

PEARSON NOT SORRY THANKS WORKERS FOR AID

Was Up Against Irresistible Organization — Not Pleased With Star's Attitude.

"There is no question but that we are badly beaten," said James Pearson, K.C., Liberal candidate in East Toronto, in an address to his faithful supporters after the result of the election was apparent. "But we were up against an almost irresistible organization and we were only in the field for a short time. However, it is not a loss to the Liberal party, because it did not have a representative here before. We have put up the best fight we could make in the short time we had at our disposal."

"I wish to thank my friends who stood by me in the fight. I am not sorry I ran. I feel that I did something to show the people what real politics meant."

"By the next election, which may take place two years after the redistribution, we may have more representatives from this city."

"I think I have been fully repaid for the expenses of this campaign by the friends I have made. Your appreciation has been a sufficient compensation to make me leave this room satisfied and gratified."

Mr. Pearson spoke of the Star's action in supporting Mr. Richards. He had, he said, thought of preparing a stick for the Star, but when he considered the smallness of the Star's influence among the working classes, as shown by Mr. Richards' poll, he did not think it worth while to bother about the Star.

Mr. Richards, the Labor candidate, spoke briefly in his committee-room. He thanked his supporters and spoke of the shortness of the time he had had to campaign.

'T'WAS SOLEMN SESSION OF MAGUIRE'S WORKERS

Returns From Foreign Quarter
Were Staggering—Candidate
Made Frank Admission.

It was a silent, and sorry throng that listened to the results in Alf Maguire's head committee room on Yonge-st., as they slowly filed in, telling their tale of woe and defeat. The candidate sat at the table alongside the man at the telephone and helped mark down the returns. The first results were strongly in favor of Alf Maguire, the first return in fact showing him a majority of 28. But this happy state of affairs didn't last long, for soon the returns from the ward booths began to come, and as the workers listened to the Bristol majority, any hopes they might have had faded away. The ward's heavy vote for Bristol was a great surprise, and knocked Maguire's men dumb with astonishment.

They had pinned their faith on pulling a heavy majority out of the Jewish and Italian voters. In fact, it had been their boast all along, but the campaign they put up was hardly to be expected to appeal to the best nature of the sometimes easily influenced foreign voter.

Ald. Maguire admitted that he had been badly beaten. He said the ward, he had no explanation to give for the unexpected result. He complained that some of the factories and workshops had squandered, saying that some of them had not given their employees opportunity to get out and vote.

"No, I don't think I have anything more to say," and what is there to be said? The people of Centre Toronto didn't want reciprocity and they didn't want Maguire either, and that's all there is to it.

'JOE' RUSSELL GOOD LOSER MET DEFEAT WITH SMILE

Told His Workers He Had No Intention of Mourning—May Contest Again.

Fading the flare of hundreds of torches in the hands of paraders, amid the deafening noise of horns and the returns from every sub-division showing his opponent had overwhelmingly defeated him, including his own home precinct, Joe Russell spoke, like the true sportsman he is, to his many supporters and friends. His manner would have led one to believe he had won a great victory rather than lost it. He likened his defeat under the story of the Frenchman whose horse was backing into the canal. He kept whipping and yelling "Whoa!" and finally the buggy, horse and all went into the water. The Frenchman came to the surface, spat the water from his mouth and said: "Now, damn you, I guess you can get your satisfy."

No Time to Mourn.

While the returns were being read off and showed his certain defeat, a supporter said, "Well, Joe, will we put on the crepe?" "Not in a thousand years," said Mr. Russell. "To Mr. Russell, 'To Mr. Russell, do you attribute your defeat?' asked The World.

"Well, that is easily answered," he replied. "The people wanted the other fellow, and if a candidate can't get more of the people's votes than his opponent, he can't win, and the crowd roared."

May Run Again.

Mr. Russell, when asked if he would run again, said: "Can't tell; I may, you know, changes all things." Mr. Russell said he entertained no hard feelings for Mr. Kemp, and advised the people to stand behind their choice as a member of parliament. He thanked the newspapers for what they had done for him, saying, "Without the newspapers of Toronto a man cannot win elections or do anything else successfully."

Following Mr. Russell were his supporters, who thanked all for their support. They were David Hilton, H. Joseph, R. B. Fox, George Harnett, George Gilmore, Walter Dickson, John E. Russell, T. C. Scott, M. F. Nugent, Charles Wilson and Albert Anderson.

J.J. USED 'CYCLONE CELLAR'

Anyhow, He Couldn't Be Found—
Supporters Showed Pique.

The bosoms of the Liberal sympathizers were not less ruffled than the bosom of the political sea. In the course of a fruitless search for J. J. Ward, a World representative was constrained to believe this as the result of a visit to the Ontario Club. The hospitable Liberal stronghold was well filled, but alcohol and shore met at the door by a door-looking steward. He was informed that the club members could enter, and that Mr. Ward was not present.

"But I have information that led me to believe that Mr. Ward was to receive his returns here."

"Mr. Ward is not here. He is not a member, and you must leave."

All efforts at explanation were futile. So also were requests to see the secretary, or some of the officers. With the limited amount of intelligence with which all all-wise Providence had endowed him, the dunkey had decided that Mr. Ward, if he was present, would not care to meet with the perhaps triumphant representative of a triumph and paper, and the reporter was escorted to the elevator.

A. E. KEMP WAS MODEST SEES END OF FRICTION

Loudly Acclaimed by Faithful
Lieuutenants, He Urged That Differences Be Buried.

Flags, cheers and a bouquet of roses for the conquering hero of East Toronto. A. E. Kemp, transformed Odd-fellows' Hall, Broadview-avenue, last night.

William Fitzgerald was the joyful chairman, and his joy was so all-powerful that he danced with glee as he held aloft the telegram announcing the defeat of three cabinet ministers.

R. H. Greer, president of Ward One Conservative Association, was introduced as a man who had been a mean factor in the story. Mr. Greer declared himself delighted with the big majority for Mr. Kemp, but urged the supporters of the victor to be friendly to the man who had defeated him. He said that Mr. Russell and his supporters, so that henceforth there would be no more trouble within the ranks. He then found Mr. Russell a very decent fellow.

When Mr. Kemp, the member-elect for East Toronto, was called to the prolonged cheering of the cheering. Miss Beatrice Stagg, a little girl attired in white, presented the new M.P. with a handsome bouquet of red roses. Mr. Kemp accepted her bouquet and thanked and kissed the young lady amid another outburst of cheering. Mr. Kemp said he had been called upon many times to speak under more or less embarrassing circumstances, but seldom more so than under the present one.

Came Into His Own.

Some were there who would remember what he said after the defeat of three years ago. That was that he intended to play the part of a good sport and to go down into the ranks and work shoulder to shoulder with the next election, when he would work for the standard-bearer of the party whoever he might be. He had worked beside many in the morning, not only for the past three, but also for the past fifteen years. They had conducted the present election in a manly and upright manner, so there could be no doubt about his election and it was not likely that a recount would be asked for (although the plan was there).

They could afford to be generous to those who had voted in opposition to him and he had no malice towards anyone, especially in view of the magnificent victory.

Credit to Lieutenants.

Much credit was due to R. H. Greer of No. 1 and Joe Thompson of No. 2 Conservative Associations. He was deeply grateful to the men and women who had given him the victory or influence, and he recognized that his success was owing to the way in which the workmen of the constituency had rallied to the standard.

Hon. Dr. Pyne added his congratulations to the electors who had united to secure Mr. Kemp's election.

Among others on the platform were: W. T. Stewart, W. J. Sanderson, William Williamson, H. Hogarth, C. Dougherty, James Maxwell, J. A. Macdonald, J. B. Leroy.

Returns were read as received by the chairman, intermingled with short speeches.

A procession with torches, brooms and tin horns, paraded the riding in celebration of the victory.

PEOPLE DON'T WANT PACT SO W. H. SHAW ADMITS

"Doubtful" Voters Proved to Be Solidly Hostile—May Fight Again.

W. H. Shaw received the sad tidings without particular perturbation. As he returns came up each division he looked them over quite calmly and philosophically. Each return was an obituary notice, for the clerk had marked down nearly three-quarters of them without getting a majority for the Liberal candidate. They told a sad, sad tale.

Mr. Shaw said it was a big surprise to him. "I expected a majority against me in some subdivisions, but not in so many. The figures show that the doubtful voters were against reciprocity and this time my men reported more doubtful votes than ever before. Most of those who knew were Liberal voted for us."

"The evidence is very clear that the people of Toronto do not want a trade agreement with the States, and I guess that's all there is to it."

"I hope to live to fight another day."

Contemplate!

Do not weigh anything in a second, but take a second thought when a druggist or dealer asks you to accept a substitute for DR. FOWLER'S Extract of Wild Strawberry.

This preparation has been on the market for over 65 years, and so far as we know has never yet failed to either relieve or cure the worst cases of DIARRHOEA, DYSENTERY, COLIC, CRAMPS OR PAINS IN THE STOMACH, CHOLERA MORBUS, CHOLERA INFANTUM, SUMMER COMPLAINT, OR ANY LOOSENESS OF THE BOWELS.

Mrs. A. J. McLeellan, London, Ont., writes: "It is with much pleasure I write to say that I have used Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry with great success. Last summer my little boy, 18 months old, was attacked two or three times with Diarrhoea, but each time, after one day's doses, he was all right again. My husband was also taken down one night. The next day three doses cured him. I always insist on Dr. Fowler's being given me."

If you want to be on the safe side, ask for Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, and insist on getting what you ask for.

The original is manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont. See that our name is on the wrapper. Price 35 cents.

HANDLING THE RETURNS
Message Boys, Burroughs Adding Machines and Telephone and Stereop-tion Play an Important Part in Election.

In the great throng that crowded the downtown streets last night, it was a matter of amazement to the people how quiet the results were received from the five electoral districts of Toronto. The handling of election detail, like any other business, required a proper system to manage it successfully, and, happily, this system has been provided by the Burroughs Adding Machine Co.

There are, first of all, 474 polling subdivisions in the city from which the results must be calculated. To save delays, a messenger was stationed at each division, so that as soon as the ballot were counted he might return the returns slip to the Burroughs office on Bay-street. Mr. D. W. Saxe, the sales manager of the Burroughs Adding Machine Company, arranged with the newspapers to handle the work. As the returns were received from the messengers, they were sorted into their proper divisions, and then passed on to six expert Burroughs operators, who recorded the total votes for each candidate as they were received, and of frequent intervals recorded the totals, showing the number of subdivisions having from, and the total number for each candidate; this memo was passed on to The World representative, who was at all times in communication with the stereopoint operator, a special telephone with a direct line to The World being placed in the Burroughs office.

In asking Mr. Saxe how the Burroughs adding machines did the work in such remarkable time, his answer simply was that the Burroughs was not accustomed to do anything else but reliable work, and that there is a Burroughs for every business, which even now includes the election business. One thing is certain, that in future the Toronto election returns will play only a second place to the ballot box in the elections.

Extractor Pulled.
Thos. Holden, Niagara Falls, N.Y., 41 years married, a clerk, was arrested at Bay and King-streets at eight o'clock last night, when he took advantage of the crowd watching election bulletins to extract a $40 roll from the pocket of Stewart Jamieson, 14 John-street. The money had been taken out when Jamieson grabbed Holden when he was holding him when the police arrived. Holden had the money under his foot.
