The solution of the issue between the parties to this action depends upon the order, and that the work construction to be placed upon sections they did arose from the mistak shad 32 of our mineral act of 1881, which are as follows:

"And it is hereby expressly declared that a location laid crosswise of a vein or lode, so that its center line crosses the ame instead of following the course thereof, will secure only so much of the vein or lode as it actually crosses at the surface, and the side lines of the location will become the end lines thereof for the purpose of defining the rights of the owners. A location shall be deemed to have been laid crosswise when the smallest angle made by the center line falling this point, unequivocally, by giving, in on the general course of the vein or lode effect, the ore of vein No. 2 as dips into is greater than 45 degrees.

On the motion before me I held that order as it stood, estopped the plaintiffs from further sinking a shaft, which is designated on the plans as shaft No. 3, as it was included in the word "workings." This shaft, according to Mr. Durant's affidavit, has been sunk to a depth of 194 feet, in ore all that distance the ore being the dip of the plaintiff's vein, No. 2, which, as I have said, runs into the Iron Mask. Both he and Mr. Joyce state that the shaft is not intended to be used for hoisting purposes, but the defendants have no right whatever to object to it on that account, as the shaft is in ore which, by law, belongs to

Mr. Daly, counsel for the plaintiffs, states on affidavit that he drew up the order in question hurriedly; and he disavows ever having undertaken to stop work in the shaft, as such stoppage would virtually mean the stoppage of further development in the plaintiff's vein, No. 2. He therefore desires to be understood as not consenting now to any such stood as not consenting now to any such undertaking, and I certainly, under the circumstances, have no right to require it. He made this statement as his notice of motion is, in terms, to merely wary the injunction granted by Judge Williams & Co.

Moreover, in paragraph 9 of his affida vit, he states that the mouth of the tunnel above referred to is in the plaintiff's ground, and that its course for a considerable distance is within the surface boundaries of the Iron Mask location, but through a body of ore that forms part of the dip of the plaintiff's vein, No. 2. Mr. Bodwell has referred me to an American decision, to the effect that the plaintiff's, for instance, have been, in view of common law doctrines, trespassers from the moment they encroached upon the Iron Mask ground. I fully assent to this; but all that the decision I fully virtually means is that a court should not overlook the rule that statutory provisions, such, for instance, as secprovisions, such, for instance, as sections 31 and 32, which are in derogation of the common law, should be construed strictly. But the legislature has settled the Iron Mask, to the plaintiffs as their left the Yukon in 1896.
