Church Family Newspaper," Lord Curzon stated in the House of Lords that Lord Roberts conducted family prayers for his household for over fifty years. "We learn now," continues that journal, "that Lord Fisher, First Sea Lord at the Admiralty, makes a habit of going to a certain church practically every day for prayer and meditation before commencing his responsible duties. "We understand also that Lord Kitchener follows out a similar rule whenever he is in London. "These remarkable examples are calculated to give the nation an increased confidence in the men upon whom so much depends."

Deadly Effect of New German Howitzers

New York, April 5.—What is claimed to be the first accurate information yet given out concerning the big German howitzers was issued by the German information service last night. It gave these details: "Weight of gun about 100 tons; weight of foundation plate, about 40 tons; length of gun barrel, 16 1-2 ft.; weight of projectile, 880 lbs.; length of projectile, 4 feet; gun consists of 172 parts; necessary to transport twelve railroad cars. The foundation plate on which the gun rests is encased in concrete at a depth of twenty-six feet."

"Liege was bombarded from a distance of 14 1/2 miles. The deviation from the exact range was not more than twelve inches. The first shot killed or wounded 1,700 men; the 2nd shot killed or wounded 2,300 men. Namur and Maubege received each two shots. Fort Huy received one shot."

"It takes 25 to 26 hours to mount the gun; it takes six hours to point the gun after the exact range has been established by other guns. The gun is discharged from a distance of a thousand feet. Window panes will break in a radius of 2 1/2 miles. The projectile cost $2,700. The gun crew consist of twenty men."

"The cannoners wear safety caps over mouth eyes and ears, and lie flat on the ground. Mines are planted under the gun, which the engineer is compelled to blow to pieces in case of danger."

Arussian Casualty Lists

Total Up-to-date as Announced Reaches 1,133,061 Men.

Copenhagen, April 5.—Five more Russian casualty lists which have just been published give the names of 3,715 officers and men killed and wounded. This brings the total of Russian losses officially announced up to 1,133,081. To this must be added the names of 167 Bavarian lists, 138 Saxon, 142 Westphalian and 21 naval lists to make a complete total of German losses. Most of the 3,715 Russian losses now announced were sustained in East Prussia and Poland during February. The lists contain the names of six airmen killed, four missing and two wounded.
