Contemporary Review.

As to extravagance in the English army, that is due to the fact that commanding officers do not do their duty, and general officers turn their blind eye to what goes on. It only wants a little honesty of purpose to put an end to it. But that is just the most difficult thing to obtain. The dress of officers is undoubtedly expensive in some cases ridiculously so. There seems to be little doubt that even for peace purposes it would be possible to devise a less costly style of costume, while for work and war the future uniform will be khaki. Recent alterations are to be commended from an economical or athletic point of view. The red serge of the infantry officer is a constant source of expense; it is easily soiled and must be replaced. The blue serge, which is lis working dress, is constructed after the fashion of the garment worn by the shoeblack brigade. In it the British officer is the worst-dressed man of his class in Europe. The old frock coat was comfortable and looked well, and was in the long run far more economical. It was abolished and replaced by the patrol jacket, and the latter by the present hideous garb. Fortunately for its inventor, he had not the temerity to clothe the Guards officers in it. Had he been so rash he would probably have been hanged in Trafalgar-square from the statue of His late Majesty George IV. A hundred years ago we had uniforms which were elegant and Contemporary Review. the and not the temerity to clorch the Genards had not the intersection of the Woodbine. St. Thomas, June 24.—The laying of the track on the extension of the L.E. and D.R.R. from Ridgetown to St. Thomas was completed and the last coupling made on Saturday at 6.20 p.m., about a mile west of the Kettle Creek Ravine. The mine had been shut down for some time owing to the depression in the lead market, but there are 150 men working there now, taking out large quantities of rich ore, which is being shipped to Belgium under contract. The St. Eugene is one of the largest and best lead mines in the world, and it is gratifying to see it once more in operation.

He was full of admiration for the country between Kootenay Landing and Fernie.

He then retraced his route to Revel-stoke and proceeded by way of Sicamous to Vernon. At this point Mr. Turner was to Vernon. At this point Mr. Turner was given an enthusiastic reception, and a sumptuous banquet was tendered him by leading citizens of Vernon, Armstrong and Kelowna, at the Kalamanka Hotel. Their kindness and hospitality was unbounded, and he expressed himself as being very much pleased and gratified with it all.

They are all doing well and have fine houses and farm buildings. The wheat produced in the valley runs about 9000 tons-300,000 bushels—yearly, which may be immensely increased in the future, as there is a large quantity of land still lying —e in the valley, and the surrounding uplands, if irrigated, would yield abundantly of the very best wheat. There is a large quantity of fruit produced, and many of the young orchards are just coming into bearing. The country was looking its best when Mr. Turner drove thru, tho the farmers were longing for rain to bring the wheat up. There had been a protracted dry spell, but it was broken by a plenteous rain the day Mr. Turner left for home. The great necessity of that country is the continuation of the railway from Vernon to Midway, which would bring the farmers within 70 miles of the Midway mining country.
