YEARLY LONDON SOOT FALL WOULD BURY CLOCK TOWER Lord Newton, speaking in the House of Lords, declared in England and Scotland were the dirtiest countries in Europe. His reference was not to the habits of the people, but to the practically unrestricted use of soft coal in factories and for domestic fires. Lord Newton quoted statistics to show that 300 tons of soot fall every year on each square mile of London, while in Sheffield and some other manufacturing cities the deposit was even greater. He said it was estimated that the smoke in Manchester caused an extra expenditure of £50,000 annually for washing men's collars.

The quantity of wheat which the importing countries of Europe will procure this year will be about 100,000,000 bushels less than a year ago, according to a report from Alfred Dennis of the United States Department of Commerce, who is making a special investigation of European food conditions. Production of wheat in Europe, which fell to about two-thirds of normal, has shown a gradual increase since 1917, and this year is the first to show a decrease, which may indicate a possible increase in demand on the part of Europe for bread grains. Germany, he states, is said to be consuming very much less breadstuffs than in pre-war years, the average daily consumption being only a little more than half as much. Potatoes and other vegetables are being substituted for
