

April 30, 1931.

Professor Joshi,
Dartmouth College,
Hanover, New Hampshire,

Dear Professor Joshi,

I am sorry that I did not return from India when you called on April 13th. I had a wonderful trip and received the most kind consideration from everyone in India, British and native. More than ever do I appreciate how valuable lectures would be on Hindu and Muslim culture. My difficulty lies in the fact that owing to the severe financial depression and falling revenues, I am unable to add in any way to the burdens of the budget. Perhaps the future will be more kind to us.

Yours faithfully,

Principal