Items of Interest.

If the custom tailor cutters have their way, men will wear red brown garments this Spring and summer and their coats will be built with narrow shoulders without padding or canvas to speak of and shaped to the back. This is the revelation made at the semi-annual exhibition of the American Custom Cutters' Club at New York. The most advanced model now at the exhibition is a white coat for summer wear. The college youth who aspires to the very latest mode, according to another exhibit, is expected to wear velvet cuffs at the bottom of his trousers.

After October 1st it will be unlawful to have a "common drinking cup" in any park, public building, factory, theatre, school, railroad station or ferry-house in New York. This follows a health board investigation in which bacteriological examinations were made of moisture adherent to the edges of public drinking cups from various places in the city. The results fully demonstrated the danger of transmission of disease in this manner.

A ring was recovered by a Crisfield (Pa.) man, after being lost 37 years. The husband of the owner was plowing, and while pulling of a glove, he pulled off the ring, which could not be found. The other day a child stuck a pitchfork into the ground and when he drew it up was astonished to find a ring on one of the prongs. The ring bore an inscription which led to its return to its owner.

A respectfully dressed man in London, G.B., whose identity is unknown, recently smashed with his head three circular holes in the window of a grocer's shop. He was taken to the police station, where he violently butted the office cupboard. He declared that he was King George, and had thousands of pounds. He was later handed over to the workhouse authorities. Beyond a cut on the hand he was unhurt.

Mr. A. J. Gorringer, a tradesman of Ditchling, Eng., has a bantam that lays her eggs in different part of the yard, but his cat never fails to find them. The cat takes the egg between her teeth, carries it to the back door, places it on the step and rattles the door handle with her paws. It is said, until her mistress arrives to take in the egg. The cat has never broken an egg.

Lenten Sermon at R.C. Cathedral.

Last night the Archbishop preached the fifth Lenten sermon of the series at the Cathedral. The text was from 12th chap. and 1st verse of St. Paul to the Romans: "I beseech you, therefore, brethren by the mercies of God that you present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy acceptable to God and with justice and reasonable service."

His Grace elaborated on the text in a learned and instructive manner and explained what St. Paul meant by "living sacrifice, justice and reasonable service." In the early days of the Church many of the Christians were called upon to fulfil the literal words of the text and to offer their bodies as living sacrifices. Their faith was ardent and firm. They gave up their bodies to be torn by wild beasts in the arenas and were crucified as the first martyrs of the Church. We were not called upon to do so in this age. Almighty God would expect us to offer our bodies as a living sacrifice in another way. The soul should be first purified from sin as all sacrifices presuppose the offerings to be living and not dead. A soul in sin was dead, and before our sacrifice would be acceptable to God we were bound to restore it to a state of life—a sanctifying grace. We should then offer our sacrifices of good works, prayer and almsgiving, and above all the sacrifice of the Mass. We should offer the sacrifice of justice by fulfilling all our religious duties to God and to our neighbour. It was not enough to be good and think of God and our salvation on one day of the week, we should think of God and our last end and have recourse to prayer every day of the week. A short prayer in the morning would not interfere with our day's work, of our business, neither would a short visit to the Church morning and evening. Those who could find time to attend the morning Mass on a week day gained great spiritual benefit and were participants with the priest in the merits of the Great Sacrifice. We should endeavour to preserve an atmosphere of consistent religious life around us week days as well as on Sundays. This is the principal reason why the Church so strongly insists on her children having their own schools. An atmosphere of religion and morality sought to be kept up in them all the time. In the State schools in other countries the wind had been blown by a system of godless education and now the whirlwind was being reared. Young boys and girls of tender age were convicted of the gravest immorality and crimes that were hitherto inconceivable amongst children. The "Wise men" had banished the name of God from the schools and they were now rearing up a generation of infidels and precocious criminals. The Catholic Church would never give up the right to teach her children in the schools. Wherever State schools ignore the denominational right to school grants the people make a sacrifice and pay on twice over for the right to give their children the education that they know to be necessary in order to make good, moral and believing citizens of them, faithful to their Church, their Country and their Maker.

Father Clarke

APPOINTED BY THE ARCHBISHOP ONE OF THE "DIOCESAN CONSULTORS."

We are requested to publish the following letter:

"The Palace,"
March, 29, 1911.

My Dear Fr. Clarke,—
Although you are leaving us at present with the intention of staying permanently in Ireland, yet I do not wish that you should sever your Canonical connection with the Diocese, where you have labored so faithfully and done so much good work for the Church and the people during the past forty years.

I am pleased, then, that you have consented to still retain your allegiance as a subject of the Diocese, and though you have voluntarily resigned for the convenience of the Archbishop and the Diocese, your position as Parish Priest, I would desire as an expression of good-will on my part and a testimony of faithful service on yours, to appoint you as one of the "Diocesan Consultors." This appointment I now make to you. I also wish to say that should you ever in future years feel of coming back to Newfoundland, either as a temporary visitor, or perhaps to close here, on the scene of your life's labors, your declining years you will always find a warm welcome and an honoured place.

Wishing you many years of a happy green old age and the bounteous blessings of God.

I am, in Xto Dno,
—M. F. HOWLEY.
