

to do things long before you got to the point of having to enforce the safeguard.

What's the alternative? I don't think it's very appealing. If we don't make these changes in the context of the FTA, I doubt that anyone will suggest that the concerns on the U.S. side that led them to raise these issues will suddenly disappear.