Dr. Martel's Female Pills

A MAN who has been three times married and as often left a widower was reported to be thinking a fourth time of entering into the blessed and comfortable estate of holy matrimony. A friend ventured to ask whether there was any truth in the rumor and received this sagacious reply: "Na, na; what wi' marryin' them, and what wi' buryin' them, it's over expensive."

THE world-famous conductor, Dr. Haus Richter, is a man of many likes and dislikes, and had very abrupt manners when engaged in his work. At a rehearsal some time ago the conductor was much annoyed at the calm way the players were taking the impassioned music. "Gentlemen, gentlemen," said he, stopping short, "you're all playing like married men, not like levers."

THE reverence for the Sabbath in Scotland sometimes takes the form one would hardly have anticipated. An old Highland man once explained to an English tourist: "They're a God-fearing set o' folks here, sir, 'deed they are, and I'll give ye an instance o' it. Last Sabbath, just as the kirk was skalin', there was a drover chap frae Dumfries along the road, whistlin' and lookin' as happy as if it was a middle o' the week. Well, sir, our lairds is a God-fearing set o' lairds, and they just set upon him and almost killed him."

The Horseman

A W. SAVAGE is determined that there will be a new world's team record before the end of the 1910 racing season and one that will stand for many years to come. One of the Minneapolis horseman's principal objects in recently purchasing George Gang, 2:03 3/4, was to bring this world's record to Minnesota and the International Stock Food Farm.

Mr. Savage has been in the habit of getting what he goes after and this fact will lend interest to that part of the campaign to be made this fall with Minor Heir and George Gang in an attempt to lower the world's team record of 2:02 1/2 now held by Lady Maud C. and Hodgewood Boy and to reduce this record to two minutes.

"I believe George Gang will be the next two minute pacer and I also believe that before the end of the coming season he, with Minor Heir, will be able to reduce the team record materially. 'I hope to place it at the two minute mark,' declared Mr. Savage a few days ago.

So fixed is Mr. Savage's purpose to get this record that he has already given definite orders to his farm superintendent, Henry Hersey, to make every preparation to reduce the team record to 2:00. Mr. Hersey has already made arrangements for the manufacture of special harness and wagon for these pacers and during all of the training season he will overlook nothing that may ely to prepare for a world's record campaign. Some fair will probably have the honor of holding the world's team record for many years.

Minor Heir and George Gang are wonderfully mated in size, weight, gait and disposition. It seems almost certain that the two speed merchants will make a perfect going team and their phenomenal speed will make their efforts to lower world's records both singly and in double harness a sensational feature for race meets and state fairs.

Both horses are in remarkably good condition and horsemen all over the country are predicting a sensational season for the Savage pair.

Dan Patch, champion of champions, is wintering unusually well and with him to introduce this great pair of young pacers Mr. Savage surely has an attraction that is very hard to beat.

The part that chance plays is illustrated by the history of a bay horse, foaled in 1899, named Kentucky Wilkes Jr., bred by Kentucky Wilkes, 2:12 3/4, and Ellen Houser, by Trammie, 2:12 (son of Electioneer and Telie by Gen. Benton). 2d dam Elsie; the celebrated producing daughter of Gen. Benton; 3d dam Elaine, the producing daughter of Messenger Duroc, and 4th dam that great mother of trotters, Green Mountain Maid. He was bred by Gen. Benjamin P. Tracy, a profound student of breeding, and who was one of the first gentlemen in the land to advocate the crossing of Electioneer and George Wilkes blood. Kentucky Wilkes by George Wilkes, out of Minnie, by Red Jacket, she out of U. line, by the four-mile race horse Grey Eagle, was campaigned in the colors of Gen. Tracy, and he was a trotter that never hoisted a signal of distress. He contested many hard races without using up his vitality, as was demonstrated by his exuberance after he had been retired to the stud. He had the clean-cut appearance up to 28 years old, and he enjoyed exercise on the road and was vigorous in procreative ranks. He was close to the third of a century mark when he passed away. Commemorative among his get were: Crafty, 2:09 1/4; Temple Wilkes, 2:10 1/4; Bravado, 2:10 1/4; and Caprice, 2:12 3/4. The blood lines of Kentucky Wilkes Jr. were regarded by many as ideal, representing as they did the two phenomenal sons of the great Kentucky Electioneer, Green Wilkes and Electioneer, and such producing dams as Minnie, Elsie, Elaine and Green Mountain Maid. As a two-year-old Kentucky Wilkes Jr. stood 15 hands, but he was all hot and full of determination. In August of 1901 he won the two-year-old stake at Goshen with ridiculous ease, and was shipped to Readville, where, September 5, he trotted a trial in 2:25 1/4. He started in the stake against Rajah by Prince of India and was beaten in 2:20 3/4. The Tracy youngster was separately timed in 2:21, the middle half in 1:08, and John Dickerson, who trained and drove him, expressed the opinion that if he had started earlier to prepare him for the races he would have trotted to a record of 2:17. As a three-year-old, Kentucky Wilkes Jr. was sold under the hammer at the Marshland closing out sale, and he passed into hands that did not improve him. The brilliant prospect went wrong and a breeding theory suffered in consequence thereof.

My only object in drawing attention to this case is to show that there are other lights to preparation than those furnished by Year Book Tables. The breeder may yield his lines in a way to advance the breeding standard but the environment of the foal may defeat his plans, or accident of the training school may arrest development. Cleanliness is an element that no thoughtful man overlooks. There is no end to the theoretical speculation, but practical knowledge is essential to a full understanding of the laws of reproduction. And yet progress would be slow without track tests. The trotting machine that we plan in advance must be tried with other trotting machines to disclose its weak and its strong points. As a rule the doctrine of the survival of the fittest is the best to tie to.

THE old gentleman from the back lots was holding up a line of passengers at the ticket office of a Chicago station the other day. "I want a ticket to New York," "Twenty dollars," "What? Twenty dollars? The last time I went it was only ten!" "Twenty dollars, please." "How long has the fare been raised? I ain't got no twenty dollars!" "Twenty dollars is the fare. Hurry up!" "I ain't going to pay no twenty! I know I only put up ten last time." "Then get out of the way. Don't you see you're holding up all these people? If you want to go to New York it will cost you twenty dollars! Move on!" "Where can I go for ten dollars, then?" "Well, the line of people told him in one emphatic monosyllable.

BERLIN was the first co-educational college in this country. In the early days they had a rule that in case there were but one man and one woman in a room, at least one chair should be between them. One evening an instructor, passing one of the small sitting rooms, was horrified at beholding a young man and a young woman occupying the same chair. "Sir," he demanded of the man student, "what is the meaning of this outrageous behavior? Do you not know the rules of the college?" "Why—don't they say that if a man and a girl sit alone in a room they shall have one chair between them?"

AIR—RAREFIED AND COM-PRESSED

ATTENTION has been called to some curious effects of rarefied and of condensed air on human respiration. On high mountains some persons experience distressing shortness of breath, one result of which is that they are unable to whistle. Precisely the same effect is sometimes produced by the condensed air in caissons and diving bells. Laborers working in compressed air frequently find, however, that their powers of exertion are increased as long as the atmospheric pressure is not more than double that of ordinary air; but beyond that point unpleasant effects are experienced after the men have left the working shafts and returned into the open air. On the other hand, high atmospheric pressure in the case of persons not doing manual labor has been found to act as a mental stimulus, increasing the impulse to talk.

STIRLING

IN SUNNY SOUTHERN ALBERTA

The flow of gas struck at Stirling continues to be the all important theme of conversation. Sales are being put through every day and a number of industries are inquiring about locating at Stirling. That this flow of

Gas at Stirling

is attracting wide-spread interest is evidenced from the following telegrams just received at this office:—

"Two men arrived yesterday representing large capitalists, to drill for large gas well. Many settlers arriving daily."

And this,—

"Twenty-five to thirty stopping at hotel every night. Six more dwellings needed immediately. Things booming."

"Stirling is having a phenomenal growth." In addition to having the flow of gas, it is situated in the centre of the best wheat-growing district in the world—the district that grows 60 bushels to the acre. One crop pays for the land.

A despatch from Washington states:

"Professor George Severance, Agronomist, and formerly head of the Agricultural Department of Washington State College, has gone to STIRLING, Alberta, to take charge as general superintendent of five big farms, comprising 26,602 acres, belonging to five independent companies. In an interview Professor Severance stated, 'Work has already commenced on 3,000 acres under contract. Our tracts are distinctly dry farming land. The precipitation runs from 17 to 18 inches. These farms occupy a great plain south of STIRLING. As the ground is broken and planted to crops the working force will be increased until a total of about 1,000 men are EMPLOYED THE YEAR ROUND.'"

THE BUCK-EYE

VOL. 1

WEEKLY EDITION

NO. 26

The Chicken-Hearted Ebenezer

EVELINA'S EYES of brown
Flickered with disdain.
"Ebenezer Hodge," she said,
"Gives me such a pain.
Yes, he HAS a nice moustache,
Twisted simply grand.
What of that? The silly goat
Hasn't any sand."

"When a crowd of boys and girls
Meet at ball or party,
Ebenezer laughs and jokes
Wonderful and hearty.
And he plays the clarinet
In the village band.
What of that? The stupid thing
Hasn't any sand."

"Friday last I went to church,
Half a mile or more.
Practice night, and dark as ink,
How the wind did roar!
Mud! The pathway was a fright.
I could scarcely stand.
'Tis a blue clay road, you see,
Hasn't any sand."

In addition to his lack of sand, Ebenezer was a dough-head, a snout. He didn't know enough to come in when it rains. He lacked the brains and energy to seize opportunity by the elbow—or the waist—and make it his.

So it is with the people who have never smoked BUCK-EYES. They don't know what they miss.

"Ebenezer is a tenor,
Blushed when I came in.
Said, 'How are ye, Evelina,'
Wore a silly grin.
Really it is most astounding,
Cannot understand
Why some fellows in the country
Haven't any sand."

"When the practice was concluded
And we came outside,
It was darker still, more windy.
Ebenezer shied.
Never asked if he could help me
Reach my promised land.
Hung around and simply rubbered,
Not a grain of sand."

"So alone I tramped the side-road,
Slipping on the clay.
Now I haven't any rubber,
Left them on the way.
Ebenezer may be useful
In the village band.
What of that? The stupid fellow
Hasn't any sand."
