The man took the pipe from his mouth, looked around at the woman, and, after giving her a good, long stare, remarked, "Is that so?' He reasoned that as the smoking car was made to smoke in and as the woman had no business there, she could stand his tobacco. After his reasoning he placed the pipe in his mouth again and began to puff great volumes of smoke. The woman became almost speechless with rage. She stood it as long as she could and finally her indignation got the better of her discretion. She deliberately rose from her seat, reached forward and grabbed the pipe from the man's lips. Before

SHOCKING DEATH OF A DEMENT-

ED WOMAN. Waterford, Ont., May 19 .- On Saturday evening last, a shocking fatality occurred on the 4th concession of the Indian reservation to Mrs. Elijah Monture. About 7 o'clock wild shrieks were heard to proceed from the home of Mrs. Elijah Monture by the husband and a couple of friends, who stood conversing on the road in front of the house. As the woman had for ten days previous shown unmistakable signs of mental derangement, at times becoming violent, little attention was of her death by drowning during a paid to her cries at first. Flashes of light appeared at the windows and the light appeared at the windows and the look appeared at the windows and the look appeared at the windows and the look appeared at the look appe cries becoming more agonizing, the men went to the door, and finding it locked, burst it open. The unfortunate woman was found to be enveloped in flames, rushing madly about in a vain endeavor to get out, while her aged father-in-law was trying to put out the fire by throwing water over her. The men with difficulty succeeded in extinguishing the flames, but not until the victim was so badly burned, The Happy Experience of a Napance that after a night of terrible agony she died next morning. Checking the Ravages of Kidney Disease.

Kidney troubles are most dangerous because of their tendency to carry the disease to other organs of the body until such a state of weakness is reached that the disease eats down the living tissues more rapidly than the strength of the patient will enable him to rebuild them.

But the greatest mathematicians sions. But the greatest mathematicians are said to attain to the conception of a fourth dimension, and it is certain that some people possess a rudimentary and mysterious faculty of perception, which is distinct from the familiar five, says the London Globe. According to Dr. Javal, the blind Parisian physician, it is the development of this latent sixth sense which serves to compensate the blind for their loss of sight even more than an increased alertness of hearing and of touch. The seat of this rudimentary sense is in the head; to some of its possessors it appears more definitementary sense is in the flead, to some of its possessors it appears more definite-ly in the forehead, while other localize it in the interior of the ear. Hoping to get rid of them gradually, he destroyed one of their largest nests, and in order that they might not enter it again, surrounded the fragments with sheets of flypaper.

The ants would have to pass over this paper if they wanted to rebuild their nest, and he argued that their feet would certainly be caught in the sticky substance.

Next morning, however, he discovered Next morning, however, he discovered that the ants were not quite such fools as he supposed them to be. Instead of venturing on the stickly flypaper they had spent the hours of the night in covering it with grass and dirt, and when this was done they had crowded back to the ruined nest and speedily rebuilt it. Dr. Schroeder vouches for the truth of this story, and says that he has in his possession a portion of the flypaper.

"Every Child Her Own Solomon" is a text that may come up for discussion in some of the clubs after the color question is disposed of, now that little Miss Kohlsaat has argued and won a case of her own. The little girl lost a much-beloved pet dog some time back, and recently saw it riding in a carriage with a handsomely gowned woman. The carriage was going very slowly, and near the pavement, and the little girl delightfully called her pet by name. With a whine of joy, the animal sprang from the vehicle, and, running to little Miss Kohlsaat, began jumping about her and licking her hands for sheer joy.
"You can't have my dog, little girl," called the woman from her carriage, which had now drawn rein beside the "But this is my dog," said little Miss Kohlsaat. "No, it is my dog," said the woman. "I'll prove that it is mine," replied little Miss Kohlsaat with the blood born of determination and justice. By this time quite a crowd of children and passers-by had collected, and the girl, with the dog in her arms, faced her antagonist as a lawyer faces a jury. "Can your dog stand up and beg?"

said she. "Yes," answered the woman. "Can he jump through a hoop?" "Yes." "Can he lie down and play dead?" "Yes." "Can he dance on his hind feet?" "Yes.

"Can he say his prayers?" "Yes." Closing her arms tightly about the dog and starting to walk away, the child cried triumphantly:

"Well, my dog can't. He is mine, And she won .- Chicago Evening Post.

Scotch Wit. [London News.]

The People's Friend cites the following as a sample of "characteristic Scottish wit-keen, grim and caustic": A certain parishioner dealt in old horses, altering his spells of labor with heavy sprees. During the period of depression which followed each over indulgence John habitually took to bed, and there diligently studied the family Bible. During one of these fits of attempted reformation his condition prompted his wife to call in the Rev. Mr. Wallace, the parish minister, who at the time happened to be passing. "Oh, Maister Wallace, come in and see oor John; he's rale bad."

"What's wrang wi' him?" "He's feart to meet his Makker," said Mrs. John. Quick as fire came the crushing re-"Humph; tell'm he needna be feart for that; he'll never see'm." There are some good stories of this kind in Dr. John Kerr's "Memories, Grave and Gay," just published by Messrs. Blackwood. Here is one: She had just lost her husband, and the minister calling to condole with her found her sitting in front of a large bowl of porridge. "Terrible loss, terrible loss," sighed the minister. "Aye," was the reply, "it's a terrible less to me. I've just been greetin' a' nicht, and as sune as I finish this wee drap porridge, I'm just gaun to begin Impossible for anyone to have an appetite for alcoholic liquors after using Colonial Remedy. Indorsed by Members of W. C. T. U. in United States.

United States.

Mrs. Moore, superintendent of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, Ventura, Cal., Writes: "I have tested Colonial Remedy on very obstinated drunkards, and the cures have been many. In many cases the Remedy was given secretly. I cheerfully recommend and indorse Colonial Remedy. Members of our Union are delighted to find a practical and economical treatment to aid us in our temperance work."

Mrs. A. M. Townsend (for years secretary of the W. C. T. U.), Boston, Mass., states: "I know of so many people redeemed from the curse of drink by the use of Colonial Remedy, that I earnestly request you to give it a trial."
