Now let us quote ! The most remarkable fact in connection with England's fastest cruiser is the speed with which the work of centituetion has proceeded. The Magicienne has virtually been built in seven months. American ship-builders have considered eighteen menths, or even two years too short an allowance of time for the construction of the Charleston and the British cruiser has been turned out shows what can be done in a great shippart when supplies of material are furnished without delay.

Suppose that a great war were to start, with the British navy on one side and a combined French and Russian navy on the other, about equally matched. Also that in two or three engagements at "the first so off," each navy was about half destroyed. Well, Britain's immense constructive and mechanical power would enable her to renew her navy up to the old mark, and to make it as good as ever in half the time—sye, in a quarter of the time—sill personate in the insulation of the time—sye, in a quarter of the time—sill personate in the fact, left him, but as he still personate in the fact, left him, but as he still personate in the fact, left him, but as he still personate in the fact, left him, but as he still personate in the fact, left him, but as he still personate in the fact, left him, but as he still personate in the fact, left him, but as he still personate in the fact, left him, but as he still personate in the fact, left him, but as he balf the time—aye, in a quarter of the time—still persecuted her with his attentions she that France and Russia together could do the last week swore out a swarrant against him, which was executed yesterday afternoon. want to get it into your head what a tremendous advantage Britain must have if ever this kind of thing comes to be tried.

The Globe's lot is certainly note happy one these days. First, there comes upon it the frouble of an alleged underland movement, and to be pushed by certain Commercial Unionists of the Conservative persuasion, for handing over to Sir John the benefit of the revolution in favor of continental free trade which must shortly be, and so cleating Sir Richard and his Reform, colleagues out of the Richard and his Reform, colleagues out of the Richard and his Reform colleagues out of the fruits of a hard-woo victory which of right should belong to them.
