

XL.

From C. A. PERKINS, Ph. D., Associate in Physics in the Bryn Mawr College, Bryn Mawr, Pa., formerly Assistant and Fellow in Physics in the Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore.

Understanding that Prof. MacGregor, of Dalhousie College, is a candidate for the Chair of Physics in McGill College, I take occasion to express my opinion of his thorough fitness for the position.

Though not personally acquainted with Prof. MacGregor, his name has been for some time familiar to me as author of a valuable and decidedly successful book on Kinematics, and his work in experimental Physics also assures ability and skill in that line.

From what I know of his work, I do not hesitate to recommend him as thoroughly qualified for the Chair and a decided addition to the teaching staff of the College.
