Want Livestock?

There are great opportunities among the 36,000 Guide readers for the sale and exchange of pure-bred livestock. At the present time there is a very active demand for young bulls of beef breeds. One advertiser who had four Aberdeen Angus bulls for sale writes us that they could have sold 40 instead of four. If you have a good bull you have used for two or three seasons and would like to sell or exchange him try a classified ad. on this page.

Guide readers are going more and more into the production of pure-bred livestock. H. M. Pettit, Secretary of the Dominion Shorthorn Breeders' Association, writing The Guide under date April 18 last states: "In the next few years the grain growers of Western Canada will be extensive purchasers of pure-bred cattle."

Readers of The Guide will be the best buyers of pure-bred livestock for some time to come.

A classified ad. in The Guide's Farmers' Market Place is not an experiment, it is a sure road to success—proved by hundreds of other livestock breeders.

In reply to yours of 3rd inst. re my ad. in your paper of a young Holstein bull for sale, would say I have good success through that ad., and if I do not sell him it is not but lots have seen it and written me. Would recommend your paper to any who have stock to sell as a sure medium to reach purchasers. — R. Smith, Oak Lake, Man. Feb. 3, 1917.

I had great success with advertising in your paper, for it is the best farming paper I have ever seen. I had men coming from all directions to look at my stock, and it didn't take me long to sell what I wanted to sell—chickens, Nachtergale, North Battleford, Sask. April 28, 1917.
