"We Public Men."

His Worship of Ottawa, in a speech the other day, pathetically referred to the martyrdom which "we public men" have to suffer at the hands of the newspapers. Alas, it is too true! The noble army of TWEEDS, MACHINROSSES and other patriots cannot be permitted to serve their country by engaging in a little innocent contract-fleecing without being talked about and abused by the public press. The only way they can avoid this suffering is to cease serving their country in that particular way.
