Blames Germany For Much Armament

One of the Delegates at Hague Conference Speaks Out Frankly.

(Canadian Press Despatch) THE HAGUE, Aug. 21.—The International Peace Congress adopted last evening a resolution that the differences between the United States and Great Britain, regarding the Panama Canal act, should be referred to The Hague court of arbitration.

In his presidential address, Professor De Loutter, referred to the United States as the foremost nation in the peace movement, and to the balance of peace as an expression of "bomage from the new world to the old. He said that while the East was shrouded in darkness, the star of hope was ever brightening in the West.

Prof. Quiddle, in moving his resolution, severely blamed Germany for the last increase in armaments in Europe. He said that there would have been no increase by France but for the action of Germany.

Much indignation has been expressed by the delegates at the failure to invite them to the opening of the peace palace. Not one of them originally was invited to the ceremony, and after pressure had been applied, only four have received invitations.

To The Editor

CHIEF SLEMIN'S VERSION Courier: Sir,—Re the fakir on the market on Saturday night last.

In justice to this department permit me to correct an impression apparently conveyed in a letter written to the Courier in last night's issue by the Market Clerk.

Mr. McAuley states that when this fakir approached him for permission to sell jewellery on the market, he said that he had a license to do so, and when Mr. McAuley asked to see it, he said he would produce it to-day.

It appears that the fakir came back to Mr. McAuley at 5 o'clock and said he had seen me, and had my permission. Mr. McAuley then gave him a stand and collected the fee of $1.

I think Mr. McAuley should have called me up by phone before taking my consent as granted, as he is well aware that I have no power to give such a license, and have never done so.

All I know of the matter, is that the fakir called at my office and produced Mr. McAuley's receipt for $1.00 and the City Treasurer's receipt for $10.00, which he then handed out to the press with a request that it be published, was used by the Canadian and American papers.

The synopsis of the matter, as telegraphed to a number of papers and requested to be supplied with a copy of what was despatched to them on this speech. All day yesterday telegrams marked collect, were arriving from these papers for Thaw. This curiosity cost him nearly a hundred dollars.

District Attorney Conger and Sheriff Hornbeck after a secret conference with the immigration officials visiting Superior Judge Globensky this morning, went in the court room this forenoon, and there they held a conference with the immigration officials.

I wish to impress on the public that permission was granted at the City Hall to the above man, and that I had nothing to do in the matter.

I shall be glad if any citizen who has been victimized by this fakir, will come to my office and lay information against him for fraud, and I will then do my best to have him brought back so that justice may be done.

I am, Sir, Yours truly, CHAS. SLEMIN, Chief Constable.

Entered From Vermont. CAVERDISH, Vermont, Aug. 21.—It appeared yesterday that Harry K. Thaw entered Canada from Vermont, and not directly from New Hampshire as had been supposed.

The train is on the boundary line between the states. It is in the township of Canaan, Vt. This is believed by state officials to be the basis of the report from Sherbrooke, Canada, last night that Thaw was likely to be turned over to the authorities of this state.

Beecher Falls is in the extreme northeast of the state and very close to the Canadian line. From this village Thaw drove by team, he probably did not again enter New Hampshire, though he might easily have done so by taking a roundabout route.

It is expected that this point will be definitely determined and the Canadian authorities informed accordingly.

Governor Allen M. Fletcher at his home here to-day said that he did not wish to make an official statement as to the attitude of Vermont should Thaw be returned to this state as an undesirable emigrant to Canada. The governor, however, had before him a statement by Attorney-General Rufus E. Brown, which the executive said best expressed his own view. The attorney-general declared that he considered Thaw an undesirable and dangerous person and that if he had the authority to do so he would surrender the fugitive to the police of New York State.

"Concerning the attitude of the state in the matter of Thaw's extradition," said Mr. Brown, "if it were asked for, I can only say that personally had I any authority and in case I should be called upon to exercise it, I would surrender Thaw to the state of New York. I consider him not only an undesirable, but a dangerous person.

"However, should Thaw be in Vermont and the state of New York seek to have him surrendered simply on the ground that he has escaped from an insane asylum it probably would be an altogether different matter."

The attorney-general added that he could hardly see how by any legal means Thaw could get into Vermont though he might have entered Canada through the point of entry at Beecher Falls. He thought it probable that Canada would if possible, co-operate with the authorities of New York and return the prisoner direct to that state.

"I feel," said the attorney-general, "as they do in New Hampshire, in that Vermont does not want Thaw within its limits."

THAW MUST GO BACK IN DECISION FROM OTTAWA

Though apparently cheered by their visit, their presence seemed to make him more close mouthed than ever regarding his escape.

Thaw's fellow prisoner, who described himself as Mitchell Thompson, a Canadian, was identified by District Attorney Conger and Sheriff Hornbeck of Duchess county, New York, as Roger Thompson, driver of the black racing car which whisked Thaw away from the asylum, remained silent in his cell to-day.

Charged with violating a Canadian man's rights in assisting a lunatic across the border, Thompson was unable to furnish the $500 bail required, and he must stay in his cell until Friday when he will have a hearing.

New Lawyer Secured. This was another beautiful day in Sherbrooke, crisp, cloudless, invigorating. Now standing the ideal weather there was no early gathering of the curious about the Court House or jail.

The summoning of Mr. Green-shield from Montreal to take precedence over all the Thaw lawyers has served to confirm the impression that the fugitive's relatives, so far as possible, are taking the conduct of the shield is described here as one of the ablest lawyers in the Dominion, who rarely takes a criminal case. He is being assisted by Mr. Shirriff of Coaticook, and Charles D. White and Col. Harry Fraser, both of Sherbrooke. It is said that Thaw is being retained by Mr. Green-shield until the Montreal lawyer arrived here.

The flaw in the proceedings against Thaw as they have been conducted in Canada up to the present time, is the omission of the fact that Thaw was lodged in jail. In addition to several errors in the description of Thaw's status in Mattawan, it omits specifically to fix a date for the hearing of the case. This means that Thaw could remain in jail indefinitely unless his lawyers took advantage of habeas corpus. The immigration officials yesterday were jubilant over the attempts being made to free Thaw as they knew that when freed from the commitment charge, he would walk out of jail into the hands of the press, what taken back by the fact that he was not to be produced to-day.

Charles D. White of Sherbrooke, who was Thaw's chief lawyer, until he had under the command of Lieut. J. H. Pearce, Mus. Dec., discussed excellent music. Many were the favorable comments upon the renditions of the music. Dr. Pearce is certainly to be complimented on the excellent state of efficiency of his organization. The Lawrie Book of Hamilton order not to step on each other's feet.

As ten o'clock came around a small crowd, most of them well dressed women, began to gather in the Superior Court. They had not heard that the proceedings were off for the day, and were apparently in a state of disappointment.

Groups of girls gathered on the street corners in the vicinity of the Court House. One of the principal worries of Thaw just now seems to be how much of the synopsis of Jerome's speech to the jury in '08, which he handed out to the press with a request that it be published, was used by the Canadian and American papers.
