

THE WEATHER:
FAIR, MODERATELY WARM.
FRIDAY—FAIR AND WARM.

61ST YEAR. NO. 24011

London Evening Advertiser

LONDON, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, JULY 10, 1924.—SIXTEEN PAGES.

GOOD NEWS
IN THE WANT ADS TODAY
ON PAGES 14-15.

THREE CENTS.

Thirty Pirates Board Ship and Take Million In Liquors

GOLDENBERG IS CLEARED, WARRANT IS PROTESTED

Fined $200 by Magistrate Graydon For Possessing American Cigarettes.

APPEAL LIKELY

Liquor Charge Dropped Due to the Wording of Warrant.

Because the search warrant on which License Inspector Bolton, Provincial Constable Stratton and High Constable Wharton searched the premises of Morris Goldenberg in London Township last Saturday was deemed defective by Magistrate Graydon when his attention was called to it by Howard Cluff this morning the court discharged Goldenberg on the charge of having liquor for sale, but fined him $200 and costs for having 49,500 American cigarettes in his possession without an inland revenue stamp.

The O. T. A. case will likely be appealed by the license inspector, it was stated after court.

It was claimed by Mr. Cluff that the present forms for search warrants were not specific enough, and it may be that the Goldenberg case will cause the government to once more change these forms.

A judgment handed down in 1922 by Mr. Justice Meredith caused a change in the forms, the judge deciding that the specific reasons for searching a place for liquor must be set out in the warrant. The present form, says, "A reasonable suspicion on information received" but this is deemed by Mr. Cluff to be inadequate, and in order to bring the matter to a head the court gave an adverse decision to the crown, which will be appealed.

Objects to Warrant.

The search warrant used by Inspector Bolton, stated Goldenberg "did unlawfully keep liquor for sale without having the necessary license," and this Mr. Cluff objected to. It may be added that the inspector found 21 bottles of whiskey in a grain sack hidden away in a closet with the 49,500 cigarettes.

Part of the case was fought out in open court, but after Inspector Bolton returned from his office with the original search warrant, an adjournment was made to the magistrate's office, where the decision was finally made after a debate of almost an hour.

"For the benefit of the press," stated Mr. Graydon, "I am discharging Goldenberg on the O. T. A. charge under section 40, on the grounds that the search warrant was defective. In the other case I am fining him $200 and costs."

Mr. Graydon then wanted to know if the fine would be paid, or whether he would impose a jail sentence.

"He has his $500 bail money here," said Mr. Cluff.

"Why didn't you tell me about it before?"

"I tried to impress on your worship that the R. S. should be heavy," pointed out Crown Attorney Judd.

Regarding the cigarette charge, Mr. Cluff, who did not put his client in the box when the case was heard.

Please See Page 6, Column 1.

CHATHAM STRANGER IS FORMER LONDONER

Identify Unknown Man as Albert McNamara of This City.

Special to The Advertiser.

Chatham, July 10.—The identification of the stranger who arrived in this city last Saturday suffering from amnesia, has been established. He is Albert McNamara, who disappeared from his boarding-house in Detroit a week ago. He is a former resident of London, Ont., and is supposed to have left Detroit for Canada in search of work.

It is also believed that he became despondent on account of his inability to secure work in Detroit, and this may have resulted in his loss of memory. He was last employed soliciting orders for a paint company in Detroit, and on the morning of his disappearance he left his equipment on the door step of his boarding-house. He had been living in Detroit for two years.

The man's clothing bears the laundry mark "A. M." and he was also wearing a ring with the same initials. The son in London has been notified.

ST. JOHN'S HOUSE OPENS UNDER MUNRO GOVERNMENT

Associated Press Despatch.

St. Johns, Nfld., July 10.—The members returned to the local assembly in the recent general election were sworn in yesterday before a commission of three legislative councillors. This afternoon the house opens for the first session under the Munro government. During the session which is expected to be a very brief one, the new administration will deal with legislation to insure the establishment of the Grand River of a $12,000,000 pulp and paper plant.

FOSTER PROPOSES NEW AMENDMENT

Would Adopt Protective Policy Instead of Suspending British Preference.

Ottawa, July 10.—Sir George Foster in the Senate yesterday moved an amendment to the motion of Senator David, which asked for suspension or repeal of the British preference and some reciprocal arrangement had been reached. Sir George proposed that for the David motion should be substituted the following:

Proper conservation of Canadian industry and subsequent employment of Canadian labor therein demands the adoption and maintenance of an adequate and consistent protective policy under which also the collateral benefits of reciprocal and preferential trade arrangements with foreign countries and within the Empire respectively, can be most effectively secured.

He attributed trade depression to the fact that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

OWNERS INVESTIGATE BLOOD-CURDLING TALE

Ship's Captain Says Sea Robbers Imprisoned and Starved Crew.

NOW IN HALIFAX

Claims Steamer Mulhouse Is Rifled of Liquor and $3,000 in Cash.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Halifax, N. S., July 10.—Representatives of Lamourie Francois, owners of the steamer Mulhouse, which arrived here Tuesday reporting the loss of one million dollars' worth of liquor and three thousand dollars in cash at the hands of pirates off the New Jersey coast two weeks ago, are en route here from St. Pierre for the purpose of instituting an investigation into the hair-raising story told by the officers and men.

They will arrive tomorrow. In the meantime an investigation is being conducted at the instance of French consular authorities into the damage sustained by the ship during the alleged ten days' visit by the pirate band. It is understood that both cargo and ship were fully insured, which means that a third investigation will probably be instituted as soon as the underwriters, reported to be French Lloyd, are called upon to make good the loss.

Capt. Ferren, when interviewed this morning, was insistent regarding the single one of the blood-curdling details enumerated yesterday. He reiterated that the steamer had been boarded by 20 pirates, who had overpowered the officers and crew and kept them imprisoned on scanty fare for upwards of ten days while they leisurely unloaded 38,000 cases of liquor into small boats and then disappeared, leaving only 3,000 cases behind.

James Fraser, representative of the owners, gave out a statement today to the effect that the value of the stolen liquor was about $200,000 and that the loss consisted of 32,000 cases including brandy, whiskey, champagne and French wines.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Ottawa, July 10.—Sir George Foster in the Senate yesterday moved an amendment to the motion of Senator David, which asked for suspension or repeal of the British preference and some reciprocal arrangement had been reached. Sir George proposed that for the David motion should be substituted the following:

Proper conservation of Canadian industry and subsequent employment of Canadian labor therein demands the adoption and maintenance of an adequate and consistent protective policy under which also the collateral benefits of reciprocal and preferential trade arrangements with foreign countries and within the Empire respectively, can be most effectively secured.

He attributed trade depression to the fact that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

He said that the tariff had been reduced below the safety line; that conditions had been aggravated by the increase to the British preference and by trade treaties with France and Belgium; that other countries had raised their tariffs and injured Canadian industry and agriculture in Canada; that no steps had been taken to remedy the exchange situation as it affected Canada, and that cabinet ministers had threatened further tariff reduction.

CANADIANS WILL INSIST ON MAN AT CONFERENCE

Dominion Will Not Consent To Have Great Britain Act.

MEET TOMORROW

High Commissioners Gather on Friday To Discuss Situation.

Canadian Press Despatch.

London, July 10.—Premier Ramsay MacDonald will meet the high commissioners of the dominions tomorrow instead of today, as originally arranged, for the purpose of discussing the question of dominion representation at the conference to be held in London on July 16 in connection with the carrying out of the Dawes report on the matter of reparations.

The Canadian Press understands that while the other dominions are willing to have Great Britain present their views at the coming conference, Canada will insist on distinct representation at the conference. Otherwise, Canada will disclaim any responsibility for the conference decisions.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Ottawa, July 10.—Introduction of legislation at the present session of parliament to provide for construction of the Toronto viaduct, is now practically assured. A large delegation consisting of representatives of the Toronto city council, the railways and the Toronto board of harbor commissioners met Hon. G. P. Graham, minister of railways and canals, this morning, and practically agreed upon a plan of modified construction to cost $2,500,000.

Associated Press Despatch.

Ottawa, July 10.—The morning session of the present session of parliament to provide for construction of the Toronto viaduct, is now practically assured. A large delegation consisting of representatives of the Toronto city council, the railways and the Toronto board of harbor commissioners met Hon. G. P.