Then the food question! Imagine England, the island of good and plenty, the land of roast beef and mutton, having to submit to food rationing and doing it voluntarily A Royal proclamation is being read in all churches and chapels on these four successive Sundays requesting the people to cut down their consumption of bread to one quarter the amount they would eat in normal times; to refrain from using flour for anything but the making of bread; not to feed oats to horses

They were homesick, nevertheless. During the first few days after arrival the sweetest topic of conversation was, home, wife, children, or father or mother. I hope to be near them in France, but we cannot do here what we would like always, and I may not have that privilege. At any rate I am compelled to remain in England for the present, and am assured by authorities that a Chaplain's, work here, is not secondary in importance even to his work in France.
