

Canada. After the cessation of hostilities, the Society, in Hilary Term, 1815, entered the names of seven Students, including the Honorable George Strange Boulton and the Honorable John Rolph. During the same Term, five gentlemen were called to the Bar, three of whom, as already noticed, subsequently became Judges, viz., John Beverley Robinson, Jonas Jones, and Christopher Alexander Hagerman. To legalize these acts of the Law Society, an Act of the Legislature was required. It passed on the 14th March, 1815. (55th Geo. III. cap. 3, sec. 1.) It was by the same Statute declared, that all persons whose names were then entered upon the Rolls of the Court of King's Bench as Attorneys, and who were by military or other public duty interrupted in their regular service, were regularly entered as such Attorneys. (Sec. 3.) Similar provision was made for Attorneys' Clerks. (Sec. 4.)

For seven years following 1815, the admissions to the Law Society, of Students, did not average more than two each Term. The calls to the Bar during the same period did not average more than one each Term. It was during Hilary Term, 1813, that the Honorable James Buchanan Macaulay, the late Chief Justice of the Common Pleas, became a Member of the Law Society. He was called to the Bar in Hilary Term, 1822. Two years afterwards, Charles Coxwell Small, Esquire, the present Clerk of the Crown in the Court of Queen's Bench, having been admitted a Student in Michaelmas Term, 1813, was called to the Bar. His call was made in Easter Term, 1824. Three years afterwards, that is to say, in Hilary Term, 1827, Mr. Justice Burns, who became a Student in Easter Term, 1822, was called to the Bar. In the year following, William Henry Draper, now the Honorable Wm. Henry Draper, C.B., the present Chief Justice of the Common Pleas, having been admitted a Student in Easter Term, 1823, was also called to the Bar. In Michaelmas Term, 1828, the late Mr. Justice Sullivan, and the present Vice-Chancellor Spragge, both of whom were admitted Students five years previously, were called to the Bar. The Chancellor, William Hume Blake, did not become a Barrister till Easter Term, 1835, and in the Term following, his colleague, Vice-Chancellor Esten, received the same degree. Mr.
