Suffered Horribly Until He Turned To "Fruit-a-Lives"

J. A. CORRIVEAU

DEVONDALE, ONT., June 15th, 1915
"I am a general storekeeper at the above address, and on account of the great good I have experienced from using 'Fruit-a-Lives', I recommend them strongly to my customers. They were a great boon to me, I can tell you, for about two years ago, I was laid up in bed with vomiting and a terrific pain at the base of my skull. The pain nearly drove me mad. Doctors feared it would turn to inflammation of the brain but I took 'Fruit-a-Lives' steadily until I was cured. I have 'Fruit-a-Lives' in my house since taking 'Fruit-a-Lives' and I verily believe they saved me from a disastrous illness."

J. A. CORRIVEAU.

FEELS LIKE A NEW WOMAN

As Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Dispelled Backache, Headache and Dizziness.

Flora, Ohio.—"I would be very ungrateful if I failed to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound the praise it deserves, for I have taken it at different times and it always relieved me when other medicines failed, and when I bear a woman's complaint I always recommend it. Last winter I was attacked with a severe case of organic weakness. I had backache, pains in my hips and cover my kidneys, headache, dizziness, lassitude, had no energy, limbs ached and I was always tired. I was hardly able to do my housework. I had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound on one other occasion, and it had helped me so I took it again and it has built me up, until now I feel like a new woman. You have my hearty consent to use my name and testimonial in any way and I hope it will benefit suffering women."

—Mrs. Clara Tuxson, 613 S. Wayne St., Pelee, Ohio.
Women who are suffering from those distressing ailments to their sex should not doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve their trouble.

Milner's Lintment Cures Distemper

The Right Kind of a Boy.

A boy who had thoughtlessly hurt the feelings of a friend called in the evening and said: 'Is Theodore in?' The two had a few minutes earnest talk, after which Theodore came back to the living room with a very bright face. 'Ken had a good fellow,' he said, as his mother looked up inquiringly. 'He was rather horrid to me to day when I made an error on third base, and he came an' und to night to apologize. He said he was sorry that he had been rude, and he thought that he had been unfair. There are not many fellows who take the trouble to ask your pardon when they have been in wrong.' 'Keneth is a manly boy,' said Theodore's father. 'Yes, and a generous one,' the mother added. 'We are glad to have you cultivate the friendship of a boy such as Kenneth. You won't go far astray when in his company.'—The Comrade.

Getting Started in Class.

A man in Brooklyn had a young friend, a house builder, whom he wanted to help, as he knew the young man was engaged to marry an ambitious young woman who had worked as a seamstress in his family. The gentleman called the young man in his office, and gave him a contract for a good substantial house. The specifications called for the best brick and timber, the best grade of flooring and wood-trim, and the best quality of plumbing, etc. The young man thought he saw a way to increase his resources for his coming marriage. He scribbled on that contract. He put in interior brick and second class woodwork and plumbing, and pocketed the difference. When the day for inspection came, the owner looked it all over with the young man, and invited the young woman who was to marry him to join them. After an inspection on the building, the gentleman produced a paper from his pocket, and presented it to the young woman, saying that it was a deed for the house her husband to be built, and congratulating them both. He went away. Do you pity the young man compelled to live amid the silent testimony of his dishonesty? That is what every man does with his own. My identity, my past, my character, are always before me. I there is crookedness in my life, it will live with me to the end.—S. S. Times

'We want you to help out our village improvement society.'
'All right. What is it, a new cupola for the town hall?'

'Oh, no. We are merely raising a fund to buy the oldest inhalant some false teeth.'

Physiologists tell us gentlemen, that the older a man grows, the smaller his brain becomes. This explains why the old man knows nothing and the young one everything.

For Better Fashions.

When so much is said about freedom for women there are those who favor that we men should assert their freedom first on the subject of dress, and not be the slaves of fashion, for it is here that they have control of the situation, and they may prove to be sufficiently strong to carry an invasion of commonsense fashions to success.

According to reports the murmurs against some of the present styles, which have not brought any definite results because of the lack of concerted effort on the part of women. One of the questions which will be discussed at the National Federation of Women's Clubs when it assembles in Chicago will be the problem of modern dress. If this federation with its nearly a million members should issue an ultimatum against present styles, it might be a surprise to her majesty, Dame Fashion, but it would cause a wave in favor of American designs which revolutionize the whole situation, for many believe that they would do away with the acceptance of designs which are contrary to comfort and good taste.

Not that all of the present styles are to be condemned, for many of them are charming and graceful, but men in particular feel that women are so bound by many that are objectionable just because the fashion designers have decreed that they should be so. If they should join together in a firm effort that would free them from these bonds, it would be the best means to let men know that they should have freedom in other ways.—Gloucester Times.

Getting Near It.

A traveller, riding in an unrequited part of Scotland, came to the edge of a morass which he had thought was quite safe. Mailing a Scottish lad who was standing close by, he asked him if the bog was hard at the bottom.

'Oh, ay, quite hard!' responded the youth.

The man passed on, but his horse began to sink with alarming rapidity. 'You rascal!' he shouted to the grinning urchin. 'You told me it was hard at the bottom!'

'So it is, but you're no there yet.'

Mrs. Hiram O'Brien (seeking a cook)—'My home is in the count'y. I hope there is no objection.'

Cook—'No, mum; I'll enjoy a day in the country.'

RED ROSE TEA "is good tea"

He was a chubby, brown-faced, bare-legged urchin, from whom, during my vacation, I enquired the way to the nearest golf course.

'Well,' said he, 'ye'll gang straight along till ye come to the first road on yer right, an' ye'll see a minister—I mean a sign-post,' he corrected hastily, 'and ye'll get the road trae it.'

Thanking him for his information, I next enquired why he called the finger-post a minister.

Shuffling his feet and gazing longingly at the copper I held out to him he stammered out: 'Folks' call it a minister 'cos it pints out the right road but dinna gang it itself,' and he rubbed off to join his companions, while I retired, thinking deeply on the spread of disrespect to the cloth.

One day a Scottish boy and an English boy, who were fighting and separated by their respective mothers with difficulty, the Scottish boy, though the smaller, being far the most pugnacious.

'What garred ye fight a big laddie like that for?' said the mother, as she wiped the blood from his nose.

'And I'll fight him again,' said the boy, 'if he says Scotsmen wear kilts because their feet are too big to get into their trousers.'

A darter had been tried and found guilty of murder, and was sentenced to be hanged. The time set for the execution had arrived and the condemned negro was led to the scaffold.

'Rasta,' said the sheriff, 'have you anything to say before sentence of the law is carried into execution?'

'No, boss,' replied the prisoner. 'I ain't no spechee, but I santly be here dis m'ning to be a less n'to me.'
