

conditions that will make increased IEA coal consumption, production and trade possible and in so doing make a significant contribution towards meeting the energy needs of IEA Participating Countries.