DELEGATION IS IN NEW YORK

Distinguished Irishmen Arrive

Talk of Blackrod-All-Red
Railway and Steamship
Route

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—Arriving on the steamer Carmania from Queenstown today, was a delegation of distinguished Irishmen who are interested in making Blackrod Bay, Ireland, the eastern terminal of the Atlantic service in the proposed All-Red railway and steamship route. The contemplated system provided for a ship line directly connecting Great Britain and Canada across the continent service over the Grand Trunk R. R. and steamship connections between the west coast of the Dominion with Japan, China and Australia.

The delegation is made up of the Most Rev. Dr. Clancy, Bishop of Sligo; Dr. R. Ambrose, M.P.; John Arncliffe Drake, J.P.; Rev. Daniel E. Reilly, and Rev. Mr. Sherry. The delegation will lay its case before Premier Laurier at Ottawa.

Speaking of their mission tonight, Dr. Ambrose said: "We maintain in Ireland that if we are to pay our share of the subsidy to be given for the All-Red route we should receive some of the benefits. Our proposition is to have Blackrod Bay, Ireland, the eastern port for the Atlantic steamers of the route; to have a railroad built from the bay to Sligo, connecting with the lines already built to Greenmore, on the east coast of Ireland; to have a ferry system from Greenmore to Fleetwood, Scotland, so that the trains can be carried across to Scotland and placed on railroads that will take them down into England. Ireland will receive great profit thus from the bay and from the new Irish railroad. The latter will cost a million and a half of dollars."

WILL SUCCEED
DEAN PARTRIDGE

Placed Resignation in Hands of His Congregation
Last Night

SYDNEY, Dec. 1.—The Rev. C. D. Schofield, for the last three years rector of Christ church, this city, formally placed his resignation in the hands of the congregation during the course of his sermon tonight.

Mr. Schofield has been appointed to the important position of dean of the cathedral of Christ church, Fredericton, and will leave to assume his new duties sometime during the next two months. The appointment was also announced in the New Brunswick capital last night.

Following the death of the late Dean Partridge the duties of the deanery were discharged by the present Bishop of Fredericton, the then cathedral bishop of the diocese. The demise of the late Bishop Kindred, however, has necessitated the appointment of an incumbent to the position.

This has resulted in the selection of Mr. Schofield, Mr. Schofield, who received his early training in England, is a graduate of King's College, Windsor. He came here from Hampton, New Brunswick, three years ago.

SIR JOHN BELL AND LADY BELL, LONDON'S NEW LORD MAYOR AND MAYORESS.

LONDON'S LORD MAYOR ENTERS OFFICE IN MAGNIFICENT PAGEANT

LONDON, Nov. 29.—The new Lord Mayor of London, Sir John Bell, has just entered on his year of office under the most promising auspices.

Sir John will not have by any means an easy task in succeeding Sir William Trevelyan, Lord Mayor Trevelyan's year of office will be long remembered, if for no other reason, on account of the Cripples Home and College, which he founded at Apton. But Sir John Bell will doubtless find his own sphere of usefulness, and he has had just the kind of experience to fit him for the mayoralty of a great city. Moreover, Sir John Bell has been a glutton for books. Born in 1844, he was educated at Brompton Grammar School, and married in 1868 the eldest daughter of Mr. Charles of Enfield. He has filled many important offices in city affairs, including, in 1892, the chairmanship of the finance and improvements committee. Two years afterward, his ward election him to the Court of Aldermen. Sir John is a member of No. 1 Grand Masters' Lodge, and also of the Grand Master Chapter in Royal Arch Masonry. He is also a commissioner for income tax for the city and a past master of the Glovers' and Bankers' Companies. He served as sheriff of the city of London in 1902, and is chairman and managing director of the Wenlock Brewery Company. With such a wide and varied experience his year of mayoralty should prove an unequalled success, and he will enter upon his work with the good wishes of all good Londoners.

LORD MAYOR'S SHOW.

The annual show known as Lord Mayor's Day was this year very remarkable in impressiveness. Its most striking feature was "The Edwards of England," a historic pageant arranged by Louis N. Parker. This pageant consisted of eight groups, representing the periods of Edward the Confessor and the seven King Edwards of England. Group 1—Edward the Confessor, an abbot bearing a model of Westminster Abbey, which was built in his reign; Earl Godwine and his two sons, Tostig and Harold, and riding behind, William, Duke of Normandy, later known as William the Conqueror. Group 2—Edward I, the barons of the cinque ports, Simon of Montfort and Edward, first Prince of Wales. Group 3—Edward II, Piers Gaveston, Hugh Le Despenser, barons, and Henry Le Waleys, first M. P. for London. Group 4—Edward III, Flemish weavers, Genoese merchants, Chaucer, the Black Prince, and knights from Spain, Cyprus, and Armenia. Group 5—Edward IV, Earl of Warwick, Duke of Clarence, Falconbridge, and men of Kent. Group 6—Edward V, the Duke of York and Duke of Gloucester. Group 7—Edward VI and personages representing the revival of education. Group 8—Our present King Edward's reign represented by a car entitled "Harvest of the Peacemaker," bearing Peace, who is enthroned over the four quarters of the earth.

STATUS OF LONDON'S CHIEF.

The Lord Mayor of the City of London is a familiar figure to "the man in the street," but of his real powers and privileges and the history of his ancient office very little is known to the average Londoner. How many, for instance, are aware of the fact that within the city itself he takes precedence of every subject of the kingdom—princes of the royal blood not even excepted.

The title of "right honorable," again, is by no means a courtesy prefix, for he is by virtue of his office a member of the Privy Council, and, indeed, at the meeting of that body called on "the demise of the Crown" (as the death of the reigning sovereign is called), he is His princely emolument of ten thousand pounds a year and "lordly pleasure-house," the Mansion House, provided as his official residence by the corporation, are fitting accompaniments to the state he is called upon to maintain. The sum in question, although considerable, is always very much less than he is expected to spend during the year. The first day of office alone—Lord Mayor's Day—with its "show" and banquet in the evening, costs something between four and five thousand pounds, one-half of which is borne by him, and the rest equally by his two sheriffs.

Every great national disaster in this or any other land finds in him the ready and willing public receiver and alms-giver of the world's charity. The Mansion House funds being justly renowned for their munificence and the promptitude with which they are collected and applied.

His public duties are innumerable, and he is chairman of the periodical meetings of the Courts of Aldermen and Common Council, presides over the Livings in Common Hall, and over every great meeting of citizens in the ancient South African war fever frequent and uproarious. He is ex-officio a member of many of the corporation's committees, though, although attendance at these is not looked for to any extent during his mayoralty.

At coronations, by immemorial usage he acts as cup bearer or chief butler. He is chief magistrate of the city, the Cathedral and chairman of his majesty's Commission of Lieutenancy, to which body he alone has the high privilege of nominating to fill vacancies therein. Such old-world privileges as the right to go a-hunting in Epping Forest and to proceed in glorious pageant upon the River Thames have died; but he is still admiral of the port of London, and ex-officio chairman of the Thames Conservancy, a right, however, which is now never claimed.

WAY FOR THE KING.

The lord mayor only recognizes one greater than himself in his own domain—the monarch. Him he meets on royal visits to the city at Temple Bar or Holborn Parks, and yields up to him his emblem of civic authority—the sword—which, being duly returned, he bears in front of the royal procession until the city's boundaries are again reached.

No troops may enter the city's square mile save by his leave first obtained, and by day or night he can claim admission through the gates of the Tower of London, the passport being duly furnished to him from time to time by his sovereign.

Not only in the matter of emoluments and residence are his surroundings magnificent. There is his coach, a wonderful equipage built in 1877, weighing nearly four tons, with exquisitely painted panels and so-placed and so-arranged as to form "the ginger-bread coach," as distinct from the modest, though very handsome vehicle used on ordinary occasions. The coach was built by a contribution of $300 a head from the aldermen who had not served as Mayor and is now seldom seen, save in the civic procession of today.

He claims and insists are all worthy of note. The badges of royalty are attached to his office; the sword of state, and he wears the collar and jewel conferred upon him as a mark of royal favor. His chain, which is five feet long, consists of a series of gold S links (hence called the SS chain), the jewel being suspended by a ring of diamonds.

THE SWORDS OF OFFICE.

There are several swords attached to the office, one being the magnificent and unique "Pearl" sword presented by Queen Elizabeth in 1571 on opening the Royal Exchange. This, however, is seldom seen, being carried only at great national functions. Another is the black sword borne on the death of any member of the royal family. On these occasions it is the Lord Mayor's duty to direct the tolling of the great bell of St. Paul's. A sword always reposes on the table at the corporation's fortnightly meetings at Guildhall, and by ordering its removal the Lord Mayor can summarily and automatically end the sitting—a course not often adopted nowadays, though in more stormy times it was frequently resorted to.

The robes of office are as magnificent as the table at the high and ancient office is a long and difficult one, and probably unique in the number of times the aspirant has to submit himself for election before he reaches it.

First, he is chosen as alderman of his ward by the inhabitants, such choice having been confirmed by the Court of Aldermen, who have (and occasionally lose—the right of veto. Then in exercise) the right of veto. Then in exercise) the right of veto. Then in exercise) the right of veto.

The whole process occupies anything from ten to fifteen years, according to the deaths or resignations of the aldermen standing between him and the chair.

TWO KILLED, SEVERAL INJURED IN EXPLOSION AT BRUNSWICK, ME.

Boiler Blew Up and Parts Went Out Through the Roof—Victims Buried Under the Debris—Many Narrow Escapes

BRUNSWICK, Me., Dec. 1.—The explosion of a boiler, which was a part of the heating apparatus at the Maine Central Railroad station here, killed two men and caused serious injury to several others shortly after midnight today. The dead:

William B. Woodward, night baggageman, aged 55.
Walter Harris, car inspector, aged 35 years.
The injured:
Joseph Terrio, laborer, employed by the railroad; broken thigh, and other injuries.
Fred Sylvester, American Express night agent, badly cut about the head and legs.

The accident happened shortly after 12 o'clock and about three minutes after the departure of the night train heavily loaded with passengers for Bangor and Portland. Baggage-master Woodward had been accustomed every night to go to the rear of the station to fix the fire immediately after the departure of the midnight train. Tonight he had just gone into the cellar when the explosion occurred.

DYNAMITE EXPLODED,
WOUNDING THREE

Halifax Man Had Eye Cut and Leg Torn

His Companions, Seaview Men, Were Torn About Head—Explosive Was Being Thawed Out at Pisarino

With a piece of metal driven into the calf of one of his legs by the force of a dynamite explosion, a man named Johnson, hailing from Fairville, was taken on Saturday from Pisarino to Fairville. There he was operated upon by Dr. Curran and the metal taken from his leg. Two other men were injured by the explosion. These were Michael Driesell and William Steeves of Seaview, who were both wounded about the head and face. That this accident did not result in one death or more is remarkable in the face of the fact that Johnson's pipe, which he carried in his pocket, was smashed into a hundred pieces and the amber mouthpiece reduced to powder by the explosion.

The three men were engaged in placing a buoy off Negro Head. Wires were to be used about the buoy and to give these good positions in the rocks, the latter were being blasted with dynamite. Saturday morning the explosive was found to be frozen and to thaw it out a fire was built on the beach. While being thawed, the dynamite exploded, injuring all of the three men. The explosion occurred at about nine o'clock. Dr. Curran was at once summoned from Fairville. He found the two local men severely injured about the head, the cheek of one being badly torn, the other suffering from a cut about the eye and injuries to the scalp. Their wounds were dressed at Pisarino. Johnson, however, had to be taken to Fairville. It is thought that the dynamite was in a tin can and that part of the can was blown into Johnson's leg. The metal can was several inches thick. Johnson also had one eye badly cut. At the Lancaster Hotel, Fairville, the fragment of tin was cut from his leg. Dr. Curran last night said that all three of the men would recover from the effects of their injuries.

en brain, will do his work more and more effectively. It is an argument for education, education means training and preparation for life. Modern education is practical and technical, furnishing much better equipment than a school education. It is an argument in favor of the college. For the last twenty-five years the large universities have had advantage, but today the pen is swinging in the direction of all colleges. A remarkable book has been published. It is entitled, "Dual Training in Our Colleges." The author, C. F. Birdseye, is a prominent lawyer and a graduate of American College. After a careful study of the subject he declares that the universities are failing in the essential point of individual training. He holds to be the most important thing in college life. He argues in favor of the small college. This book has made a great sensation in favor of Christian education.
