

IDYLE HOUR IN THE LEAD

Civil Service Drops to Second Place

Excellent Game is Witnessed by the Largest Crowd of the Season.

The ball game last night was the most exciting and best attended of any that has been played in the league series this season. Such was expected long before the call of time and the crowd was not disappointed. Even further admission to the grand stand was refused soon after the first inning, so great was the crowd and so many the number who desired a place to sit down. And the managers of the respective teams at play beamed with delight. The crowd in the grand stand was a noisy one and many of them did not care particularly what they said, there being present strong partisans of both teams.

As the quality of the game is largely judged by the score it could be said of the game last night that had it not been for the awful slaughter in the latter half of the third when the Idylers piled up seven runs the game would have been a crackjack. But that awful holocaust in the third was a little bit worse than maddening. It was fiercely fierce and strenuously strenuous.

A resume of the summary shows rather a remarkable state of affairs considering the result. Brazier struck out ten men while Lowery fanned but six. Lowery gave away three bases on dead balls and Brazier none. The Service committed five errors and the Idylers three while both sides had six men left on base. The Idylers beat their opponents to a standstill on stealing bases, having eleven to their credit and the Service but two. The Service made ten assists and the Idylers nine. By reason of both teams being at the head of the list and also on account of a deplorable state of animosity between them, which in several instances is very bitter, the result of the play was more eagerly anticipated than in any game yet played this season. At least a couple of thousand dollars changed hands, all placed at even money.

The hall was opened by the Service who succeeded in getting but one man by first. Bennett hit for a single to center field and made the initial hit, only to be caught napping a moment later by Boyer at the plate. Winters hit to third and went out at first. Dowd dropped a little in front of the plate and on an error of first made the cushion flying later to mid field. The Idylers drew first blood and it was a peach. Krelling was first at the bat and the second ball that crossed the plate he hit squarely in the eye and sent it out in left field under the slough bridge making a home run. Henderson went out at first on an assist of pitcher. Boyer took a walk on balls and was retired at second in endeavoring to purloin the bag, the assist being made by Bennett at home, and Doyle put a high fly to Harrison which was promptly nailed.

The Service scored in the second. Sullivan retired at first on an assist of third, McAvill fanned and Culligan took his base on a dead ball. Delfel hit to third and on a series of bad throws that followed stole second and scored on a passed one after the other made the third cushion where he died on Brazier's out at first. The Idylers also scored in their half. Coffey hit to short and would have gone out at first had Winters had his foot within three feet of the base. Smith followed and as he dropped a little chap in the same position as Coffey the latter was retired at second on a forced run. Smith circled the bases and on the race for home collided at the plate with Bennett which resulted in a mixup, a shove, a poke in the face and police interference. Lowery fanned, Harrington hit for a single, stole second and died on Krelling pounding the air.

The beginning of the third was the commencement of a long line of ciphers for the Service, lasting through five innings. Bennett put a liner to center field; Winters took his base on a dead ball and died on third, Dowd slammed out a two bagger but got no further, Harrison fanned and Sullivan went out on a fly to Coffey. The last half of the third was the scene of the awful carnage. The Service was entirely demoralized. Brazier was batted all over the field and fumbles and muffs piled up at an alarming rate. The crowd yelled and shouted itself hoarse and the Idylers who were not on bases hugged each other in ecstasy. The first seven men to go to the bat scored. Then Brazier fanned; Krelling hit to left field and stole second where he carried, Henderson went out at first on an assist of short and Boyer put a liner to Winters-Henderson, Boyer, Doyle, Forrest, Coffey, Smith and Lowery brought in the runs.

From the fourth to the eighth neither side scored. In the beginning of the fourth McAvill retired at first on an assist of short, Culligan fanned, and Delfel reached first on a single to third. Brazier fanned leaving Delfel at second. In the latter half Doyle made the first cushion on an error of second, stole second and went out at third on an assist of Bennett. Forrest and Coffey both fanned.

The only double play in the game occurred in the fourth. Bennett got as far as third where he was retired on a double play. Winters hit to left field for a single. Dowd dropped a liner to Doyle and the double play came up on a hit of Harrison to third. Lowery fanned the ball, passed it to third where Bennett was caught and then a quick throw was made to second and Winters was also retired. In the latter half Smith, Lowery and Harrington went down in one, two, three order, Smith pounding the atmosphere. Lowery on a fly to Sullivan and Harrington at first on an assist of pitcher.

The same thing happened in the sixth. Sullivan, McAvill and Culligan being bowled over in the order named. In the latter half Krelling fanned and Henderson was retired at first on a pretty play. The hit was fielded by Winters and Brazier covered the bag. Boyer made third and Doyle second, where both died on a fly to Delfel.

In the seventh three men came to the bat for the Service and all went out on hits. Delfel to Doyle who made a splendid running catch. Brazier to Coffey and Bennett to Harrington. In their half the Idylers got two men to bases but they failed to score.

The last, ninth, played was the eighth, the game being called on account of the rain. The Service managed to tear off two more runs but their opponents had too much on a lead to change the appearance of the score. Winters got first on a dead ball, Dowd went out at first on a single felled by Doyle and then Harrison slammed but a three bagger, the only one in the game, which brought Winters home. Harrison saved himself at third only by a good slide, scoring on McAvill's hit to short. Sullivan took a walk, stole second and died on third. McAvill went out at first as did also Culligan. In the latter half Henderson hit down the line toward first which was felled by Brazier who put him out on the line. Boyer fanned, Doyle got as far as second and Forrest hit to the same place that Boyer did. By mutual consent the game was called. The following is the lineup and the score by innings.

Idyle Hour-Krelling, short. Henderson, third base. Boyer, catcher. Doyle, second base. Coffey, right field. Forrest, center field. Smith, first base. Harrington, left field. Lowery, pitcher.

Civil Service-Bennett, catcher. Boyer, pitcher. Delfel, short. Winters, first base. McAvill, second base. Culligan, third base. Dowd, right field. Harrison, center field. Sullivan, left field.

Idyle Hour—1st, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9. Civil Service—0, 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9. Struck out by Brazier, 10. by Lowery, 6. Base on balls by Brazier, 3. by Lowery, 1. Base on hit by pitched ball, by Brazier, 0. by Lowery, 3. Assists, by Civil Service 10. by Idyle Hour, 9. Steals bases by Civil Service, 2. by Idyle Hour, 11. Left on base, by Civil Service, 6. by Idyle Hour, 6. Errors, by Civil Service, 5. by Idyle Hour, 2. Two base hits, Dowd, Coffey, Lowery and Doyle. Three base hit, Harrison. Home run, Krelling. Double play, Brazier to Culligan to McAvill. Unpure, Leroy, Leroy, Leroy. W. H. H. Lyon.

The following is the present standing of the clubs in the league.

Idyle Hour	Played	Won	Lost	Avg.
Idyle Hour	6	4	2	.667
Civil Service	6	2	4	.333
Ananarth	3	2	1	.667
Gandolfo	3	0	3	.000

*Game tied.

Forest Fires

Burlington, Vt., June 1.—At least 1,000 men are fighting forest fires in Vermont, yet thousands of acres of valuable timber land have been burned over, and there is little prospect that the fires can be checked until rain shall fall. At Hardwick, two residences were destroyed. The most serious situation is on Worcester mountain, near the towns of Waterbury and Elmore. The fire there has burned over 1,000 acres of heavy timber land, valued at $50,000 and is rapidly spreading.

FARM BUILDINGS BURNED

Houlton, Me., June 4.—The forest fires in Aroostook county have destroyed 14 mills of the Bangor & Aroostook railroad, and reports from small settlements have been destroyed, at least 24 sets of farm buildings have been burned and the fires which had almost abated last night were increasing today before a brisk wind.

New York, June 5.—The forest fires in the Adirondacks and New England are spreading at an alarming rate and destroying millions of dollars worth of summer cottages and camping resorts. Fires are reported in Vermont, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Connecticut and Maine.

Big ocean going vessels felt their way in and out of the harbor or else remained at anchor to avoid collisions. All around is covered with smoke. The most serious fires are in the vicinity of Long Lake, east towards Newcomb lake and Mount Marcy.

Draught beer Rochester Bar.

The Breakfast in the Shoe Box.

The young master had been out of college for a year and he had spent that time in his father's bank. But he was as youthful in two particulars as on the day he first went to school.

He feared then just as much as he does today the fat and bald butler who could look very stout and amiable sometimes and at other times tremendously serious and impressive. Fear of this respectful and ancient servant had become a sort of tradition with him. He had imbibed it at 1, and at 21 it was not easily shaken off.

It was almost the same kind of fear that made him stand in dread of the paternal displeasure. He had the healthy horror of childhood of groups.

It was above all the combination of the two forces that he dreaded. The butler was faithful to the father's interest in reporting any suspected departure from the path of propriety that all young men are supposed to follow. Thus the two fearful influences were doubly terrible together.

It happened that various episodes of the young master's career had caused the vigilance of the father and the butler to be somewhat stricter than it might have been had his inferior degenerate career been free from all bright and highly colored episodes. He was strictly under the eye of the father and father's deputy the butler.

One morning last week young master emerged from his room with the conviction that whatever happened he could not eat breakfast. He expected when he fell into bed a few hours before that food would be supplied in the morning. He was absolutely certain of it as he put on his clothes.

He had escaped the notice of both his father and the butler as he came down to breakfast. He could not hope to do so at breakfast. At least one of them was certain to be with him at the table. There was no trace of fatigue in his fresh pink and white face and his yellow hair curled about his head as crisply as if he had been sleeping but ten hours. He was in no danger of exposure so far as his appearance went. But the ordeal of trying to eat breakfast under the butler's eye was too much.

The young master pondered. He would have to go to the table of the departure from custom would get him into a mess from which he could never extricate himself. He realized this but decided reluctantly that he would not eat, come what might.

Then he looked about the hall and a sudden inspiration came to him. As he gazed at the rubber sponge bag on the wall.

When he appeared fresh and smiling in the dining room, the butler would have thought that the young master was, in fact, a healthy and hearty fellow. But it was there. He was there. The breakfast and had the custom of the butler, who eyed him with suspicious interest as he passed a cup of orange on the table before him.

See it there, a letter lay on the hall, the young master and an attendant there must be carrying it. The butler James seemed about to be going but with a look of certainty of his own mind, he stepped forward and disappeared through the door into the rubber bag which he held in his hand, hidden by a sign. With the butler, returned to his sign of the young master, having a splendid appetite.

The young master's head sank though at the sight of the poached eggs and bacon, and the coffee poured out by the butler. James came in and he ate heartily. But James the sponge bag was at hand and James had to be out for it.

Get me the paper, was the order that a second time sent James to the room into the hall.

So soon as James took his hat and the eggs, the bacon and the coffee with a chuck into the rubber bag. Then the string about the neck was drawn tight and the napkin was more thrown over it as James retired.

There's no newspaper, James said, smiling visibly as he saw the empty plate. That's a box.

That's a shoe box. It's mine. I am taking a pair of boots down town.

The young master, nearly alone, had a good appetite, so there was no surprise that the plate was so clean. If it had not been there would have been astonishment. Report to father and probably investigation.

As it was, the breakfast had vindicated him thoroughly. But it had to be got rid of. There was the shoe box that he provided for the purpose.

It was only a matter of two minutes to park the sponge bag into the box. The door closed behind him and with a sense of triumph that almost made him feel comfortable for a minute, the young master realized that he was quite safe. It might be discovered that he had been out late. But he had just as certainly been all night at breakfast.

So satisfied was he with the success of the scheme that he held the shoe box tight under one arm and quite forgot to throw it away until he was on the elevated station. There was no chance there, so he took it into the car. Then he forgot it when he alighted.

At luncheon he told the story to a friend and wondered what the result would be.

Thus it happened that a messenger arrived at the depot for lost articles bearing a letter. It requested the return of a shoe box containing a sponge bag in which were:

One orange cut up, with sugar.
Two poached eggs on toast.
Four slices of bacon.
One cup of coffee with cream.

In view of the value of the articles and the accurate description the box was given to the messenger without question. He had instructions to deliver it at the home of the young master who knew nothing of this plan.

So it happened that when he came home that night for dinner the first thing he laid eyes on was the box. It was lying on a chair in the hall almost in the same place he had put it in the morning.

But it was somewhat changed in appearance. During the ten hours that had passed the coffee had leaked out of the rubber bag. It had spread through the pasteboard, which was blotched with patches of brown.

He had almost a superstitious dread that James might have tracked him down the package and brought it back to confront him. He was able to see it, however, and take it to his room. It stayed there under lock and key until after dinner. Then it was stealthily carried out of the house under an overcoat and deposited safely in an ash barrel half a mile away.

The box came back, sir, said James the next morning when the breakfast really was disappearing. The right way, said I put them in the hall. It seemed to me they smelt of coffee, sir.

Shoes smelt of coffee, answered the young master, confident in the rectitude of his behavior. The butler bowed and replied so well by him that even the butler did not begin to doubt James' word. He was getting old and dotty. Who ever heard of shoes smelling of coffee? You might as well say they smelt like poached eggs and bacon.

Then he sallied out to get square with the agent who had almost run out his reputation in the neighborhood by sending back the shoe box.

Where, In Cans Go

I was much surprised and greatly interested a few days since when I drove through a certain establishment near New York city to find that the "cans" used consisted of empty fruit can vegetable cans secured by the cardboard from the dumps of the city. I had supposed that the cans for such material were attached to the tails of automobiles.

The principal product of this establishment, which is a hardware store, is a window, which weighs one hundred and fifty pounds, and is used for removing spines and for the hammer, as a condenser, and for the stand up to the wall. The butler of the house, and who is smooth and shows a very good nature, from the center of the house.

After delivery of the building, the cans are put into a large, open, shallow, wooden box, which is used for the cans. They are sprinkled, then, with a fine, white, powdery substance, which is set on fire. The process continues the cans, which have through the entire, are washed and sorted, and then the cans are used as a condenser, and for the stand up to the wall.

The cans are then put into a large, open, shallow, wooden box, which is used for the cans. They are sprinkled, then, with a fine, white, powdery substance, which is set on fire. The process continues the cans, which have through the entire, are washed and sorted, and then the cans are used as a condenser, and for the stand up to the wall.

The cans are then put into a large, open, shallow, wooden box, which is used for the cans. They are sprinkled, then, with a fine, white, powdery substance, which is set on fire. The process continues the cans, which have through the entire, are washed and sorted, and then the cans are used as a condenser, and for the stand up to the wall.

The cans are then put into a large, open, shallow, wooden box, which is used for the cans. They are sprinkled, then, with a fine, white, powdery substance, which is set on fire. The process continues the cans, which have through the entire, are washed and sorted, and then the cans are used as a condenser, and for the stand up to the wall.

The cans are then put into a large, open, shallow, wooden box, which is used for the cans. They are sprinkled, then, with a fine, white, powdery substance, which is set on fire. The process continues the cans, which have through the entire, are washed and sorted, and then the cans are used as a condenser, and for the stand up to the wall.

The cans are then put into a large, open, shallow, wooden box, which is used for the cans. They are sprinkled, then, with a fine, white, powdery substance, which is set on fire. The process continues the cans, which have through the entire, are washed and sorted, and then the cans are used as a condenser, and for the stand up to the wall.

The cans are then put into a large, open, shallow, wooden box, which is used for the cans. They are sprinkled, then, with a fine, white, powdery substance, which is set on fire. The process continues the cans, which have through the entire, are washed and sorted, and then the cans are used as a condenser, and for the stand up to the wall.

The cans are then put into a large, open, shallow, wooden box, which is used for the cans. They are sprinkled, then, with a fine, white, powdery substance, which is set on fire. The process continues the cans, which have through the entire, are washed and sorted, and then the cans are used as a condenser, and for the stand up to the wall.

The cans are then put into a large, open, shallow, wooden box, which is used for the cans. They are sprinkled, then, with a fine, white, powdery substance, which is set on fire. The process continues the cans, which have through the entire, are washed and sorted, and then the cans are used as a condenser, and for the stand up to the wall.

The cans are then put into a large, open, shallow, wooden box, which is used for the cans. They are sprinkled, then, with a fine, white, powdery substance, which is set on fire. The process continues the cans, which have through the entire, are washed and sorted, and then the cans are used as a condenser, and for the stand up to the wall.

The cans are then put into a large, open, shallow, wooden box, which is used for the cans. They are sprinkled, then, with a fine, white, powdery substance, which is set on fire. The process continues the cans, which have through the entire, are washed and sorted, and then the cans are used as a condenser, and for the stand up to the wall.

The cans are then put into a large, open, shallow, wooden box, which is used for the cans. They are sprinkled, then, with a fine, white, powdery substance, which is set on fire. The process continues the cans, which have through the entire, are washed and sorted, and then the cans are used as a condenser, and for the stand up to the wall.

SURE THING GAME

Says He Must Have Forgotten the Combination

It happened a few nights ago, since which time J. H. Rogers of the White Pass has been looked upon as something of a philanthropist. He lives in the vicinity of one of these new fangled water meters where you drop in a slug and draw off a five gallon can of water. He considered it a good scheme and invested in a dollar's worth of slugs. On the evening in question it was beastly hot and for want of something better to do he went to the meter for a bucket of water. In went one slug but no water came. Then another and another until five had gone the way of the first and still no water and then he was made up his mind it was a sure thing game. He returned to his home and within five minutes another neighbor went after water, but with a different result. He put one slug in the slot and the water came with a rush but when the can was filled it refused to stop keeping up a steady stream for nearly ten minutes much to the delight of everyone in the neighborhood who proceeded to fill up all the old cans, tubs and everything else handy until everyone in the block had enough water to last them a week. Then an employee of the company happened along and the signature gusher was again cut off successfully capped.

To Bring Many Jews

New York, June 1.—Plans to bring common Jews from Russia to the United States are under consideration by the order of Great Britain.

The settlement of the Rev. Dr. McArthur, that in this country and in America conditions is to be found the solution of the Jewish problem.

At a meeting of the order of Justice, held at the order named and a committee was formed with Dr. Isador Smith as president to prepare in the near future a plan that shall afford relief from the persons who will be brought to the United States.

It is stated that the order of Justice, which is a branch of the order of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, is a very powerful organization and is well known in the United States.

The order of Justice, which is a branch of the order of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, is a very powerful organization and is well known in the United States.

The order of Justice, which is a branch of the order of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, is a very powerful organization and is well known in the United States.

The order of Justice, which is a branch of the order of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, is a very powerful organization and is well known in the United States.

The order of Justice, which is a branch of the order of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, is a very powerful organization and is well known in the United States.

The order of Justice, which is a branch of the order of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, is a very powerful organization and is well known in the United States.

The order of Justice, which is a branch of the order of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, is a very powerful organization and is well known in the United States.

The order of Justice, which is a branch of the order of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, is a very powerful organization and is well known in the United States.

The order of Justice, which is a branch of the order of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, is a very powerful organization and is well known in the United States.

The order of Justice, which is a branch of the order of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, is a very powerful organization and is well known in the United States.

The order of Justice, which is a branch of the order of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, is a very powerful organization and is well known in the United States.

The order of Justice, which is a branch of the order of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, is a very powerful organization and is well known in the United States.

The order of Justice, which is a branch of the order of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, is a very powerful organization and is well known in the United States.

The order of Justice, which is a branch of the order of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, is a very powerful organization and is well known in the United States.

The order of Justice, which is a branch of the order of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, is a very powerful organization and is well known in the United States.

The order of Justice, which is a branch of the order of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, is a very powerful organization and is well known in the United States.

The order of Justice, which is a branch of the order of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, is a very powerful organization and is well known in the United States.

The order of Justice, which is a branch of the order of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, is a very powerful organization and is well known in the United States.

The order of Justice, which is a branch of the order of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, is a very powerful organization and is well known in the United States.

The order of Justice, which is a branch of the order of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, is a very powerful organization and is well known in the United States.

The order of Justice, which is a branch of the order of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, is a very powerful organization and is well known in the United States.

B. C. New Cabinet

Victoria, B. C., June 2.—To the great disappointment of many Liberals, who hoped he would remain true to the Opposition party, Mr. McBride since being called on to form a government has decided to organize on Conservative lines. This decision was announced to the Opposition caucus last night and to the house this afternoon. This morning Mr. Tait was sworn in as president of the executive council, and spoke for Mr. McBride asking for the appointment of a committee of ten to revise the estimates and select legislation that is important to complete. This was strenuously opposed by Mr. Martin who characterized it as a star chamber proceeding, but it was endorsed by the house unanimously with the exception of Messrs. Martin, Gilmore, Neill and Rogers.

In his letter of explanation, Mr. McBride stated that after careful consideration and a view of the amount of disapproval of his appointment to the country, he had decided to form a government on a Conservative basis. He said he would prepare the estimates later in the week.

Mr. McBride's speech was well received by the house. He thanked his Liberal colleagues who had stood by him and said that the other circumstances he would like been glad to see them represent the cabinet.

Mr. McBride's speech was well received by the house. He thanked his Liberal colleagues who had stood by him and said that the other circumstances he would like been glad to see them represent the cabinet.

Mr. McBride's speech was well received by the house. He thanked his Liberal colleagues who had stood by him and said that the other circumstances he would like been glad to see them represent the cabinet.

Mr. McBride's speech was well received by the house. He thanked his Liberal colleagues who had stood by him and said that the other circumstances he would like been glad to see them represent the cabinet.

Mr. McBride's speech was well received by the house. He thanked his Liberal colleagues who had stood by him and said that the other circumstances he would like been glad to see them represent the cabinet.

Mr. McBride's speech was well received by the house. He thanked his Liberal colleagues who had stood by him and said that the other circumstances he would like been glad to see them represent the cabinet.

Mr. McBride's speech was well received by the house. He thanked his Liberal colleagues who had stood by him and said that the other circumstances he would like been glad to see them represent the cabinet.

Mr. McBride's speech was well received by the house. He thanked his Liberal colleagues who had stood by him and said that the other circumstances he would like been glad to see them represent the cabinet.

Mr. McBride's speech was well received by the house. He thanked his Liberal colleagues who had stood by him and said that the other circumstances he would like been glad to see them represent the cabinet.

Mr. McBride's speech was well received by the house. He thanked his Liberal colleagues who had stood by him and said that the other circumstances he would like been glad to see them represent the cabinet.

Mr. McBride's speech was well received by the house. He thanked his Liberal colleagues who had stood by him and said that the other circumstances he would like been glad to see them represent the cabinet.

Mr. McBride's speech was well received by the house. He thanked his Liberal colleagues who had stood by him and said that the other circumstances he would like been glad to see them represent the cabinet.

Mr. McBride's speech was well received by the house. He thanked his Liberal colleagues who had stood by him and said that the other circumstances he would like been glad to see them represent the cabinet.

Mr. McBride's speech was well received by the house. He thanked his Liberal colleagues who had stood by him and said that the other circumstances he would like been glad to see them represent the cabinet.

Mr. McBride's speech was well received by the house. He thanked his Liberal colleagues who had stood by him and said that the other circumstances he would like been glad to see them represent the cabinet.

Mr. McBride's speech was well received by the house. He thanked his Liberal colleagues who had stood by him and said that the other circumstances he would like been glad to see them represent the cabinet.

Mr. McBride's speech was well received by the house. He thanked his Liberal colleagues who had stood by him and said that the other circumstances he would like been glad to see them represent the cabinet.

Mr. McBride's speech was well received by the house. He thanked his Liberal colleagues who had stood by him and said that the other circumstances he would like been glad to see them represent the cabinet.

Mr. McBride's speech was well received by the house. He thanked his Liberal colleagues who had stood by him and said that the other circumstances he would like been glad to see them represent the cabinet.

Mr. McBride's speech was well received by the house. He thanked his Liberal colleagues who had stood by him and said that the other circumstances he would like been glad to see them represent the cabinet.

Mr. McBride's speech was well received by the house. He thanked his Liberal colleagues who had stood by him and said that the other circumstances he would like been glad to see them represent the cabinet.

Mr. McBride's speech was well received by the house. He thanked his Liberal colleagues who had stood by him and said that the other circumstances he would like been glad to see them represent the cabinet.

Mr. McBride's speech was well received by the house. He thanked his Liberal colleagues who had stood by him and said that the other circumstances he would like been glad to see them represent the cabinet.

Mr. McBride's speech was well received by the house. He thanked his Liberal colleagues who had stood by him and said that the other circumstances he would like been glad to see them represent the cabinet.

COLEMAN DISMISSED

On Charge of Starting Forest Fire