

J. E. SEAGRAM'S "INFERNO" BREEZED HOME IN KING'S PLATE RACE

It Was Seagram's Day at Woodbine Park, the Waterloo Turfman Capturing Two Races Before the Plate, One Being His First Win of a Steeplechase, That Was Brimful of Accidents.

HOW THE RACE WAS WON INFERNO NEVER IN DOUBT

Seagram's "Half Seas Over" in Second Place for a Mile and Then Passed by Barrie Entry.

The King's Plate of 1905 must go down in history as the easiest victory and smallest field for many a year. It was a veritable romp for Inferno, and at that the marvelous colt just equalled Sapper's record, and it was only a breeze. Half Seas Over, that had made the pace for his stable companion, finished behind Dymont's Will King, with Maid of Barrie next, then Golden Crest and Cross of Gold last.

Thirty-six books were in line, and they easily handled the money of the enormous crowd that was there to see the races rather than bet on them. It was almost 2.45 when Starter Murray sent the crack field away for the Ontario Jockey Club's opening race, that Tongorder won from post to wire, and this was auspicious for Dymont. The Order colt was played heavily at even, and only coming up the stretch, when Capersauce made his run, did there seem any doubt. This illusion was dispelled long before the wire, for the Seagram three-year-old was beaten just as easily as he beat the long-shot, Pat Bulger, for the place. Murray must be congratulated on a splendid start of the enormous field of eighteen two-year-olds. The Maupin pair, with Tommy Burns up on Pater, started favorite at 2 to 1. Ossineke, St. Joseph and the Seagram pair being also played at the shortest prices.

Seagram Always in Front.
The favorite entry went away fast on the inside, and they finished one-two, the St. Joseph ran like a wild horse and threatened to split the pair for the place.

Wire in and Imbarassment flattered their backers early in the race for the Minto Stakes, but on the back stretch they were behind the bunch, where Norbury went out, and it was all over as far as first place was concerned. The trick Yeoman that was backed to split favorite at the post, just lasted long enough for the place, as good old Benekart finished right up and full of running. They all accepted the conditions in the steeplechase, and a field of fourteen leapers started away in the Royal Canadian. They went nicely together without a fall to the clubhouse bank, and thereafter it was a series of mishaps. Howard Lewis, the strongly played favorite, led the first round, followed by Dramatist, Junius Roane and Ontonagon. A mile was enough for the first choice to stay. Wellington J. took the place, with Butler Ladle third. Then followed Gilmore, close up and away back Haversack, Mabon, Junius Roane, Avignon and the favorite last. The rest fell or lost their riders. The crowd drew a long breath when the bugle sounded for the King's Plate. The parade was disappointing inasmuch as only a bare half dozen were in line when they filed past at 4.30. Seagram's Inferno and Half Seas Over in black and yellow were the leaders, as thru-out the performance. Then Dymont's Will King, with the celebrated Tommy Burns in the green and orange, ready for a great finish, and Maid of Barrie, the general tip for third. Last came Cross of Gold and Golden Crest in silk that made them look like another entry.

Inferno Opened a Gap.
They were in the chute at 4.30 and went away well together without much effort on the starters' part. Half Seas Over had the first call and when he relinquished the lead on the back stretch it looked only like a friendly movement to Inferno, who being then urged by Phillips started to open a gap. Maid of Barrie was the closest attendant the first part of the journey. Will King closed after rounding the top turn, where Burns shook him up. He showed more gameness than speed and both rider and horse kept at it. Phillips sat still coming home, and Burns' manner of hustling raised a cheer from the cohorts of Barrie. The great rider never let up, expecting that Inferno might stop if collared. But that expectation is still unrealized, as Burns never was dangerously near the son of Havoc and Bon Ino, who he did pass Half Seas Over, but Maid of Barrie ran outside the money. Golden Crest and Cross of Gold ran fifth and sixth from start to finish.

As both horses were short-priced the play was no plunge, but any margin found the Dymont end of it. There was the usual cheering at the finish, speeches and presentation by his excellency, the marked feature being the remarkable ovation to J. E. Seagram, M.P., the most popular owner on the Canadian turf.

OH, WHAT A DAY IT WAS WOODBINE NEVER SO GAY

Historic Race Grounds Never Contained So Large or Varied an Assemblage.

Barring a little chilliness in the air Saturday was a perfect day for racing. Although the first race was not set to start until 2.30, the crowd began to arrive at the course at 11 o'clock, and two hours later the public stand and public lawn were well occupied. Half an hour later they were crowded and the members' club and stand had many occupants. By 2 o'clock the whole surroundings of the course, except the infield, from which the public were at first barred, was one mass of humanity. Among the earliest to arrive on the members' lawn were Premier Whitney and His Honor Lieutenant-Governor Clark, each with a party of richly but quietly dressed ladies.

The governor-general, in an open carriage drawn by four horses, with pollions, and escorted by G. W. Beardmore, M.F.H., the whips, and L. McCarthy, G. A. Case, Dr. W. A. Young, Ewart Osborne, J. F. H. Usher and Vaux Chadwick in pink arrived about 2.30 and was received by President Hendrie, Vice-President J. E. Seagram, Hon. Melvin Jones, Chairman Dr. Andrew Smith, G. W. Torrance, Secretary W. P. Fraser and other officials, and accompanied to the centre box in the big members' stand, which was handsomely decorated and tastefully arranged for the occasion.

The sun was high in the heavens, and except for some fleecy clouds the sky was serenely blue. Such a throng at so early an hour never before occupied Woodbine. Even the saddle paddock was filled to repletion, the one word on everybody's tongue seemingly being who will win the King's Plate? The majority seemed to favor Inferno. Mr. Seagram's high-going and thorough-looking colt, but many of the knowing ones expressed a preference for Will King, now and again the remark being heard, "They tell me Maid of Barrie, Mr. Dymont's second entry, has a chance; but not one of the others was so much as thought of. The Earl and the Countess Grey and suite arrived in due time and were accorded a hearty greeting. The course was in excellent order, and the exhilarating air seemed to fill everybody with good spirits. Smiles everywhere prevailed, the ladies seemingly having on not alone their

Great Amateur Farmer.

Mr. Austen Chamberlain's favorite hobby is amateur farming. He has at Highbury (at his father's country residence, for the same home serves for father and son), a little farm, separated from the garden only by a high wall. He has stocked on this farm some of the choicest cattle to be found in England; in particular, a herd of Jerseys, which he obtained originally from Lord Rothschild. His model farm supplies the home with the best quality of milk and butter.

SUNDAY WEATHER.

Fine and rather cool is the weatherman's offering for to-day--just the sort of weather that will make the garrison parade enjoyable to troops and spectators alike.

Missing Baby is Found Murdered HIDDEN IN GREENWOOD AVE. BY CULVERT Mysterious Woman is Suspected

Little Girls Hunting Flowers Chanced Upon Murray Infant With Its Head Crushed In and Body Stripped of Clothing, Hidden Under Railway.

The kidnapping of the Murray child has developed into a murder. The body of the infant was found this morning in a culvert near Greenwood-avenue and the G.T.R. tracks.

The culvert is about 75 feet long and is an outlet for what is known as the "Creek." The body was discovered on Friday night by little Maud Carr. Maud is only ten years of age. She went to the ravine to gather wild flowers early in the evening. She saw the body of the infant and ran home frightened. She told her father, but, strange to say, he paid no attention to the story. The body lay there all night, and on Saturday morning Maud and her elder sister, Josephine, went to the ravine and peeped in. They were afraid and ran away again, and told a man what they had seen in the culvert. This man telephoned the police. The body was taken to the morgue.

The story told by little Maud Carr is that a woman had been in the neighborhood pretty much all day, wheeling a baby in a go-cart. She was there in the morning when the children came from school. She was still there at 4 o'clock in the afternoon if she Carr asked her in the afternoon if she was looking for a street, or wished to be directed to any place. She said: "No; I'm waiting for my husband."

The children who saw this woman say she was dressed in a black walking skirt, wore tan shoes and stockings, a fawn coat, black hat and black feathers, with something blue about it. Mr. and Mrs. Murray live at 59 Wellington-avenue. Murray is an employee of the Polson Company. They claim the baby was stolen from Eaton's while Mrs. Murray was in shopping. Mrs. Murray is about 25 years of age and of comely appearance. Her husband is about ten years her senior. When definite news was received by telephone of the death of her child she and her husband were on Powers-street and the house where they were prospecting moving on Monday. Mrs. Murray was overcome by the news and had to be taken to her home on Wellington-avenue in a cab, where she collapsed into an hysterical state, which continued for several hours.

Identified by Friend.
Mrs. Matthews, who lives in the house adjoining the Murrays on Wellington-avenue, went to the morgue yesterday afternoon with Mrs. J. S. Fletcher of 74 Bathurst-street, and identified the body of the infant as that of Mrs. Murray's missing child.

"I am a mother myself and knew the dear little child well," said Mrs. Matthews to The World, "and the horror of it all almost overpowered me. What possibly could be the object of doing away with the little one passes my understanding. It cannot be revenge, for I know Mr. and Mrs. Murray well, and no better or kinder neighbors could be than they have been since I have known them."

"That is true," chorused a group of neighbors who had gathered about the door of the Murray residence.

"No quieter or more respectable people live in Toronto," continued Mrs. Matthews. "Mrs. Murray told me this morning that this was the first time she had ever left the child alone outside Eaton's in her life, and as it was there were only 3 or 4 minutes between her going and her return. She at once told a policeman, but was assured that only some slight mistake had occurred, and that her baby would turn up all right and not to be worried. She was very much put out by the off-hand, easy-going manner in which her complaint was received by the police, who assured her that there was merely some mistake, which would be set right in time. And now her dead child is lying in the morgue. Oh, it is terrible," and Mrs. Matthews clasped her own child, apparently of the same age as the little one lying on the slab at the morgue, closer in her arms.

Parents Were Devoted.

"I have known Mr. and Mrs. Murray ever since they have come to this neighborhood," said Mrs. J. S. Fletcher, 74 Bathurst-street. "They have done most of their trading with us, and the little child was uncommonly bright and pretty and the father and mother were more than usually devoted to him and to each other. They went walking together almost every evening, and Mr. Murray seemed to be a sober and industrious man and a good husband and father. I cannot conceive of anyone but a mad man or mad woman perpetrating such a terrible crime. There could be no such motive as jealousy or robbery in the awful act. Mrs. Murray was a Scotch woman, I believe, and Mr. Murray was from Glasgow, or some suburb of that city on the Clyde."

Out to Search.

"Mr. and Mrs. Murray went out immediately after their noon dinner to-day," said Mrs. Matthews. "She told me that she was sure some one had made a mistake, and she might run a chance, although a very small one, of seeing or hearing something in the parks concerning the lost little one, and, anyway, she was so anxious and nervous that it was impossible for her to remain inactive in the house. She left word to tell the reporters of the papers as much as possible, as it might assist in the discovery of her baby. Whenever she went to Eaton's before, Mrs. Murray told me that she always took some one with her, but that this time she only wanted some pins and knew she wouldn't be away for more than a few minutes, but that when she came back
