

THE HOLLOW OF HER HAND

By GEORGE BARR McCUTCHEON
Author of "Graustark," "Truxton King," Etc.

"And this one is red, madam," said the sheriff, with a glance at the corner. Drake nodded his head. Mrs. Wrandall's body stiffened perceptibly, as if reflecting a blow. "It is still standing in the garage, where he left it on his arrival."

"Did no one see the face of the woman?" asked Mrs. Wrandall, rather querulously. "It seems odd that no one should have seen her face," she went on without waiting for an answer.

"It's not strange, madam, when you consider all the circumstances. She was very careful not to remove her veil or her coat until the door was locked. That proves that she was not the sort of woman we usually find gallivanting around with men regardless of whom they see. Your pardon. This must be very distressing to you."

"I am not sure, Mr. Sheriff, that it is my husband who lies up there. Please remember that," she said steadily. "It is easier to hear the details now, before I know than it will be afterward if I should turn out to be as Mr. Drake declares."

"I see," said the sheriff, marvelling. "Besides, Mr. Drake is not positive," he put in the corner helpfully.

"I am reasonably certain," said Drake. "Then all the more reason why I should have the story first," said she, with a smile that no one failed to observe.

The sheriff resumed his conclusions. "Women of the kind I referred to a moment ago don't care whether they're seen or not. In fact, they're rather brazen about it. But this one was different. She was as far from that as it was possible for her to be. We haven't been able to find anyone who saw her face or who can give the least idea as to what she looks like, excepting a general description of her figure, her carriage, and the out-door garments she wore. We have reason to believe she was young. She was modestly dressed. Her coat was one of those ulster affairs, such as a woman uses in motoring or on a sea voyage. There was a small sable stole about her neck. The skirt was short, and she wore high black shoes of the thick walking type. Judging from Burton's description she must have been about your size and figure, Mrs. Wrandall. Isn't that so, Mrs. Burton?"

The inn-keeper's wife spoke. "Yes, Mr. Harbison, I'd judge; rather slim and graceful-like, in spite of the big coat." Mrs. Wrandall was watching the woman's face. "I am five feet six," she said, as if answering a question.

The sheriff cleared his throat somewhat hesitantly.

"Burton says she acted as if she were a lady," he went on. "Not the kind that usually comes out here on such expeditions. He admits she did not speak to anyone, except once in very low tones to the man she was with, and then she was standing by the fireplace out in the main office, quite a distance from the desk. She went upstairs alone, and he gave some orders to Burton before following her. That was the last time Burton saw her. The waitress went up with a specially prepared supper about half an hour later."

"It seems quite clear, Mrs. Wrandall, that she robbed the man after stabbing him," said the sheriff.

Mrs. Wrandall started. "Then she was not a lady, after all," she said quickly. "There was a note of relief in her voice. It was as if she had put aside a half-formed conclusion."

"His pockets were empty. Not a penny had been left. Watch, cuff-links, scarf pin, cigarette case, purse and bill folder all gone. Burton had seen most of these articles in the office."

"Isn't it—but not? Why should I be the one to offer a suggestion that might be construed as a defence for this woman?"

"You were about to suggest, madam, that some one else might have taken the valuables—is that it?" cried the sheriff.

"Had you thought of it, Mr. Sheriff?"

"No, not at all. It isn't reasonable. No one about this place is suspected. We have thought of this, however: the murderer may have taken all of these things away with her in order to prevent immediate identification of her victim. She may have been clever enough for that."

"Not an unreasonable conclusion, when you stop to consider, Mr. Sheriff, that the man took the initiative in that very particular," said Mrs. Wrandall in such a self-contained way that the three men looked at her in wonder. Then she came sharply to her feet. "It is very late, gentlemen. I am ready to go upstairs, Mr. Sheriff."

"I shall not faint, D. Sheef. If it is my husband I shall expect you to leave me alone in the room with him for a little while." The final word trailed into a low, tremulous wail, showing how near she was to the breaking point in her wonderful effort at self-control. The men looked away hastily. They heard her draw two or three deep, quivering breaths; they could almost feel the tension that she was exercising over herself.

"The doctor turned away after a moment and spoke very gently, but with professional firmness. 'You must not think of venturing out in this wretched night, madam. It would be the worst kind of folly. Surely you will be guided by me by your own common sense. Mrs. Burton will be with you—'

"Thank you, Dr. Sheef," she interposed, calmly. "If what we all fear should turn out to be the truth, I could not stay here. I could not breathe. I could not live. If, on the other hand, Mr. Drake is mistaken, I shall stay. But if it is my husband, I cannot remain under the same roof with him, even though he be dead. I do not expect you to understand my feelings. It would be asking too much of men—too much."

"I think I understand," murmured Drake.

"Come," said the sheriff, arousing himself with an effort. "If what we all fear should turn out to be the truth, I could not stay here. I could not breathe. I could not live. If, on the other hand, Mr. Drake is mistaken, I shall stay. But if it is my husband, I cannot remain under the same roof with him, even though he be dead. I do not expect you to understand my feelings. It would be asking too much of men—too much."

a chilly blast of air blew upon the faces of those in the hall. The curtains in the window of the room were flapping and whipping in the wind. Mrs. Wrandall caught her breath. For the briefest instant, it seemed as though she was on the point of fainting. She dropped forward, her head striking her knees and, suddenly, she was lying on the floor, her hands and feet stiff, her hand going out to the wall as if for support. The next moment she was moving forward resolutely into the very dimly lighted room.

A single electric light gleamed in the corner beside the bureau. Near the window stood the bed. She went swiftly toward it, her eyes fastened upon the ridge that ran through the centre of it; a still, white ridge that seemed without beginning or end.

With nervous fingers, the attendant lifted the sheet at the head of the bed and turned it back. She let it fall across the chest of the dead man, he drew back and turned his face away.

She bent forward and then straightened her figure to its full height, without for an instant removing her gaze from the face of the man who lay before her, a dark-haired man gray in death, who must have been beautiful to look upon in the flush of life.

For a long time she stood there looking, as motionless as the object on which she gazed. Behind her were the teeming, teeming men, not one of whom seemed to breathe during the grim minutes that passed. The wind howled about the corners of the inn, but no one heard it. They heard the beating of their watches, even the ticking of their watches, but not the wail of the wind.

To Be Continued.

Many people fail to understand the significance of a lame, weak, sore or aching back.

When the back aches or becomes weak it is a warning that the kidneys are affected in some way.

Take notice to the warning and cure the backache on the first sign, for if you don't do this, serious complications are sure to arise and perhaps develop into Dropsy, Diabetes or Bright's Disease, the three most deadly forms of kidney trouble.

Doan's Kidney Pills will strengthen the weak back, and prevent any form of kidney trouble entering the system.

Mrs. Ed. Boyer, Nokomis, Sask., writes: "I have been troubled with weak back and kidneys. I had terrible dizzy headaches, and could not sleep at night. In this way I suffered for ten years, until I read about Doan's Kidney Pills. I purchased two boxes, and as they helped me, I sent for two more; they put me on my feet, and I have been able to work ever since."

Doan's Kidney Pills are 50 cents a box, or 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers, or mailed direct, receipt of price by "The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont."

WANTS ABOLITION OF BARS IN MANITOBA

Member of Legislature Charges Flagrant Violation of Law.

[Canadian Press.]
Ottawa, Jan. 13.—The bilingual school question was the chief topic of discussion at the sessions of the French-Canadian Educational Congress of Ontario today.

"We hope that the Ontario department of education will understand that we are not fighting for the sake of fighting," said Mr. C. S. O. Boudreau, of Ottawa, in his annual address. "For a political point of view, but to gain something which we believe to be our rights."

"We want all our children to learn the English language, but we do not want them to lose their mother tongue," said Rev. Father Charlebois, superior of the Oblate Fathers in Canada, of Montreal, also dealt with the bilingual question, and strongly appealed to the members of the society to fight resolutely to have the French children taught their own language.

WHAT TORONTO NEEDS IN FIRE PROTECTION

New York Specialists Urge Prevention Board and Training School.

[Canadian Press.]
Toronto, Jan. 13.—A report on Toronto's fire-fighting service, the first section of the city's fire survey, carried out by the New York bureau of municipal research at the instigation of the committee of one hundred citizens, was made public today.

Among a number of changes recommended are the following: The appointment of a fire commissioner, the establishment of a training school for firemen, the appointment of a fire prevention commission, additions to the brigade, the placing underground of all wires in the congested portions of the city, and definite rules governing appointments and promotions.

OBJECT TO WINNIPEG DRAINING WATERSHED

Kenora and Other Municipalities Oppose Water Supply Plan.

[Canadian Press.]
Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—Arguments were made today before the International Joint Commission against granting authority to the city of Winnipeg, Manitoba, to obtain its water supply from the Lake of the Woods, which has a water shed of some 26,000 square miles in the United States and the Dominion.

Both the Canadian and United States governments have assented to the Winnipeg water project, but under the treaty the commission has the right to overrule the decision if it finds the plan detrimental to boundary waters or to the people who live on them.

Injury to Kenora.

Objection was made to Winnipeg's request today by representatives of the city of Kenora, at the mouth of the Lake of the Woods. They asserted that if Winnipeg was granted permission to tap the Lake of the Woods their municipal plan would be injured. The Winnipeg plan would take about one hundred million gallons a day from the Lake of the Woods and transport it about 90 miles to the city of Winnipeg. Opponents of the scheme argue that the project will tap Shoal Lake, a distinct body of water from Lake of the Woods, entirely within Canada, and therefore not subject to the authority of the commission.

The commission today extended until February 24 the time for hearing argument on the application of the Michigan Power Company to continue its diversion of the waters of the St. Mary's River at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.

SPLIT ON ARBITRATION

Conference on Sea Safety is in a Deadlock.

[Canadian Press.]
London, Jan. 13.—The International Conference on Safety of Life at Sea, which has been holding its sessions here since last November is in danger of splitting on the same rock that wrecked the first international commission called in 1899 to settle the complications arising from the Alaskan boundary.

"PRIEST" GOT GOOD MAUL.

Ottawa, Jan. 13.—Peter Foudra, who for three months has been posing in the Polish colony here as a missionary priest, has disappeared with about $3,000 collected from his countrymen and others for the purpose of erecting a church. Suspicion was aroused Sunday when the supposed missionary was missed by his Polish friends.

FOSTER THINKS HE CAN GO DRAYTON ONE BETTER

Proposes to Take Up Question of Ocean Freight Rates Again.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Ottawa, Jan. 13.—One member of the Canadian Government is not satisfied that the last word has been said on the question of ocean freight rates.

Hon. George R. Foster thinks that he can do better with the problem than H. L. Drayton, chairman of the railway commission, who went to England this summer at the Government's request.

Mr. Drayton reported that the British Government would do nothing because the question had been referred to the Dominion trade commission. Mr. Foster is a member of this commission, but he does not propose to let the question remain entirely in its hands.

He is in England now, and is understood to have urged the British Government to take up the question of freight control with France, Germany, the United States, and other great maritime nations with the view of having an international commission given supervision and control of ocean freight rates as the railroad rates of Canada and the United States are now controlled by the railway commission here and the interstate commerce commission.

FRANCE WILL RAISE BIG SUM FOR ARMY

Annual Tax Upon Capital to Secure $38,000,000—Deputies Hear of Plan

[Canadian Press.]
Paris, Jan. 13.—The French cabinet's project to meet the immense additions to the military expenses of the country by an annual tax upon capital was laid before the Chamber of Deputies when it reassembled today. It had been anxiously awaited by the propertied classes of France.

Joseph Caillaux, minister of finance, the author of the measure, estimates that it will produce $38,000,000 in the first year and more in the years following. The new tax begins with fortunes amounting to $6,000. After deducting $1,000 for each child an assessment of 12 cents is to be made on each $200. The assessment then rises gradually up to 50 cents per $200 upon fortunes of over $2,000,000.

This tax is to be supplemented by an income tax.

The French Government in drafting the bill kept two considerations in view—not to drive capital from the country and yet to add considerably to the Government revenue.

Paul Deschanel was re-elected speaker of the Chamber of Deputies and the Abbe Lemire one of the deputy speakers.

The New Corset For Fat Women

The new corset designed to coerce over-fat ladies into the new style gowns has three sets of strings. When you have one set adjusted you still have two more strings left. Think of that—and shudder.

To escape this fate, fat ladies should lose no time in securing one of the large cases of Marmola Prescription Tablets, Detroit, Mich., sell for 75 cents. One of these tablets taken each meal and at bedtime for a short while will make her independent of the new corset. Being made in accordance with the famous Marmola Prescription, these pleasant little standbys of the over-fat are perfectly harmless, except to the fat itself, which they not infrequently do away with at the rate of a pound a day, and they are also the most economical fat one could adopt, as they get results without interfering either with the body's tendencies or methods of diet, however generous.

AN OLD RECIPE TO DARKEN HAIR

Sage Tea and Sulphur Turns Gray, Faded Hair Dark and Glossy.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also ends dandruff, itching scalp, and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy." You will get a large bottle for about 50 cents. Everybody uses this old, famous recipe, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy, and you look years younger. TO CURE CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES

Persons suffering from catarrhal deafness and head noises will be glad to know that this distressing affliction can be cured by the use of an internal medicine that in many instances has effected a complete cure after all else has failed. Sufferers who could scarcely hear a watch tick have had their hearing restored to such an extent that the tick of a watch was plainly audible seven or eight inches away from their ear.

Therefore, if you know someone who is troubled with head noise or catarrh, or catarrhal deafness, cut out this formula and hand to them and you will have been the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness. The prescription can be prepared at home and is made as follows: One ounce of purest of Parisian (Double Strength), about 7c worth. Take this home, and add to it 4 pint of hot water and give of moist or granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.

The first dose should be given at once, most distressing head noises, cloudiness, thinking, etc., while the hearing rapidly returns as the system is invigorated by the tonic action of the treatment. Loss of smell and mucus dropping in the back of the throat are other symptoms that show the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness.
