

THE NEW POLITICAL GOSPEL.
It is surprising these days how outspoken a great many public men and public newspapers in the United States are in regard to some kind of a new movement based on public ownership and public control as a cure for the existing trust and other corporate evils. All over the union, newspapers are reprinting and preaching the doctrine known as "eminent domain," which is very well put by Mr. Gardiner in a speech made one day, in which he says:

New York has always asserted, and our courts have always sustained, the broad exercise of state sovereignty over all property in the state. Early in the century, Chancellor Walworth, defining the state's right of eminent domain, said: "It may be exercised not only when the public safety but also when the interest or even the expediency of the state is concerned." (3 Paige, 73).

And more impressive still are the words of Judge Gray, the present Democratic candidate for the Court of Appeals. Referring also to the sovereign powers of this state, he said: "An eminent domain over all property in the state is an incident of the sovereign power; and the right of the state to take the property is an absolute and inherent one; and further, I cannot find in the organic law of the state, nor can I find upon principle, any restriction upon the legislative action, other than that it shall be in the direction of public utility."

Again, Mr. Gardiner says:
State governments, therefore, possess all the common-law powers of acquiring, using and regulating the utilities in the state; the Federal government possesses none except in specified instances. And this was distinctly held by the Supreme Court in Munn against Illinois and other famous Granger cases.

Commenting on this, a Rochester paper takes this view:
From this it would appear that it is neither "socialistic," "anarchistic" nor "revolutionary" for the state to exercise the right of eminent domain and own and operate mines of any kind, provided it be in the direction of public utility. Now, if it is right and proper for the individual state to do these things, how can it be "socialistic" for the United States to exercise the same powers? And if it should be held by the Supreme Court that there is no warrant in the constitution for the Federal government to take over coal mines by the right of eminent domain, why should not the constitution be amended to enable it to do so? President Roosevelt has advised amendment of the constitution to enable the Federal government to deal with the trusts. Such an amendment as here suggested would be right in line with the President's policy, for the infamous coal trust is the most harmful of all the trusts. Of course, as we have repeatedly stated, we prefer state ownership of the anthracite coal mines to national ownership. If the State of Pennsylvania takes over the mines, well and good. But if it does not act in this matter, and let soon, the national government must take up the matter.

President Roosevelt is one of the new kind of men they are growing in the United States competent to deal with twentieth-century problems. There is also another young man in the United States connected with the Democratic party who proposes to deal with existing troubles, and who has presented himself for congressional honors in the State of New York. We refer to Mr. William R. Hearst of The New York Journal, or, as it was formerly and better known, The New York Journal. One of the things said against it is that it is a "yellow newspaper." To our mind, it has been one of the most honest, fearless and progressive papers that have been in the United States for many a day, and it has been absolutely the service of the people. In his speech, made the other night in New York, Mr. Hearst dealt with these present-day issues in a very vigorous fashion, and to show just where he stands, and the way things are moving in the United States on these modern issues, we make some extracts from his deliverance:

I believe that the great issue of this campaign is the trust issue. The great question in the minds of all thoughtful men is the trust question. And I do believe that the Republican party will be depended upon to deal justly with the people on the trust question.

The Democrats have received so many privileges from the Republican party, and the Republican party in return has received so many favors from the trusts, that the Democrats are being asked to make a sacrifice and share a shrike from the Republican party; and you can't stick a pin in the Republican party without hearing a roar from the trusts.

The Democrats advocate the public ownership of certain public utilities. They do not advocate the indiscriminate ownership of every branch of business the trusts have managed to monopolize. But they do advocate the public ownership of such basic utilities as the railroads and the telegraphs, and furthermore, they advocate the threat of public ownership for any trust which, like the coal trust, tries to deprive the people of a necessity of life.

The Democrats do not wish to interfere with legitimate organization and system in business. But they do wish to prevent, and they will prevent, illegal monopolization, coercion and extortion.

Now, in all fairness and without prejudice, what is the Republican plan? It is a constitutional amendment. It is not to enforce the laws we have. It is not to make the laws we make under the constitution. But it is to sit back and wait an indefinite number of years for an indefinite constitutional amendment.

Mr. Roosevelt himself is the author, or one of the authors, of the constitutional amendment plan. I greatly admire Mr. Roosevelt in many ways. When I was in Cuba I delighted to send up and publish articles confirming Mr. Roosevelt's reputation as a fighter. But that reputation as a fighter was not won by any constitutional amendment proposition.

Mr. Roosevelt was a soldier, and a good soldier. There were 16,000 good, brave American soldiers at Santiago, and Mr. Roosevelt was one of them. Now, I wish to cite the behavior of Mr. Roosevelt at Santiago as an example of what Americans do when they mean business. Of those American soldiers, regiment after regiment was armed with old-fashioned, out-of-date, worthless Springfield muskets. And opposed to them were regiments of Spanish soldiers armed with the best and most destructive weapons of modern warfare—the Mauser rifles. Did our boys hang back and refuse to fight? Did they sit down and say they would wait a few years for a constitutional amendment?

They did not. They took their old-fashioned, out-of-date Springfield muskets, and they fought the Spaniards with them, and they whipped the Spaniards with them.

Now, my friends, when your political soldiers, your representatives, your senators and your President are as anxious to fight the trusts as our boys at Santiago were to fight the Spaniards, they will take the legal and political weapons they have at hand, and they will fight the trusts with them, and they will whip the trusts with them—and you won't have to wait for a constitutional amendment.

It will be seen from the above that Mr. Hearst is a very earnest young man and that he has adopted the platform of trying to do things with things as they are. If Mr. Hearst keeps on in this line he may loom up as a possibility against Mr. Roosevelt before many moons. At all events, there is no more instructive literature on the political problems of the day than outlined in the above extracts, and the Canadian people can afford to read and read them to advantage.

CLEANING THE STREETS.
A Toronto gentleman now in New York sends us a press clipping discussing the value, from a sanitary point of view, of washing asphalt and other streets. The verdict is certainly in favor of washing the streets, and the test which proves it was made by exposing on the streets certain plates known as Agar plates. The result was that in a 15 minute exposure in a portion of the city, where the streets were washed, only 64 colonies of bacteria developed on each plate, while in a portion of the city where the streets were not washed over 9000 colonies of bacteria developed on one plate in the same time. Medical men regard this test as most significant, for it all goes to show that where streets are washed and kept clean the public health is greatly benefited.

CANADIAN COPYRIGHT.
Canada has the right to legislate for herself in the matter of copyright, and another effort is to be made to have this principle recognized by the Dominion and Imperial houses of parliament. The efforts of the past in this direction have not been sufficient to concentrate or sustained to make much headway, but now what is hoped may prove a potent movement has been inaugurated by the formation of the Canadian Copyright Association. The Bookellers and Stationers' Section of the Toronto Board of Trade are behind the organization, and an appeal is being made to all writers, many of whom are publishers and sellers of books to identify themselves with the movement. The idea that all the scattered forces interested in copyright legislation should thus band themselves together is practical and up to date, and it will doubtless meet with general approval.

THE PRICE OUR FARMERS GET FOR LIVE STOCK.
The price paid here on Tuesday's market for prime hogs was $5.75 to $6. The same day at Chicago it was $6 to $6.75. Probably if we had more competition here the price on the two markets would have been almost equal. Now, when we come to cattle prices we find that in Toronto on Tuesday one load of exporters sold at $5.00 cwt, and other loads at $4.75 to $4.75, while at Chicago the same day 32 carloads brought $6.50. We do not forget the fact that last winter, when Mr. Gould was buying on our market, with Yankee capital, he paid 25c to 30c per cwt. more than our regular buyers. What is the significance of this disparity in values, and whom does it hit?

An Important Campaign.
The purpose of the Manufacturers' Association to start an educational campaign is considered an important step in the interests of manufacturers, workingmen and farmers. While protection, as represented by a tariff, can hardly be adapted to the exact wants of all members of these classes, that other form of protection, described in the trade book, entitled, "The Story of a Great Success," is admirably fitted for the exact needs of those who desire the very best protection of all—a policy on their lives in the best company. Agents of the Canada Life will gladly furnish copies.

The success of a new catarrh remedy, Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, is because it drives the cause of the system, the channels of the catarrh, and the trachea are freed from the mucus, which collects and causes the hawking, itching and sneezing, because the mucus secretion is not furnished from healthy tissue.

STUART'S CATARRH TABLETS.

Export of This Health-Giving Fruit Expanding and Gives Good Results.
CROP APPROACHES THE RECORD

Fruit is of Good Quality—Packing and Spraying Receive Considerable Attention.

With a view to gaining a correct estimate of the apple crop in Canada and more especially in the Province of Ontario The World on Thursday visited a number of the leading commission houses of the city. The results of the visit were, in brief, that the picking and subsequent care of the apple is not now a haphazard enterprise, but has by care and study been raised to a science. The fruit industry is rapidly becoming one of the most important, and in point of general utility and revenue producing qualities, the apple is without doubt the most important. With correspondents in every part of the Dominion the commission men are enabled to speak with authority on the subject of supply and demand.

A Bright Outlook.
Thomas Van Vleet & Co. was optimistic regarding the outlook. In the great fruit bearing Niagara Peninsula, along the northern lake shore line and in the counties bordering on the lake the same conditions prevail. Mr. Van Vleet says that a great deal of the fruit will grade into a, but that some damage has, as usual, been caused by scab. The government standard demands 90 per cent, which in effect is a perfect apple free from scab and worm holes, uniform in size, of a good color and packed evenly throughout the barrel. Nothing else will fulfill the conditions, and nothing else is wanted in the British market.

Steady and High.
Mr. A. McBride of McBride Bros. was not favorably impressed with the outlook from the shippers' standpoint, largely on account of damage from scab. He does not favor the standard as being too stringent, and likely to result in a loss of business.

W. H. Smith of Colborne-street regards the apple crop as excellent, regardless of scab, but does not think that prices will rule high. This firm is paying from 70c to $1 on the trees for fall stock, and is making advance for winter fruit. Snow apples are not plentiful, and first-class are scarce. The regular market is good in general as more than ordinary good in every part of the Dominion.

The British Market.
The King, Darrell Co. are among the heaviest exporters in the world, with a number of branch houses throughout the province. Mr. Darrell speaks of the outlook for the apple trade as bright. The crop is uniformly good, but the firm is this season confining its operations to the export of the best quality of fruit to be sent to the British market and with care and honorable dealing the British market will take all offerings at good rates.

Results From Spraying.
H. Dawson of the Dawson Commission Co. regards this year as equalled only by that of 1890 as to general crop. The firm's advice is to spray the trees. The firm's advice is to spray the trees. The firm's advice is to spray the trees.

Expansion of the Trade.
As evidence of the enormous expansion of the Canadian apple trade, the shipments from the port of Montreal for the week ending Tuesday, Oct. 29, totaled 18,000 cases. It will be seen that Canada this year is abundantly supplied with this most important fruit, and while the export trade will steady the Canadian market, the price to the average citizen will be within the range of his finances.
