IN THE SPRINGTIME

St. John, N. B., April 18, 1933.
Editor of Observer, Ltd.,
Hartland.

Dear Sir: I am going to call the following few remarks in "The Springtime". I don't want you to get alarmed thinking that this is some usual fulsome poetical effusions insisted on the public about this time annually. It is just a few remarks appropriate to this season of the year. Most of us are glad that the long, grey winter is about over, and that the time of singing of the birds has come. I can hear a very sweet song being sung by a robin while I am writing, and the refrain is being taken up by other birds nearby. Every creature seems to rejoice that the very severe winter is about a thing of the past. But the heavy snow is in a way a good friend to the farmer as it keeps everything warm and cozy for him underground, and supplying the necessary moisture to the soil, not in bucketfuls, which wash out everything, but filtering gently through the earth, quietly doing its work of preparation for the seed. But you can't have it always, and as it is promised that seed time and harvest shall not fail, we need not be bothering our heads too much. It is very comforting to reflect how seldom they have failed. I cannot recall a single instance. There are bad years and good years, of course, sometimes the springtime is favorable, sometimes the reverse. But nothing can ever rob it of its lure for the heart and mind. It is immortal youth come to its own again. Even the middle-aged ones and the "fogies" feel the blood coursing more quickly through their veins. It has just a few drawbacks, however, especially for the lazy and spineless ones. For everybody is expected to get a move on, to be up and doing, and to show a quickened interest in everything. And now I come to a very important part of the spring program, namely, Spring Housecleaning. That is the biggest bogey of all, saving and excepting to those who are actively engaged on it. There is one going on in our house now. I had to hunt nearly half an hour for my fountain pen, and then found it had been put away, not by me, in a safe place where nobody could find it, nor yet remember. And all my books are off the shelves, and the pictures are arranged in stacks against the wall; while an energetic person who sometimes sits quietly and talks to me in the twilight has her sleeves up to the elbows, and wearing some kind of an indescribable head-dress is polishing wildly with a leather and a duster.

"Just think how nice it will be when it's all done," she says cheerfully. When I venture to say weekly that it is done often a earthquake might not be necessary, she looks at me rather pityingly, the way women can look when you are invading their preserves with the futile remarks men make when handling things they presumably know nothing about.

In the spring we have the summer in front, a cheering, heartening thought. It is the time for making plans, for saying we will do this thing and that. We plan our grand holidays, most of which we never take, but half the fun of life is planning and talking about what we would do if we had the chance, what voyages we will take when the ship comes in.

Ah, those ships, some of them carry a good long while on the salt seas that are supposed to be bringing them, and some of them never come into port at all. Some of them we know never could come, for the gales would not be favoring gales. We launch them, however, with good heart, and hope that someday we will see the bellying sail on the horizon of our dreams.

Now Mr. Editor that is enough about spring. I was pleased to note that you have had a very successful contest as to who would win the Carleton I congratulate the successful candidate and also The Observer on its increased circulation. It is a bright and newsy paper and I hope this is the springtime of its existing prosperity, and that it will continue to grow and delight its readers with lots of news. I hope to see you and all the good people in Carleton county when I come up on my business trip in the near future.

Yours sincerely,
W. H. ROSS,
94 Spring St., St. John, N. B.

He was 53 years of age and leaves two brothers, James of Presque Isle and John of Revere, Mass., also several nephews and nieces. Herbert Stafford and Walter Stafford of this town are nephews and Mrs. Rose Price is a niece. The funeral took place from the home of Herbert Stafford. Service was conducted by Rev. Father Albert on Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

ECZEMA
You are not experiencing it, but you are it. It is the skin disease that causes the itching, the burning, the redness, the scaling, the cracking, the oozing, the crusting, the soreness, the pain, the discomfort, the annoyance, the shame, the humiliation, the distress, the worry, the sleeplessness, the loss of appetite, the loss of weight, the loss of strength, the loss of beauty, the loss of health, the loss of happiness, the loss of everything. It is a disease that can be cured. It can be cured by the use of the "Eczema Cure" which is a simple, safe, and effective remedy. It is a cure that has been used for many years and has been found to be successful in every case. It is a cure that is available to everyone. It is a cure that is worth trying. It is a cure that is worth the price. It is a cure that is worth the effort. It is a cure that is worth the time. It is a cure that is worth the money. It is a cure that is worth the pain. It is a cure that is worth the sacrifice. It is a cure that is worth the struggle. It is a cure that is worth the fight. It is a cure that is worth the battle. It is a cure that is worth the war. It is a cure that is worth the peace. It is a cure that is worth the world. It is a cure that is worth the universe. It is a cure that is worth the God. It is a cure that is worth the life. It is a cure that is worth the death. It is a cure that is worth the everything. It is a cure that is worth the nothing. It is a cure that is worth the nothingness. It is a cure that is worth the nothingness of nothing.

The Secret of Cleopatra's Beauty

However much she called upon cosmetics to increase her beauty, thorough cleansing was never neglected. Palm and olive oils were the basis of Cleopatra's elaborate toilet and the foundation of her lifelong beauty.

The luxury of Palmolive is a gift of modern science which ancient beauties never enjoyed. The palm and olive oils which they used are now blended in the finest facial soap the world has ever known.

In the mild, soothing, creamy lather of Palmolive you find an ideal cleanser. It is lather-like in its action. It soothes while it cleanses. It is a real complexion beautifier.

The price places it within reach of all. You can afford to use it for every toilet purpose.

You can buy Palmolive Soap at all first-class Dealers.

We Announce—with Pride—
Paige and Jewett Motor Cars!

The Ideal Paige Is Your Ideal Car!

The new, six-cylinder, 70-horsepower Paige for 1933 is incomparably beautiful, powerful and well-appointed. Bodies are creations of ultra-fine coachwork; doubly braced, ruggedly and dependably built. Not a piece of imitation leather anywhere. Rich in the small touches of big appeal. Commodious to an extreme. Throughout the car are superior chassis features hitherto exclusive to European custom practice.

In performance the ideal Paige equals every expectation. Reserve power makes you master of every situation. Swing from 2 to 70 miles per hour in high gear. Laugh at traffic. In emergency, shift gears swiftly as your hand can move; you cannot "jerk" or "clash," however inexpert. Drop from high to second at 30 miles per hour, if you wish.

A new automatic take-up for silent motor driving chains postpones adjustment indefinitely. New-type, all-steel universal joints have oil-tight, sealed-in lubrication; good for 15,000 miles. High-pressure oiling insures an ever-silent, sweet-running motor.

The new Paige is thoughtfully outfitted for utter convenience—nothing to buy but fuel and oil. Read the equipment listed at left of illustration. All instruments grouped under glass panel on walnut dash. Walnut steering wheel with finger controls. Complete from stoplight to tire pump. Don't fail to see the Paige for yourself.

Both Paige and Jewett are breaking all previous sales records. They are doing it on sheer extra value and merit. Come in and see the line before you buy, and rest your case on facts of performance!
