Fascinating Chintzes Copied From Fine Old Hand-blocked Designs

Have Just Arrived in the Drapery Department, Offering Delightful Patterns and Colorings for Living - rooms, Drawing - rooms, Bedrooms

DAHLIAS and HOLLYHOCKS, peacocks and butterflies, peonies and parrots, roses and black stripes—picture them in the most beguiling form that chintz makers know how to pattern and tint them, and you see these "washable prints" which have just been added to the big February display of cretonnes.

If you want a chintz that is interesting, uncommon, artistic, and withal moderate priced, these will prove treasure-trove. They are 36 inches in width and provide a wideness of choice that ranges from the dainty ivory and blue confection for bedroom decoration, to the "new art" effect in black and gold, for the gay little morning room.

Just to hint at the variety, we mention a few of the patterns: Coppery brown dahlias and Persian pink hollyhocks almost completely covering a white ground, with green foliage and a deep blue basket, completing a charming medley of tones for the room with buff or blue walls.

The same design may also be had showing crimson dahlias and mauve hollyhocks on a Sevres blue, yellow or white ground.

A delightful bedroom pattern of deep pink peonies, soft Delft foliage and demure brown birds on an ivory ground. The same may be had, too, on a black ground.

Bright-winged parrots and large, shaggy-petalled flowers make for great charm in three or four fascinating effects, the fashionable black playing an important part either in background or foliage—ideal for living-room or drawing-room use. Price, 75 cents per yard.

You were Inquiring?

"Two Perplexed Girls." But you find it a pleasant sort of personality. I am sure. To debate the respective charms of tan and black shoes, blue and grey suits, and straw and satin hats, is not usually a distasteful exercise for two young congenial minds. However, it may be well for you to learn that low heels will be unusually fashionable on both shoes and shoes of the walking or sports type. As for tailored suits, who can get through a season comfortably without one? And the top coat, too, isn't it a necessary complement to the suit? For the latter, gabardine, Poirot twill and serge are fabrics of chief favor, and for coats, wool velvets, fine Bolivie cloth, gabardine, serge, and a new woolly-creed homespun, called "burlie," are in demand. Tan, grey and blue are the leading colors for suits, and tan, grey and green for coats. But see to it that you get plenty of big sawing pockets. They are Fashion's trade mark this year.

"Business Girl."—It is easy to believe that the navy serge, capeless dress has proved a pleasing to the busy girl who suffers from a chronic hurry in getting into her clothes each morning. It is not much more trouble to put on than an overcoat. But to hasten on to two or three specific instances of it. One at $10.00 is box-pleated from yoke to hem, as you request, and has a collar of white flannel. Another at $11.75, has a panel front and back, box pleats at either side, the belt, patch pockets and cuffs stitched in white twist, white silk facing the collar. A third model, at $12.00, shows knife pleats between the box pleats, and a white flannel collar. And a fourth, at $12.75, is box-pleated in front, knife-pleated in the back, and by way of ornament, has embroidery on the front, white silk on the collar and cuffs, and a "she-string" grille.

"Brown Betty."—The verses, "My Little Tommy, All My Own," in Harold Begbie's "Fighting Lines." But, alas, Betty, not a copy is produced in Toronto. Could you wait the necessary few weeks for it to be got out from England for you? It is priced at the small sum of 15 cents. As for the removal of the mole, usual charges for 100 ft. type of work run from $1.00 to $5.00. You would be wise to write and make an appointment a couple of days before you come to town.

L. E. M.—The bath can be got for you—price, $5.00.

"Pierrot."—The quaint little rhymes are not familiar, "Pierrot." Some clever person must have made them for the special occasion. But there are three dance books for you from Crompion's "Folk Dances," priced $1.75. "Second Folk Dance Book," by the same author, at $1.00, and "The Playground Book," at $1.50.

R. B. C.—Judging from inquiries, one would think the whole community were eager to "trip the light fantastic toe." There are numerous text books on the subject. For example, "Folk Dances and Singing Games," by Burchenal, which contains English, Swedish, Danish, Norwegian and Italian dances. The price is $1.00. The "Second Folk Dance Book," suggested in a reply to "Pierrot," contains the Virginia Reel, Sailors' Hornpipe, Irish Six-hand Reel, Spring Dance, and many others. It is $1.00. "Pop Goes the Weasel" will be found in "Dancing," a book by Wilson at 80c.

As for the ring which has lost its original beauty, but no quotation can be made regarding its price until the jeweler ascertain the condition of the setting, etc. If you would prefer to have the broken hair put back, this can be done. Cameses of the tiny size you indicate can be had for $1.00 and $1.50. Send the ring to the "Shopping Service" if they will look after the whole matter for you.

FATHER NOT GUILTY OF DAUGHTER'S DEATH

Previous Conviction of John L. McIntyre is Quashed and He Goes Free

The appellate court at Osgoode Hall yesterday afternoon granted the appeal of John L. McIntyre against the decision of the presiding judge at London, Ontario, and quashed the conviction against him in November last of having killed his daughter, Irene McIntyre, on April 7 last, by failing to provide proper food and medical aid during her last illness. Evidence showed that the young woman, who was 22 years of age, was feeble-minded and had been in a poor state of health. She died shortly after giving birth to a child. At the trial at London the judge granted McIntyre a stated case to enable him to take the case before the court of appeal.

Judgment for $786 and costs was awarded J. Thompson in his suit against the Canada Pebble Company by Justice Latchford. Thompson owns a large lake vessel, and against the company had entered a contract with the defendants to carry 800 tons of pebbles to Buffalo at $2 a ton, and that the company had only sent 383 tons of the contract cargo.

The appellate division upheld the decision of the lower court, who granted Lillian Adair damages against the street railway for $975 for injuries received when she was struck by a car at the corner of Yonge and Gerrard streets last March.

Following is the list for the second division appellate court: Palmer v. Pickering Trustees, Birdsall v. Merritt, Avery v. Parks.

Successful Scottish Association Winds Up Excellent Year and Honors Returned Soldiers.

Described as the most successful Scottish Association in Toronto, the annual meeting of the Argyllshire Association held last evening at St. George's Hall, showed by its reports that it is living up to the reputation that the association was only formed in February of 1913, the total membership to the end of the past year was 196. Colored G. T. R. Cook Dies On Train at Union Station

J. H. Jordan, colored, aged about 40 years, and rooming at 1114, Teraulay street, was taken suddenly ill about 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, while aboard a G. T. R. train, on which he was employed as cook and died some time later on arriving at the Union Station. Drs. Rice and Bates were called, but could only pronounce the man dead. The body was removed to the morgue, where an inquest will be held.

Following the seizure, Jordan took some medicine, which, however, his stomach would not retain. Detectives Taylor and Levitt were sent to the station to investigate the matter, and, as a result, a post-mortem examination will be opened today.

BURNING BACK FENCES TO AVOID FREEZING

Special to The Toronto World. Brantford, Feb. 13.—The coal situation each day grows more serious, and it has been suggested by citizens that it was time the mayor and city council took the matter up and endeavored to have the shortage relieved before matters became any worse. Already in some instances residents have started in to burn up their back fences. Today gas pressure was very low, and as a result of this, combined with coal scarcity, more water pipes were reported frozen up than ever before in this history of the city. In Central and King Edward Schools, rooms had to be closed down as they could not be brought up to comfortable temperature. There is enough coal on hand in the majority of the schools to last the week out.

KINGSTON GETTING ALONG. Special to The Toronto World. Kingston, Feb. 13.—Mayor Hughes has made enquiry into coal conditions in Kingston, and while the supply is short, he finds the dealers are doing their best to distribute their stocks equitably. Mayor Hughes favours a further curtailment of the passenger train service, providing it will relieve the coal shortage.

open and prevent frost getting into the other buildings. If no coal is received for the next few days the expense necessary to get these buildings back into shape will be enormous, and many valuable specimens will be destroyed.

The university superintendent's office informed The World yesterday that it had coal at Buffalo but it might as well be in Honolulu or unmined as far as the possibility of getting it was concerned.

AMERICANS THREATEN Will Demand Canadian Embargo if Coal at Border Points Stays Unmoved.

The University of Toronto had to close its doors yesterday owing to the scarcity of fuel. For several weeks past the receipts of fuel, of which there is plenty for the institution at Buffalo, have been coming in so slowly that there has been the constant fear before the authorities that this course would have to be adopted, but it was only yesterday afternoon, after Superintendent Campbell had spent the day in Buffalo in an unavailing effort to get some of the cars of coal for the university trucked and sent across to Toronto, that it was decided to close down for several days at least.

This means that all lectures will be discontinued and this will interfere with the senior years in medicine and dentistry, many of the students in which look summer courses in order to get overruns at the earliest possible moment.
