

AIR CARGO

Major airlines offer special services for moving cargo including premium express services to U.S. destinations, and to Mexico. Services are available which provide door-to-door delivery of shipments on the next business day with pick-up and delivery included in the cost. Major airlines are equipped to carry a variety of freight cargoes, ranging from electronic components to tropical fish and flowers. A sea-air traffic service is available, which permits transfer of cargo at ports for transshipment to continental destinations in North America.

These services are supported by computerized tracking and tracing systems which link the cargo operations of major airlines directly with customers, post offices, and freight forwarders.
