(Special Paris and Continental Correspondence.)

Paris, April 30th, 1867. We still continue to live in a state of uncertainty as regards the future. War or peace? that is still the question. Will the war cloud that is now threatening Europe eventually vanish or burst upon us? When the clouds gather together, and the storm threatens, a preliminary silence generally reigns everywhere, and the atmosphere becomes heavy and oppressive and the world holds its breath. To judge by the symptoms, and all the indica, tions which we look for and examine with an attentive eye, this state of things is about the one we are in. A terrible conflict seems near bursting on the banks of the beautiful Rhine. France and Prussia, who would be the two great actors of the drama, the sad incidents of which, perhaps, are about to commence, are pacific turn. A peace league has just been They cure Dyspepsia and Constitution. looking at each other, Comme deux chiens de faience, as the French say. As yet there has not been one single note exchanged between Paris and Berlin, and this calm rather alarms the public, as it deviates from the ordinary habits of diplomacy, ever so fertile in dubious conclusions, but prodigiously fruitful in despatches, notes, circulars, etc. We must, however, hope up to the last moment, as Herr Von Bismarck, notwithstanding the calumny heaped upon his head, is a man of great intelgence, and he knows full well that war is a dreadful calamity, and that Prussia zoue gros along the Boulevards to Vinceinnes, to witness will be sustained under every and all circumstances some experiments with the chassepot rifle, which all the Franch regiments are to receive would ruin the house of Hohenzollern and the which all the French regiments are to receive parish and hamlet among civilized as new confederation. These considerations are in succession. In consequence of orders retators try to come as nea our name and style as they grave and must be well borne in mind. The ceived, the battalion of the foot Chasseurs of language of the Prussian papers is still deprecatory. Be on your guard. See our up anything. Ours are indeed sad times, and what with war threatening us from without and strife between master and man at home, we do not know what is to become of us, for

THE STRIKE OF THE PARIS TAILORS. The resolution taken by the master tailors in consequence or the demands of the workmen, has been unfortunately carried out. There is a general outcry in Paris at present for waistcoats, coats, trowsers, &c., but the tailor is non est inventus. The tailors' shops are everywhere closed. On the shops of such tailors as Dusautey's on the Boulevard des Italiens, Raynard's and others, on the hermetically closed shutters is to be seen the following notice:-"Closed on account of the strike of the workmen." Such a spectacle has never before been seen in Paris. Crowds of loungers stop and look upon the inscription with awe! This notice forms a most terrible blet in the usually animated, brilliant objects of the Boules wards, at a time when foreigners are flocking to the French capital from all parts of the Globe. Thirty to forty thousand workmen are now without work, which must at least represent 60,000 persons who have not only voluns tarily deprived themselves of their usual resources, but also of an increase of 10 per cent. which was offered them by the master tailors. The Workmen's Society has decided that each single workman shall receive one franc and a half, and every married workman two francs and a half. Who can say how long this strike, or greve as it is called here, will last? The journeymen tailors are getting assistance from their colleagues in London and in Brussels. The consequence is that we shall either be very badly dressed or that we blue trowsers and the low crowned hats worn by the Englishmen.

THE GREAT PRENCH EXHIBITION Notwithstanding the badness of the weather and the rumors of war afloat, the Exhibition received a goodly number of visitors during the Easter holidays. The numbers of people who passed the turnstiles on Easter Sunday amounted to 70,000, and the number who passed on Easter Monday exceeded 100,000. Though one would fancy that the place was teo large ever to be over-crowded, yet the ment remain open until eleven o'clock, and the number of visitors has became so great that drinks of different nations are sipped and have used it for Barns, Bruises, Sores, Rheumatism, &c., the Iron Palace was on Sunday week uncome fortably full. All Paris and his wife seems thousands of strangers now visiting the bent on seeing and doing the Exhibition thor- French capital. There has been some slight oughly, although the weather is persistently bad-wet, wet, wet-everlasting rain, so that the Champs de Mars of late, but still much rea visit to the numerous attractions in the park-in our opinion the most interesting-is an impossibility, except for those provided with a diving diess. The races of La Marche and the Bois de Boulogne, as well as the cricket matches, got up by the English and American residents in Paris, and which in other years attracted immense crowds, are now neglected for the Champs de Mars. People are beginning to crowd hither from all parts. The Great Eastern arrived a few days ago at Brest with a goodly cargo of Americans, and in a week or two we are to have an invasion of riflemen from England. The want of proper conveyance to the Exhibition is a serious evil, and the commission cannot be too severely blamed for having neglected to make arrangements for taking people to their im. mense shop, or rather bazaar. To get to the Exhibition is not so difficult; it is in that rea spect much like a mouse-trap; but to get away, to get home to dinner after a walk of some two miles round and round the gasometer-oh, there's the rub. The cab-stand is about a mile from the Exhibition, and at about five o'clock, when the public wish to get away all at once, the confusion is something awful to look at, and the suffering of women and children is very great. The Champs de Mars is at a very great distance from the centre of Paris, and a visit to the Exhibition en tails the sacrifice of a whole day. It must, moreover, be recollected that there is hardly any possibility of sitting down, and those who wish to rest their weary limbs must go to the central prisoulike gardens and pay a sou for a seat. Let all those who are not able to stand much fatigue provide themselves with a small, light camp stool, which they will find of the utmost service in their ramble through the oval galleries. As for getting a vehicle of any kind, or getting a place in the railway train, when it takes three quarters of an hour to bring one to the St. Lazare station, it is quite out of the question, unless one has the energy and muscle necessary for that ardnous under taking. It is to be hoped that when the commission has heard howlings and wailings enough on this head it will take active steps to remedy the evil.

GOUNOD'S "BOMEO AND JULIET." This long promised opera has at last been brought out at the Lyrique. The success of it is immense, and in no way inferior to that of

Faust, which is now familiar to the whole world. The acting and singing of Mdme. Carvalho is beyond all description, and will attract thousands to the Opera House on the banks of the Seine.

It was then found that the battalion, 800 strong, had fired 8,000 balls, of which 1,992 had struck the line of objects aimed at. Some of the persons present, how ever, affirmed that better practice had been obtained both at Chalons and Satory, and that the men were nervous from firing for the first time in presence of His Majesty. All the ground immediately in front of the mark was cut up by balls in such a way as not to show a blade of grass left. The battalion afterwards executed several times a similar exercise, but at distances increasing to 1000 yards. Majesty, during the whole time, remained in the midst of the men, questioning them as to their experience of the arm, on its superiority over the old, and on the recoil, which they all agreed in representing as insignificant. Scrofula, or King's Fig., is Constitutional disease, a corruption the blood, by which this fluid becomes vitiated, weak, and poor. Being in the circulation, it pervades the whole body, and may burst out in disease on any part of it. No organ is free from its attacks, nor is there one which it may not destroy. The scrofulous taint is variously caused by mercurial disease, low living, disordered or destroy. The scrottlous taint is variously caused by mercurial disease, low living, disordered or unhealthy food, impure air, filth, and filthy habits, the depressing vices, and, above all, by the venereal infection. Whatever be its origin, it is hereditary in the constitution, descending "from parents to children unto the third and fourth generation;" indeed, it seems to be the rod of Him who says, "I will visit the iniquities of the fathers upon their children."

Its effects commence by deposition from the blood of corrupt or ulcerous matter, which, in the lungs, liver, and internal organs, is termed tubercles; in the glands, swellings; and on the surface, eruptions or sores. This foul corruption, which genders in the blood, depresses the energies of life, so that scrofulous constitutions not only suffer from scrofulous complaints, but they have far less power to withstand the attacks' of other diseases: consequently, vast numbers perish by disorders which, although not scrofulous in their nature are still rendered fatal by this taint in the system.

Most of the consumption which decimates the human family has its origin directly in this scrofulous contamination; and many destructive diseases of the liver, kidneys, brain, and, indeed, of all the organs, arise from or are aggravated by the same cause.

One quarter of all our people are scrofulous; their persons are invaded by this lurking infection, and their health is undermined by it. To cleanse it from the system we must renovate the blood by an alterative medicine, and invigorate it by healthy food and exercise. Such a medicine we supply in the most effectual remedy which the medical skill of our times can devise for this every-where prevailing and fatal malady. It is combined active remedials that have been discovered for the expurgation of this foul disor-der from the blood, and the rescue of the system from its destructive consequences. Hence it should be employed for the cure of not only scrofula, but also those other affections which arise from it, such as ERUPTIVE and SKIN DIS-EASES, ST. ANTHONY'S FIRE, ROSE, OF ERY-SIPELAS, PIMPLES, PUSTULES, BLOTCHES, BLAINS and BOILS, TUMORS, TETTER, and SALT RHEUM, SCALD HEAD, RINGWORM, RHEUMATISM, SYPHILITIC and MERCURIAL DISEASES, DROPSY, DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, and, indeed, ALL COMPLAINTS ARISING FROM VITIATED OR IMPURE BLOOD. The popular belief in "impurity of the blood," is founded in truth, for scrofula is a degeneration of the blood. The particular purpose and virtue of this Sarsa-parilla is to purify and regenerate this vital fluid, without which sound health is impossible in contaminated constitutions.

So wide is the field of its usefulness, and so numerous are the cases of its cures, that almost every section of country abounds in persons, every section of country abounds in persons, publicly known, who have been restored from alarming and even desperate diseases of the lungs by its use. When once tried, its superiority over every other medicine of its kind is too apparent to escape observation, and where its virtues are known, the public no longer hesitate what antidote to employ for the distressing and dangerous affections of the pulmonary organs that are incident to our climate. While many inferior remedies thrust upon the community have failed and been discarded, this has gained friends by every trial, conferred benefits on the afflicted they can never forget, and produced cures too numerous and too remarkable to be forgotten.
