the called for independent action by the members of ward one in facing and settling the questions that were bound to arise in the future. That his remarks did not meet with the approval of the gathering was noticeable by the cantire absence of applause when the speaker resumed his seat.

"I am not in complete harmony with the Liberal party in some questions," he said, "and I am far from being in accord and harmony with the powers that be of the Toronto Liberal Associations so-called. We must not allow our politics to be influenced by those who are Liberal by name, but not Liberal at heart. We shall carry on our work independent of any organization in the city, instead of waiting for some power up town to tell us what to do as was formerly the custom."

Urges Harmony.

He called for complete harmony among the members. If factional spirits were allowed to animate atd control the party, nothing would be accomplished. REGRET PRESIDENT'S DEATH. ate Sir John A. Boyd Long Identified With Conservatory of Music.

At a meeting of the board of governors of the Toronto Conservatory of Music, held yesterday, profound regret was expressed at the death of their much esteemed and widely respected president, Sir John A. Boyd, K.C.M.G., Chancellor of Ontario, who had been closely identified with the progress of the institution since its foundation.

THIS IS A PUBLIC CAUSE Citizens, You Must Choose Sides

EVERY FAMILY MUST DECIDE THESE QUESTIONS: Are You in Favor of 8 Cents for a Small Loaf?

Are You in Favor of 9 Cents or 10 Cents for a Small Loaf? WHICH?

If you are in favor of 8 Cents for as good a loaf of bread as can be baked, a loaf that can be shown to be superior to any competitor's bread, by facts and figures, proven by comparing records with any other bakery; if, I say, you are in favor of getting high class, high quality bread at 8 cents instead of 9 cents or even 10 cents, you must show your preference in a tangible way. You must not be satisfied by merely saying: "Lawrence is doing a good thing." You must rouse yourself to action and take a stand. You must be "for" or "against" the reduction in price. If you are "for" it, give your trade and influence to the bakery which has so daringly undertaken this big enterprise of lowering the price of bread.

I Have to Meet Resourceful Competition---But the Public Must Know On Which Side They Stand, and Stick to their Stand

The other bakeries, as is to be expected, are using every means, fair and unfair, above board and underhanded, by misrepresentation and secret price cutting, and offering in-definite credit, to keep the public from supporting me and my plan. I expect that, and rely upon my "daylight" methods to win this great cause. I only have one price to all, and I sell for cash. It is partly due to the success of these strict methods of business that I can sell for less than loosely-managed bakeries can. I say this, not from inconsiderateness, but to show the public that there are very logical reasons why I can sell bread for 8 cents when other bakeries find it impossible. I have always given the public the benefit of my business economies. I have no bonds against my business to pay interest on, no debts to provide for, no stock clamoring for dividends. I can sell bread for nothing, if I like; I can give it away, if I want to. I have no shareholders to pacify. If I lose money nobody suffers but myself, and it is nobody's business but my

ANSWER THIS, FRIENDS: SHALL WE GIVE UP TRYING TO KEEP DOWN THE PRICE OF BREAD?

I have stated my case pretty fully. I have banked on public sympathy and support. I say again, if the public want eight-cent bread-there is only one way to have it-Support my action by sending me your orders. Do it to-day. All orders intended for Saturday delivery must be in to-night. Office open and telephones convenient, for any orders up to 9 p.m.
