THE SKY-LARK'S FIRST MATIN.

BY JAMES SCOTLAND.

O'er the meadow, down the lawn,
Skipp'd Acantha, ere the dawn
Had brightly fringed the lovely breast
Of heavenly beauty in the west;—
While lingering on the dewy sward
A zephyr breathing song she heard,
Around a rosy fragrant flower,
Fit to bedeck sweet Flora's bower;
While gazing with a slight alarm,
She owned the power, she felt the charm
Of all the fragrance of the dew,
Of music and its beauties too,—
A dew-drop, hanging bright and fair,
Reflected all the beauties there,
And bade them, with new hints, arise
Celestial in Acantha's eyes!
Enchanted by the lovely view,
Sleep o'er her mind a curtain threw—
Even like a calm and halcyon rest
That soothes the dove's untroubled breast,
Now in the heavens the bright sun smiles
In glory o'er the many isles,
Still pouring forth his radiant beams
Like cheerful Beauty in her dreams;—
The lovely nymph awakes, and sees
The affluence of the fruitful trees,
And starts with throbbing bosom warm,
When lo! wings spread, to scathe from harm,
Are o'er her; 'tis the Lark, kind bird,
Choosing her lot on the humble sward;
Acantha, for this act of love,
Bade her away to realms above,
Where purer air and brighter things
Would halo round her fluttering wings,—
She soared, and as she higher flew
A wond'ring eye on the nymph she threw,
And with sweet pipings mellow—shrill—
Made all her tender bosom thrill,
While feelings came that bosom o'er
Which music never gave before!
'Twas Acantha's praise she sang!
And all her mellow notes she flung
The echoing vales and woods among;—
The stars rejoicing lutes did play
Until the closing of the day,
In honour of the new-made song,
So much delayed yet loved so long,
And when their lutes they did unstring
To gaze upon this fluttering thing,
Like Venus in her sacred car
They sparkled in the heavens afar!
Young Beauty, listening in the grove,
Was tranced to hear such song of love;
And grey-haired sires, at silent even,
Saw calm Devotion rise to heaven;
And children paused amid their play
To hear the music far away;
The child upon its mother's breast
Cast back its clustering locks, and press'd
The endearing arm it loved the best;
While noble Courage heard, and Guilt
A glow of honest virtue felt!—
Thanks, beauteous songster of the grove—
Thanks for thy hymn of holy love!
Oh, thanks to God who sent thee near,
With all thy heavenly beauties here!
The heart will know Him when alone,
And all its lighter thoughts are gone,
And in thy melody and grace
His glorious beauties calmly trace,
Ere time threw shadows on the face!

HOW TO MANAGE AN AFFAIR OF HONOUR.—The French Corsaire, in allusion to some recent political but harmless encounters with pistol and sword, gives the following description of a "model" duel:—A duel has taken place between M. C——, another representative, and M. D——, also a representative. M. C—— sent by his valet-de-chambre a nice new bullet, in a charming little pasteboard box, to M. D——, and the latter sent back to his adversary another bullet, still handsomer in appearance, in a mahogony box. After this exchange of bal's the seconds declared honour to be satisfied.

"OF INTEREST TO ALL,"
TO THE LADIES.
THE GENUINE BALM OF COLUMBIA, FOR RESTORING THE HAIR.

"Long hair is a glory to woman," says Paul,
And all feel the truth of the pious quotation;
Preserve it then, ladies—your glory may fall,
Unless you protect it with this preparation.

If you wish a rich, luxuriant head of hair, free from dandruff and scurf, do not fail to procure the genuine Balm of Columbia. In cases baldness it it will more than exceed your expectations. Many who have lost their hair for twenty years, have had it restored to its original perfection by the use of this balm. Age, state, or condition, appears to be no obstacle whatever: it also causes the fluid to flow with which the delicate hair tubes is filled, by which means thousands (whose hair was grey as the Asiatic eagle) have had their hair restored to its natural color by this invaluable remedy. In all cases of fever it will be found the most pleasant wash that can be used. A few applications only are necessary to keep the hair from falling out. It strengthens the roots, it never fails to impart a rich glossy appearance, and as a perfume for the toilet it is unequalled. It holds three times as much as other miscalled hair restoratives, and is more effectual.

Don't permit your Horses or cattle to die, when the means of cure are within the reach of all!

The undersigned has spent several years in the study of Veterinary practice in "London and Edinboro'," he has also availed himself of the researches of Leibig, and other celebrated men, who have contributed so much towards a judicious treatment of animals; the principles of our practice consists of the rejection of general bleeding and, the total rejection of all medicines that experience has shown is be of a dangerous tendancy. REVIEW OF THE WORK.

Marriage requires the fulfilment of several conditions, in order that it may be really the cause of mutual happiness. Could the veil, which covers the origin of domestic wretchedness, be raised and its true source in every instance disclosed, in how many could it be traced to physical disqualifications and their attendant disappointments. Excesses are always injurious; the gift, which when used in moderation is fraught with advantage, becomes, when abused, the prolific source of mischief, and of greater or less injury to the constitution and vital powers. The particular excesses, on the nature and consequences of which this Treatise professes to dilate, are productive of greater misery to the human frame, then any other to which it is subject.

This Work contains an accurate and complete account of the Anatomy and Physiology of the Reproductive Organs, and of their relative conditions in health and disease. Not are these the sole contents of the Work, the means of escape, as well as the nature of the danger are pointed out in clear and intelligible language. It deservedly requires the closest attention and study, for what subject can be of more importance than the preservation of health, and the physecial capabilities of which every man should be possessed. It unfortunately happens that the unhappy victim of excesses, indulgence and vicious habits, whether acquired in early life, or from the follies of advancing age, while suffering from their invariable consequences, unwisely entertains a fear of applying to the qualified physician for relief. Shame and the dread so frequently but erroneously entertained that these complaints are beyond the reach of art, alike restrict him, and prevent his seeking for assistance where alone it can be procured. In acting thus, he forgets that actuate discrimination in ascertaining the causes of disease; sympathy with the sufferer, and above all, secrecy, invariably characterize the intelligent and practical physician; and to the medical man, who can show by his possession of the requisite legal qualification that he is entitled to esteem and respect in his professional pursuits the utmost confidence should be extended. DR. LA'MERT has obtained the highest medical honours, as his diplomas testify, and the great extent of his practice for many years is a guarantee for his professional experience, which has reference almost solely to the treatment of these diseases.

The work may be had in St. John, of H. Cunard & Co. price 2s 6d sg.; Halifax, Messrs. Mun on & Co.; Quebec, Mr. Neilson.
