The Great Liberal Demonstration at Newcastle-on-Tyne.

Gladstone as Great a Popular Favorite as Ever.

Experiments on Monkeys Prove the Evil of Liquor—Russian Army Movements—Bungling in the British Army—Maneuvers—New Volume by Tennyson—A Coming Great Horse Race.

LONDON, Oct. 4.—The meeting of the National Federation at Newcastle has been the occasion for a remarkable demonstration of Radical enthusiasm. Nothing equal to it has been witnessed since the long fight against Tory misgovernment commenced more than four years ago, and it affords one more striking proof of the cheerful confidence in the coming triumph which prevails in this party from its great chief down to the humblest man of the rank and file. The demonstration culminated last night in the vast meeting at which Mr. Gladstone delivered a speech, in which he formulated the new Liberal programme upon which the people of England will pass judgment at the general elections next year. The speech was therefore of exceptional importance, and the comments upon it from the Liberal newspapers prove that from the Liberal point of view it is all that could be desired. Up to last night it had been Mr. Gladstone's custom to confine his speeches outside of Parliament almost entirely to the Irish question, but at Newcastle the feeling, as he told his hearers, that the country had made up its mind upon home rule, and that the day of the Liberal in a measure distant, was so general that he felt called upon to say something about various other important reforms ripe for settlement as soon as justice had been done to Ireland.

THEY DON'T LIKE IT.
The Tories are positively frantic with rage over this programme, not new in itself, but freshly put before the country, and which home rule is British reform. They had imagined, guileless creatures as they are, that in the coming fight justice to Ireland would be the solitary Liberal battle-cry, which might be met by the slogan of "The empire in danger." They had momentarily forgotten that the Grand Old Man is not only the greatest statesman and orator, but the most skillful parliamentary and political strategist in this country. This fact has been brought home to them with peculiar force, and their chagrin to-day is grateful and comforting to every true reformer.

GLADSTONE'S APPEARANCE.
Mr. Gladstone spoke for an hour and a quarter, and though his voice was at times somewhat husky, it served him well to the end. To the ordinary observer there was nothing in his personal appearance to justify the forebodings to which reference was made here last week; but several reporters, who boast that they have been present at every one of Mr. Gladstone's public engagements since 1835, declare that Friday night's speech lacked fire, and that his voice betrayed mental weakness and physical feebleness. On Saturday the Grand Old Man showed no trace of fatigue, and there was no deterioration of oratorical powers in the short, graceful speech which he delivered in acknowledgment of the conferment upon him of the freedom of the city of Newcastle. The speech was devoted in part to a rebuke of the American tariff makers, but he spoke more at length and in anger. Gladstone reached his home at Hawarden this evening in good health and spirits.

THE LIBERAL SUCCESSION.
Politicians are talking of the significant incident which marked the closing scene of the great demonstration at Newcastle on Friday night and which was wrecked, as it was probably intended to do, the Tory hope of a light among Gladstone's lieutenants for the Liberal leadership which he shall have relinquished. When Gladstone sat down Sir William Vernon Harcourt rose and moved a vote of thanks to the chairman. As John Morley was in the room, which he received precedence in such a matter, but he promptly and gracefully seconded the motion, remarking amid uproarious cheering and applause that Sir William Vernon Harcourt is likely to move that I am not a few moments later to second it.

AMONG THE QUESTIONS.
Among the questions which Mr. Gladstone on Friday night placed in the list of those demanding early settlement was that of the reform of the electoral registration laws, which are at present in such a chaotic condition that it is troublesome and expensive for a fully qualified man to get his name on the list of voters. Other legends to be written on the banners which the Liberal host will march under have been decided upon. In the front rank will be, "One Man One Vote," "Shorter Parliaments," "Salaries for Members," and "Disestablishment of the Welsh Church." Mr. Schnadhorst has talked to American press agency about Scotch disestablishment being also on the tapis. This is with its paws on the kirk will be left to his dreams as long as possible.

SOUND FOR HOME RULE.
The Freeman's Journal of Dublin says: "No man, after reading Mr. Gladstone's speech, can doubt for a moment his intention to pass a measure for home rule that will be satisfactory to the Irish people with all the dispatch that the laws of the country will admit."

TO BE REFORMED OR ABOLISHED.
But while the English papers call for an out-and-out expression on the labor question, and the Irish applaud home rule utterances, aristocratic circles are astounded by the demand for the abolition of the House of Lords. The declaration that the Upper House shall be done away with is discussed in the Irish by nothing short of treason. It is amusing to see retired admirals and generals fretting and fuming over the daring impudence of the common people, who thus undertake to assail one of the cherished institutions of the monarchy. Mr. Gladstone's speech, threatening the immediate extinction of the House in case it should hold out against any Irish scheme

Rule bill, has made the noble lords even angrier than before.

It is said that a movement is on foot, prompted by Lord Salisbury, to abolish the House of Lords in the good opinion of the nation by inducing the peers of the better class to be regular in their attendance. He believes in mending, not ending. The average daily attendance at sessions of the House of Lords is not over 40 in a peerage numbering 600 to 700. Among the absentees are most of the men who really have the prestige and family or personal standing that would make their acts as legislators influential with the people.

THE FREEDOM OF THE CITY.
The Town Hall at Newcastle on Saturday presented an animated spectacle, the occasion being the presentation of the freedom of the city to Mr. Gladstone. The building was packed, the ladies present almost equalling the gentlemen in numbers. Members of Parliament who had taken part in the proceedings of the National Liberal deliberations, Lord Armstrong, inventor of the Armstrong gun, Bishop Wilberforce of Newcastle, Sir Isaac Lowthian Bell and majority of the corporation of Newcastle had seats on the platform.

As Mr. Gladstone entered, accompanied by the mayor and mayors of Newcastle, and John Morley, the immense audience greeted him with prolonged cheering. Mr. Gladstone and his party proceeded to the platform. The mayor delivered a long eulogy of the life and work of Mr. Gladstone, and declared Newcastle did itself honor in honoring the great Liberal leader. He then presented Mr. Gladstone with the parchment, making him a citizen of Newcastle, and the latter signed his name to the list of freemen of the city. Mr. Gladstone then spoke in praise of local self-government and of free trade. He was enthusiastically cheered. Upon leaving the Town Hall Mr. Gladstone received an ovation from an immense concourse of people, and after luncheon he started for Hawarden.

AS POPULAR AS EVER.
It is curious to witness the solitude of friends to prevent the crowds from worshipping Mr. Gladstone. The ex-Premier's popularity was evidently never greater than at the present moment. Mrs. Gladstone hovers near him constantly, anxious to see that he does not exhaust his strength. Several of the friends who accompany the aged statesman are engaged in warding off the hands of the press, who are in public. THE LATEST EXCITING NOVEL.

Sir James Ferguson has introduced into the Manchester election contest a comical variation of an old electoral device. Instead of kissing babies, with a view to winning the husbands through the wives, he has been appealing to the sporting instincts of the Lancashire men, and this afternoon, in the presence of thousands of spectators, he kicked off the ball at the opening of the football match between two local clubs.

MONKEYS AND LIQUOR.
Correspondence is proceeding in the scintillating columns of the Standard upon the question whether it is right and proper to give intoxicating liquors to monkeys. The discussion would have been valuable had it resulted in nothing more than the discovery of a new method of poisoning monkeys.

THE NAME OF "UNIONISM" BELIEVED.
Mr. Gladstone has written a letter to Mr. Scott, of Manchester, in support of the latter's candidature for member of Parliament for the northeast division of that city. Mr. Gladstone says that his good wishes do not imply animosity to Mr. Scott's antagonist, James Ferguson, but the Government's policy which believes in "Unionism," continues Mr. Gladstone, "by creating division between two countries who are united by the strength of the empire. There will surely be incapacity in Parliament to grapple with questions of legislation, on all of which a decision is loudly demanded, as long as it is impeded by controversy of the Irish problem. All considerations are absorbed in the importance of closing this fruitless controversy that divides the country."

A PORK COMPANY FAILS.
The Servian Bacon Curing Company, formed with large capital for the purpose of supplying Europe with pig products, has come to an untimely end, and the stockholders are talking of prosecuting the promoters. The Servian was to have replaced the American hog, and there was to have been a company in Chicago in this hemisphere. But the company failed to fulfill the terms of its Government concession, which was consequently cancelled, and the company is now in the bankruptcy court. The stockholders are now endeavoring to find out what has become of their money, which has disappeared in an unaccountable manner.

ENGLISH ARMY MANUEVERS.
Further proof has been given of the farcical character of the recent British army maneuvers in Hampshire by a discovery, tardily made and much too late by the Lancet, the chief medical newspaper here, that there was no field hospital organized and working in connection with them. The battles were fought and hundreds of men were theoretically killed and wounded, but hospitals were regarded apparently as unnecessary encumbrances.

ROUGHERNESS ON JEALOUSY.
The friends of Ashmun Bartlett entertain very faint hopes of his name being disassociated from the Hoxie divorce suit, although there are other co-respondents. Bartlett's name is politically the most prominent in the case, and the disavowal about might effectually end his political career, the Scotch judges have practically decided to hear the case in private. Lady Blanche totally ignores the charges made against her, which she says are entirely due to the unreasoning jealousy of her husband.

A BIG HORSE RACE.
The match which Blundell Maple seeks to break by running the crack 3-year-old Common against Queen's Birthday in two races for a wager of £5,000 for each race is attracting much interest among sportsmen, but the owner of Queen's Birthday, Major Joyce, declines to run at a mile and a half, though he is quite willing to run at two miles, reducing the stakes to £1,000 a side, which the winner should hand over to some charity. Maple has this now under consideration, and as he lives by advertising, it is possible that he will make some sacrifice to accept it.

TRUENESS IN THE EAST.
Considerable uneasiness has been created in diplomatic circles by a dispatch received this evening from Philippolis stating that grave fears are entertained there at the prospects of the outbreak of a formidable insurrection. An English Liberal member of Parliament desires to have the trouble due to M. Stambouloff, the Bulgarian Premier, who, he alleges, is trying to create a corrupt oligarchy evoked.

THE HEART OF THE VIOLET.
Published reports of the week confirm what was said in these dispatches recently about the serious physical condition of the Princess Beatrice, youngest daughter of Queen Victoria and wife of Prince Henry of Battenberg, has been ordered to a sanatorium.

ANOTHER GRANDSON FOR THE QUEEN.
Princess Beatrice, youngest daughter of Queen Victoria and wife of Prince Henry of Battenberg, has been ordered to a sanatorium. The Queen's health is said to be improving, and it is expected that she will be able to undertake more of her duties.

ST. PETERSBURG DISPATCHES SAY THAT THE RESERVES IN THE SOUTH OF RUSSIA HAVE BEEN CALLED OUT FOR A THREE-WEEKS' DRILL. PARTS OF THEM WILL PROBABLY REMAIN IN THE SOUTH FOR A LONGER PERIOD.

A CONTRACT HAS BEEN CONCLUDED BY THE SIME-EDISON ELECTRIC TORPEDO COMPANY, BY WHICH SIR WILLIAM G. ARMSTRONG, MITCHELL & CO., BEGIN AT ONCE THE MANUFACTURE OF TORPEDOES FOR GREAT BRITAIN AND THE COLONIES.

At last "Gen." Booth has been brought into quasi-official relations with the English war office, according to one of the London papers, has been offered 30,000 worn-out military helmets, which have lain since the Egyptian war as so much lumber in the army stores.

A MISER'S TRAGIC END.
A Vienna dispatch says that Count Esterhazy has been found drowned in the Danube, near Pressburg. He fell with his carriage, horses and driver over a dam eight feet high.

A VIOLENCE IN THE LONDON COUNCIL.
The London Council, which is a body of 17 members, has been the scene of a curious story. He says the count compelled him to drive across a field leading to the river in spite of his protests, but the general among those who escaped, he had fastened in the carriage when it started was found loose on the river bank, and partly rifled, points to robbery with the conviction of the countess. The countess, however, was not in the carriage, and the Government's policy which believes in "Unionism," continues Mr. Gladstone, "by creating division between two countries who are united by the strength of the empire. There will surely be incapacity in Parliament to grapple with questions of legislation, on all of which a decision is loudly demanded, as long as it is impeded by controversy of the Irish problem. All considerations are absorbed in the importance of closing this fruitless controversy that divides the country."

Learned but Dishonest.
NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—James Cox, aged 60, a well-known public accountant, mysteriously disappeared from his home in Brooklyn last July. All his friends were amazed the other day to hear that he was charged with embezzling $15,000 from the American Horse Exchange of this city. Cox spoke strange languages and could translate them into English. He had a library valued at $15,000. Detectives traced Cox to California, but then lost the clue.

His offer consists of one main building to cost in the neighborhood of $425,000, and a number of branches distributed throughout the city, the total cost of which shall be $300,000. The matter has been left in the hands of a board of trustees. The best interests of the country have been asked to compete for the plans.

The Governor of Maryland and the Assistant Adjutant-General of the State of St. Jacobs O. A. is a good reason.

A BARROOM TRAGEDY.

An Old Man Killed at Strathroy.

The Result of a Drunken Brawl—Arrest of the Victim's Assassin.

STRATHROY, Oct. 5.—Richard Upton, a well-known resident of Strathroy and Adelaide, aged about 80 years, about 5 o'clock on Friday evening was pushed into the Western Hotel, kept by Peter Fitzpatrick. While there he met William Wilson, of Metcalf, a powerful young man of about 35 years of age, and a son of the late Francis Wilson, who was for a long time bailiff of the Sixth Division Court. They were drinking together, when an altercation arose between them, Upton using insulting language towards Wilson. It is said Wilson pushed him away from him, which caused him to fall and strike his head on a large spittoon, fracturing his skull, which was the cause of his death.

Dr. Lindsay examined the body on Saturday. The bartender, John Fitzpatrick, was examined. He said Wilson pushed him gently. The inquest was adjourned until this morning. Wilson was arrested.

THE INQUEST.
Another account says: On Friday afternoon Edward Upton, about 50 years of age, who has been a resident of Strathroy for some time back, and previously a farmer of the township of Adelaide, met with a tragic death here. The circumstances were such that the coroner, Lindsay, held an inquest on Saturday. After the jury had viewed the body, which was then lying in the house of John McGarry, son-in-law of the deceased, the evidence of John Fitzpatrick, bartender at the Western Hotel, where the fatal blows were sustained, was taken.

Wm. Wilson, a farmer of the township of Metcalf, about 35 years of age, was arrested, charged with being the cause of the old man's death, and was present at the inquest.

Fitzpatrick deposed that on Friday afternoon Upton came into the bar some time after 2 o'clock and had three drinks of whisky within half an hour. Wilson was there also. The two of them joined in the last two drinks, the one treating the other. They were chatting together quite friendly, and apparently on the best of terms. At length Wilson made the remark, referring to Fitzpatrick: "Now, I like that boy! I have known him a long time." Upton replied: "You have known him longer than you have." Wilson said: "No, you haven't, Dad." Upton then said: "You're a liar, you don't you repeat those words. I respect gray hairs, but don't say that again." Wilson then said: "Now go away from me," and gave the old man a push, which he fell on the floor. Wilson then struck at once from behind the bar, and found Wilson raising the old man up. He was conveyed into an adjoining room. While this was going on no one else was in the bar. Being asked if Wilson was under the influence of liquor, Fitzpatrick replied, "He was pretty full."

A post-mortem examination was held by Doctors Hoar and McCabe while the inquest was proceeding. A severe blow was found over the right eye, another behind the ear. Being asked if Wilson was under the influence of liquor, Fitzpatrick replied, "He was pretty full."

THE BUSINESS OUTLOOK.
In the United States and the Dominion.
NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Rather less activity in the general line of distribution than had been expected continues to be reported in special telegrams to Bradstreet's, although particularly at the west and northwest there is a good deal of confidence displayed that the recent orders will soon meet all anticipation. Colder weather will stimulate general trade greatly. The New York money market is close in spite of heavy receipts of gold from Europe. Exchange is still at the gold importing point. Exports of wheat from the United States for the week ending Oct. 1, both coasts, have declined sharply, aggregating (with flour as wheat) only 3,405,982 bushels, against 4,711,000 bushels the week before. In the concluding week of September for three preceding years, like exports did not vary much from 1,600,000 bushels. Exports from United States ports and Montreal this week were 3,759,091 bushels; in the like week, 1890, a little more than 40 per cent. Shipments of wheat by farmers west and northwest are falling off, and interest revives as to the extent they may carry such restriction.

IN CANADA.
In the Province of Quebec, Dominion of Canada, orders for staple goods are not coming in as freely as previously, and are promptly as desired. Exports of wheat from Montreal are checked. Exports of wheat from Montreal are checked. Exports of wheat from Montreal are checked.

A ROW IN ROME

Between French Pilgrims and Victor Emmanuel's Admirers.

ROME, Oct. 3.—Yesterday a company of pilgrims, after having been received by the Pope, visited the notable sanctuaries of the city. While they were at the Pantheon they manifested open disrespect of the tomb of King Victor Emmanuel, and some of the bystanders protested vigorously. One word led to another and a row between the pilgrims and the defenders of Victor Emmanuel followed. The church attendants summoned the police, who placed three of the pilgrims under arrest. When the news spread through Rome bands of young men began to gather in many quarters and marched in procession through the streets singing anti-clerical and patriotic airs, and hooting and hissing at any pilgrims who chanced across their path. The processions marched to the hotel of the pilgrims and loudly demanded that the Italian flag be displayed. The proprietors were quick to accede to this demand, and when the national flag appeared the crowd raised an enthusiastic shout. At the same time the groans for the pilgrims were redoubled. After several hours of uproarious marching the processions dispersed. The pilgrims who caused the original trouble were French.

WITH THE WORKINGMEN.

A Plea For the Chaudiere Strikers.

TORONTO, Oct. 3.—Last night's meeting of the Trades and Labor Council Mr. Patterson, of Ottawa, explained the situation on the Chaudiere among the striking lumbermen, whose grievance, he said, was a serious one and deserving of the support of the labor unions all over the country. The men had been ground down till they could not stand it any longer. The mill-owners had deceived the public when they said that there had been no profit in the trade, and their object in reducing wages was to take advantage of a large influx of labor into Ottawa during the year. In Porter's mill alone, with 28 mills which cut from 300,000 to 350,000 feet per day, the saving in the export duty to the States—reduced from $2 to $1 per 1,000 feet—would be sufficient to pay all the wages of the men. The strikers were confident of entire victory and were standing by each other. If the strike were won it meant the addition within six months of 40,000 to 50,000 to the ranks of organized labor.

QUEBEC, Oct. 3.—T. V. Powderly, general master workman of the Knights of Labor; J. A. Hayes, general secretary; A. W. Wright and John Devlin, members of the Executive Board, arrived here yesterday afternoon from Montreal. They are on an official trip through Canada on business connected with their order.

On which were about twenty men on their road to work, ran off the track at Burlington yesterday. Vernon Addison had his leg badly cut near the hip and ankle, and another man had his head cut and his back hurt. The injured men were taken to the Hamilton City Hospital.

Those Alleged Reciprocity Negotiations.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 3.—The statement is made here that the United States has decided to postpone indefinitely the proposed conference with Canada on the reciprocity question. One report has it that this is owing to Secretary Blaine's ill-health, and another that it is due to an indisposition on the part of the United States Government to talk reciprocity with the present administration in Ottawa.
