DEATH OF REV. WM. DOLLARD

News was received here on Tuesday of the death of Rev. Wm. Dollard, a priest who labored in St. John for several years, and who had a large circle of friends by whom he was beloved. Father Dollard was born at Kilkenny, Ireland, on May 1st, 1861, the son of Michael Dollard and Anastasio Quinn. His father was nephew of the Right Rev. Wm. Dollard, first Catholic Bishop of New Brunswick, and his mother was a sister of Rev. James Quinn and Rev. Edmund Quinn, both of whom were attached to the diocese for many years. Older residents will particularly remember Father James Quinn, who spent many years of his life in active labor in this city, and died at a good age while parish priest at St. Stephen. Father Dollard received his early education at Waterford, and was graduated from St. John's College in that city. Coming to New Brunswick he taught a year, and then went to Laval University, Quebec. There he was ordained deacon by the Cardinal-Archbishop of Quebec. In January, 1884, he was ordained priest in the Cathedral here by Bishop Sweeney, and for three years labored in St. John. When Milltown was separated from St. Stephen, Father Dollard was placed in charge of St. Stephen, where he lived for a long time and was exceedingly popular with the people. Then for a year or more he was on the staff of St. Joseph's College, Memramook, and afterwards was given the parish of John's ville, Carleton Co. A few years ago he went to Missis, and latterly had been laboring at South Brewer, his death taking place at the rectory there. He had been ill for some time.

Father Dollard was a man of varied attainments—an eloquent preacher, a brilliant lecturer, and a pleasing writer in poetry and prose. By numerous friends throughout the province his death will be very deeply regretted.

Among his surviving relatives is his brother, Rev. J. B. Dollard, of Toronto diocese, priest and poet.

Funeral services will be held at 10 o'clock on Wednesday at St. Stephen's.

A Chat With the Girls.

I heard somebody, perhaps it was a prude, say the other day that fashionably accomplished young ladies consider it a disgrace to enter a kitchen or know how to make a loaf of bread. Now we know some sensible girls who do not consider themselves disgraced if they are found helping their mothers, and moreover we know that what the above mentioned prude said is true in many instances.

Society at the present day deprecates that girls shall be what they call accomplished; and to fulfill this demand the mothers of Christendom teach their daughters that a knowledge of all that belongs to life's duties at home is not one of the requirements, that manual labor must be combined with drawing room cultivation. And so their lily hands slip idly over the piano keys; they wait in the most approved style; sip a little French or German, quote poetry—and society says that they are accomplished. Doubtless they are, and by-and-by, as all modern fashions do, they will be a husband.

Now is there one of their boasted accomplishments that will help to make or bless a home? We know that music is pleasant, and home is not home where there are no songs or sweet harmonies; but a knowledge of the piano will not help a woman discharge her daily duties, and a smattering of French or an ability to wait gracefully, will do but little towards preparing a palatable dinner for a husband when he comes home hungry.

Modern girls have not less ability than our grandmothers had; the evil all lies in the principles inculcated in early years, if mothers will teach, by word and deed, that idleness is an accomplishment, then what may we expect? Where shall we look for the true women, the blessed homes in the years to come? The woman who would fill life's station nobly and well, cannot learn too much. If she sits in her home, she will fall in all; for there rests the basis of her ultimate success.
