Baird Beats Smart In Feature Game of Tennis Tournament $ 3.50

Ideal weather favored the many events in the Ontario Tennis champion. $4.50 ships yesterday and many hard-fought matches delighted the enthusiastic spectators. Perhaps the greatest interest centred about the game in the champlonship singles between Mr. Baird and Mr. Worts Smart. Each point was won only after a hard struggle, and in the second set Smart showed some beautiful tennis that extended Baird to his best. Smart gained the vantage game twice, only to lose on Baird's terrific service. Spanner proved his worth by defeating Lee of Ottawa in a brilliant game, replete with spectacular driving and accurate placing at the net. Saturday's play will bring together some of the best players, Sherwell, Baird, Henderson. McMaster, Martin, Witchall and Burns. A start will be made to-day in the ladies' singles and in the men's doubles. Yesterday's results:

Men's opens—Carlaw defeated Smith, 6-2, 4-6, 9-7; Parton defeated J. Dawson, 6-4, 6-3; Spanner defeated Lee, 8-6, 5-7, 8-3; Woodland defeated Grant, 6-1, 6-1; Ramsden defeated Boultbee, 6-2, 6-3; McMaster defeated Smart, 6-1, 8-6; McMaster defeated Medrum, 6-1, 6-2.

THE FAMOUS NATIONAL DRINK There's a story behind "Salvador" beer

-Canada's most famous brew-that carries us back to the year 1651

The Grand Duke Ferdinand, the Bavarian monarch of that period, established the now famous cloister brewery on the Nockerberg Mountain, near Munich, and appointed Father Sale the chief brewmaster. The product of the royal brewery was first known as "Father Sale's Beer," until the more convenient title of "Salvador" was adopted, about a century For over 150 years "Salvador" was brewed under the patronage of the Bavarian royal age of the bavarian loyal family. In 1806, Franz X. Zacherl acquired control of the cloister brewery and purchased the secret formula of the royal From that day to this the formula and sole European rights have been the most jealously quarded inheritance of the famous rewer's family.

The rich, mellow flavor of "Selvador" is only attained by a special aging process, and if the output of the cloister brewery was great enough the people of Bavaria would drink no other and industrial centres, could support twice the population of the British Isles with ease. Her natural resources in minerals, timber, water and electrical power, raw material of every kind, and, above all, her agricultural resources, are simply boundless, and, unlike the southern lands, Canada is a white man's country, a country for British men, women and children, in every acre of its vast territory. The people of Canada are a sane, sober, strenuous, earnest people, a patriotic and invincibly industrious people, worshipping no false gods, following no will-o'-the-wisps, but steadily, surely will-o'-the-wisps, but steadily, surely and with their eyes wide open, alike to opportunity and dangers, building up, there between the Atlantic and the Pacific, the greatest nation that has ever been within the greatest empire that has ever been. Canada is a wonderful inspiration to any right-thinking man, and no better fate that I can see can bafall any British boy or girl, man or woman, than to become a good Canadian, and play his part in the Dominion's great forward march, the most wonderful process in all this wonderful age of ours."

Lord Grey strongly favors the eci-gration of young children to Canada. Looking around upon the working of the poor laws in Britain, he is atruck the poor laws in Britain, he is struck by the sad fact that pauperdom makes for the perpetuation of pauperdom; that the system makes for perambulation in a vicious circle; that the child who is reared under the poor laws is inevitably handicapped by conditions and a hall mark which lead that child again into pauperdom as an adult. This is one of the great tragedles of our social system in crowded England. But if the poor law children could but be settled singly in rural Canadian homes long before they have learned to be conscious of the existence of poor laws; if they could grow up (not in poor law groups, but singly) in the free and bracing atmosphere of Canadian farm homesteads then one could say of them, practically with certainty, that not a single one among them all would ever in his or her after life come into contact with any form of pauperdom. The girls would almost certainly become happy, useful wives and mothers; the boys—with free homesteads avallable to them before they reached manhood—would become independent manhood-would become independent, self-respecting farmers. They would grow up good country Canadians, than which no better, healthier, or more useful destiny could be conceived when that prospect is compared with the prospect before the average poor law child in Great Britain the contrast is one to fill the heart and inspire the mind of the social reformers to any effort, to any sacrifice, if only so splen-And it can quite easily be achieved, if set about in the right way. Volun-teer committees in Canada—Daughters

There are some who bear a grudge teer committees in Canada—Daughters of the Empire and others—would visit the selected homes at regular intervals to make sure that the children were wisely and properly cared for. Determination and careful organization is all that is required in this matter to relieve Great Britain of a huge and grow.
