

How to Carry Money

The first consideration of intending travellers should be towards arranging to carry their funds safely and in such a manner that they will be readily negotiable. With the development of banking facilities it has come to be generally recognized that Travellers' Cheques afford complete safety, while at the same time travellers who carry them will find that they can obtain funds by this medium in all countries which they may visit. These cheques will be found most useful and convenient, as the exact amount of foreign money which will be paid in each country is plainly stated on the face of the cheques, thus preventing loss in exchange and obviating the necessity of providing oneself beforehand with the currency of the country visited. In a few foreign countries a trifling deduction is made for stamp duties. By referring to the cheques the traveller can also ascertain the currency in use in the country through which he is passing.

These cheques, which are issued by all branches of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, who have an office at 2 Lombard Street, London, E.C., are enclosed in a neat leather pocket case, occupying no more space than a small purse, and are accompanied by a booklet in which is inscribed for identification the signature of the purchaser, authenticated by an officer of the bank. The book also contains a list of the banks and various institutions where arrangements have been made for their encashment, and to insure safety it should be carried in a different pocket to that containing the cheques.

To the average traveller is recommended the purchase of $20 and $50 cheques, with a small number at $10, to provide a sufficient currency for the requirements of a day or two in any of the smaller foreign countries. The charge for these is 50 cents per $100, which in view of the facilities accorded is a most reasonable one.

The cheques are in such general use that they are cashed without hesitation at practically all large hotels, as well as on board ship, etc., and those who carry them have invariably expressed their satisfaction through their use.
