THE TEMPTATION.

CHAPTER III. THE STRANGER REMAINS IN MYSTERY, BUT PROVES A FRIEND.

"You were managing clerk to Jansen who went down?"

"Yes; but—"

"But you were not responsible for that you would say. I am not unjust enough to suppose it—nay I know you were not Of late I have had occasion to understand something of Jansen's affairs, and have learned that but for you he would have been down nearly a year before, for a much larger sum. Perhaps you are not aware that we have taken on his American connection?"

"No, sir, I did not know that."

"We have; and I find the business there can be increased very considerably. But it needs special management—it needs, in fact, the attention of a qualified and responsible person should be given to it. You are the very man for the purpose. You are already cognizant of the business which is done and the mode of doing it. The post is yours, if you wish; and the salary is four hundred."

Philip's face flushed with surprise and emotion, and it took all his power of self-command to control himself.

"You hesitate," said Mr. Langton, with a smile. "Does the proposal not meet your views?"

"If I was silent," answered the youth, "it was from surprise and pleasure. I could not expect anything so satisfactory as this. I accept the post, and shall do my very utmost to discharge its duties. But how can I thank you, sir, for being so ready to—"

"Nay," interrupted Mr. Langton. "You have only yourself to thank, and the service you have rendered to the writer of this letter."

"Who is this gentleman, may I ask, sir?"

"That is a question which I am not at liberty to answer," replied the merchant, with another smile. "Some time hence you will know who he is. For the present, it is his wish to remain incognito. Good-bye just now, Mr. Weston. When will you be ready to take your place at the head of the American department?"

"Whenever you wish, sir—to-morrow, if necessary."

"Nay, take a day or two for private arrangement. Come on Monday and be formally installed."

The merchant touched a small bell as he spoke, and immediately the door opened, and the same man who had conducted Philip to the private room presented himself.

"Mr. Hobbs," said the head of the firm, "this is Mr. Philip Weston, our new manager of the American department. Good-bye again, for the present, sir."

Very considerably astonished was Mr. Hobbs at the cordiality with which the great Mr. Langton treated the youth, and the respect he manifested towards him as he showed him out was correspondingly great.

"Would you like to see the American warehouse?" asked the astonished official.

"Well, I should like just to take a look through it," answered Philip, almost mechanically, and in the same state of semi-lethargy he followed his guide through the long rows of warehouses, and, framed for the moment by the one corrupting thought that he would now be enabled to make Annabel his wife.

BREAKFAST.—Epps's Cocoa.—GRAVEYEL AND CONSULTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many doctors' bills.—This service Gazette. Made simply with Boiling Water or Milk. Each packet is labelled—'JAMES EPPS & Co., Homoeopathic Chemists, London.'"

MANUFACTURE OF COCOA.—"We will now give an account of the process adopted by Messrs. James Epps & Co., manufacturers of delicate articles, at their works in the Easton Road, London."—See article in Cassell's Household Guide. 3206mdw

LEON IN THE BLOOD.—"When the blood is well supplied with its iron element, we feel vigorous and full of animation. It is an insufficiency of this vital element that makes us feel weak and low spirited; in such cases, the Peruvian Syrup (a protoxide of iron) can supply this deficiency, and its use will invigorate us most wonderfully."

R. C. Barnes, Junction City, Kansas, writes that Fellow's Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites is selling rapidly, and creating great excitement on account of the cures it is effecting.

PETRIE'S NEW

DRUG STORE

Nearly opposite the Old Stand.

NOW OPEN.

Mr. PETRIE takes this opportunity to thank the Public for their large and liberal support during the seven years he has been in business in Guelph.

The New Store is the one formerly occupied by Mr. H. Berry, and lately by Mr. J. B. Porter, as a Confectionery Store. The store has been enlarged and refitted, making it a much more desirable place of business than the old stand.

Having secured the new store for a term of Ten Years, I hope, with the assistance of the Public, to present in the future as I have done during the past seven years, any monopoly in the Drug Trade in Guelph.

The old store will remain open for business until the first of May.

By conducting my business in the future in the same upright principle as in the past, I trust to receive a continuance of your generous support.

I am, yours very truly,

A. B. PETRIE.
