WOMAN FOOTBALL PLAYERS ARRIVE FROM ENGLAND

Dick Kerr's Famous Aggregation Here for Series of Contests in U. S. and Canada.

Quebec, Sept. 23.—Dick Kerr's ladies' football team of England, seventeen strong, who were not defeated once during the last season of sport, arrived here on the C. P. R. steamship Mount Clare yesterday. They played fifty-nine matches, won fifty-eight and drew one. They scored in all 596 against sixteen. Lilly Parr, outside left, is the most brilliant player of her sex in the world. Alice Woods, centre half, is the fastest lady player in the world; her record for one hundred yards is 11 4/5 seconds. Mabel Carmen Pomes, goal-keeper or half-back, is champion lady javelin thrower of France. The names of the players are: Lilly Parr, Jessie Walmsley, Carmen Pomes, Alice Woods, Florie Haskam, Lilly Lee, Annie Crozier, Daisy Cloyton, Molly Walker, Alice Mills, Jenny Harris, May Graham, Lilly Stanley.

Alfred Frankland, honorary secretary, and David Brooks, joint promoter of the tour with A. Telekman, are with them.

These ladies, besides beating all the women teams in England, played and defeated numerous male teams. In one instance the male team comprised seven league players.

A Zelekman of New York, representing the United States football association, was at the landing to welcome the ladies' team and conduct them to New York, where they will play their first match.

Dick Kerr's ladies' football club are not in America to play matches with the object of making money. They have come as champions to meet all comers and will play matches, with the gate money to go to charity. They expect to play twenty-four matches in the United States, Winnipeg and probably Ottawa, Montreal and Hamilton. Mr. Zelekman said that he had been coldly thrown down by the dominion football association, but it had been told to him by the affiliated clubs in the association that they were forbidden to play with the visiting English lady players.

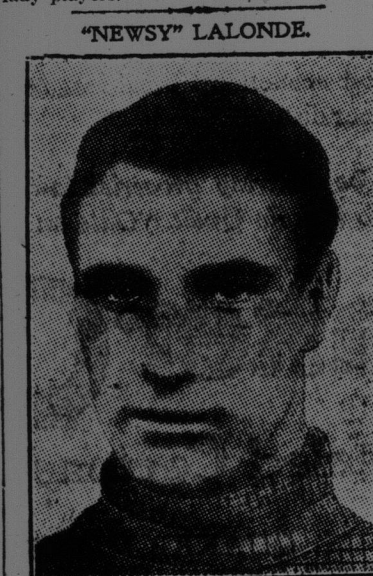

Races at Machias, Me., has concluded. The 2 1/2 mile mixed went to Zelma Strong in straight heats, best time 2:18. The 2 1/2 mile mixed was won by Faddy Patch in straight heats, best time 2:27 1/2.

QUITS CHEWING AT 94.

Ell Frazier Heeds Wife's Request on Seventieth Anniversary.

Des Moines, Iowa, Sept. 23.—An incident at the celebration of the seventieth wedding anniversary of Ell Frazier and his wife has silenced Frazier's boast that he never passed a day in eighty-two years without a chew of tobacco. Frazier, ninety-four years old, remarked that he took to chewing at the age of twelve, and his wife, who is ninety-two, said: "Ell, I want you to quit chewing."

Ell, who does chores at an institution here, did not chew today. "She made me quit," he said.

SIMPLER JUSTICE IS RECOMMENDED IN CIVIL COURTS

Gregory Commission Reports in Favor of Cutting Out Much Red Tape—Suggest Big Salaries; Discourage Legislation.

Some drastic changes in the way of the reorganization of the provincial legal offices in Osgoode Hall, Toronto, are recommended by a royal commission which has investigated all the offices of the Supreme Court of Ontario in this legal institution.

The commission's views are adopted by the government, the report states. An increased staff is not necessary, but some larger salaries will have to be paid. With a view to a return to simpler justice and the discouragement of litigation, where "the result is uncertain until the last judge has given his last guess at law," the commission recommends the appointment of an arbitrator, or a conciliator, to whom differences might be submitted and settled without recourse to actions in the courts.

Regarding this the commission says: "We spend on Ontario hundreds of thousands of dollars yearly in salaries for our judges and in maintaining our courts, but we are receiving satisfactory returns from our investment? Is not the way to justice too often a long and costly way, and is not justice itself too often lost to view in a maze of precedents which renders everything uncertain except expense? Is not procedure too often hedged around with artificial formalities which hinder the business disposal of cases? Cannot our differences, when they arise, be settled in a simpler way? We have able and high-minded judges, but under the present system can our judges give us their best and most efficient service?"

"We believe that the people would welcome a return to simpler justice and we recommend the appointment of an arbitrator, or as he might be more appropriately called, a conciliator, to whom parties between whom differences have arisen, may submit their disputes without bringing an action in the courts. The meeting of this officer and the parties to the dispute and their counsel, if any, around a table, would result in the prompt settlement of many a case which is now carried from court to court at great expense, the result uncertain until the last judge has given his last guess at law. A tribunal such as suggested by us would present the people with a healthy influence upon them. The arbitrator or conciliator should be a man well versed in the law, and possessing exceptionally high judicial qualities. He might be authorized, in his discretion, to associate with him at times men possessing special qualifications to deal with the questions in dispute. We shall not formulate the plan in detail, but commend the subject for careful consideration by the government and the legislature."

The Salaries.
With reference to the master-in-chambers, J. A. C. Cameron, K. C., whose salary is $4,500 a year, a man of marked executive ability, and one who disposes of matters referred to him with despatch, the commission finds that Mr. Cameron's income "from salary and fees in one year at least nearly reached, and may have exceeded, $20,000. He himself admits having received in five years, over and above his salary, fees amounting to $36,322.43. Mr. Cameron's fees in single cases have sometimes run up into thousands of dollars."

The fees in question were collected by Mr. Cameron in his capacity as "official referee," though his appointment as official referee had been cancelled by an amendment to the Judicature Act by the Ontario Legislature in 1916.

"The practice that Mr. Cameron has been following," the report says, "two or three times a year, the country's resources have not been tolerated in the case of judges, and is equally bad in the case of the master-in-chambers. Appropriate action in the matter should be taken by the attorney-general."

The entire abolition of official referee is recommended by the royal commission, which states that there is only one official referee by special appointment, J. A. McAndrew, K. C., who has insisted his concurrent with the commission's recommendation. "No remuneration, except in the form of a salary, should be receivable by an officer or clerk of the court for any services performed by him," the report states, and adds: "The payment of official referees by fees is unsatisfactory, objectionable and dangerous. The practice places them under direct obligation to the party who brings the business to them."

The commission states that it sees no reason why there should be a separate department for the offices of surrogate clerk, as returns are made by the registers of surrogate clerks throughout the province to the succession duties office at the parliament buildings in Toronto."

The use of Osgoode Hall as residences by five families, three of whom pay rent totalling $64 per month, and two families no rent, is condemned by the commission. The practice of the use of Osgoode Hall as a residence for the use of the judges, the report states, "some fifteen cords of split wood, costing $20 a cord, were piled in the basement for their use. The wood was furnished with free light, gas and water, and they have an unlimited supply of hardwood and soft coal. The building should not be used for residential purposes."

Re-organization of the second appellate division of the Supreme Court of Ontario is recommended in the report, which says that instead of five judges being appointed as justices of appeal, and fourteen as trial judges, as at present, the commission recommends the appointment of nine justices of appeal and ten trial justices.

Provisions for superannuation allowances and clerks at Osgoode Hall is recommended by the commission, superannuation to be demandable at the age of seventy and made compulsory at the age of seventy-five.

W. D. Gregory is chairman of the Royal Commission and the other members are: Horace L. Brithain, Albert Hellyer, E. A. Penock and Norman Sommerville, who is at present in poor health and is abroad.

IRON, STEEL, METAL AND MACHINERY

In its summary of the iron, steel, metal and machinery markets, Canadian Machinery and Manufacturing News, Toronto, makes the following comment in its Sept. 21 issue: "Very large interest in the iron and steel market is still apparent in the advancing mood, as the changes in wrought iron pipe, plain wire, bars, angles, plates and sheets, as announced this week from Pittsburgh, would indicate. Wrought iron pipe has advanced $11 per ton, and Canadian mills may shortly make an announcement in kind. Wire nails have advanced their prices $3 a ton, while some of those mills that went out of the market on bars, shapes and plates on account of the coal strike have re-entered at $2.25. This is higher by 25 cents than the steel corporation, and the latter's prices are for shipment at mill convenience, which probably means some months hence. It is evident, however, that the turnover in finished steel is not large. Very large interest is being taken in December or first quarter business. Buyers display lack of interest in late deliveries, but if the feeling developed that prices were advancing, the interest might develop strength. One factor making for higher prices is said to be that mills have many orders still to fill that will bring little, if any, profit, owing to sales having been made when material was low. They feel, therefore, that there is an opportunity at present to make an improved showing. There has been a sharp increase in input production since the strike of August, but car shortage still proves to be a limiting factor. Canadian importers say there has been very little improvement in shipments and that with accumulated business pressing for cars the situation does not seem promising. An Unwelcome Prospect. There is no doubt that the prospect of war has had an influence on Canadian steel and iron business for the past few days. It is an unwelcome prospect, commanding pause while mental attitude adjusts itself. Should the country's resources in men, material and equipment again have to be mustered, the feeling among business men is that experience has been such as to make splendid mechanical and engineering service available at short notice. That the railways are adopting a more liberal attitude in their requirements of machine tools is evident from purchases that are being made from time to time. Canadian National Railways recently approved a list of machine tools for their shops at St. Malo, Que. The expenditure, comparatively, was not large, but of the most worthy while items coming from this direction in some time. Among machine tool dealers it is said that any serious war would have a stiffening effect on the market. In iron and steel, prices are firm and the demand shows strength. One dealer declares that if there is no good business until the end of the year as during August, there should be no cause for complaint. Metal reports state that the pig iron situation grows acute. While indications were that large tonnages of Scotch iron had come into the market, customs records show the tonnage to have been only 2,814. Some foundries are running short and soon will have to consider supply. Demand for iron and steel is increasing. British mills are quoting a price that would approximate $17.75 base Pittsburgh. A guarantee shipment two weeks after receipt of order. Large tonnages, however, would be necessary. An order for one hundred tons of British plates was placed by the C. P. R. through a Montreal jobber and no doubt much more business will go in that direction shortly. The sea-metal demand for structural steel is falling off.

EAST ST. JOHN SCOUTS.

The grand opening for the coming season of the Boy Scouts and Cubs of East St. John was held last Thursday evening at Edith Avenue Hall. The committee of the Troop No. 6 gave a delightful supper to the boys, assisted by the ladies' committee. The troop committee present included Mr. Franklin, the chairman; George Elliott, the secretary; treasurer; R. Taylor and Mr. Foley. The members of the ladies' committee were: Mrs. Franklin, Miss Nellie Burdett, Mrs. McKenzie, Mrs. R. Taylor, Mrs. Osborne and Miss Violette Wood. The honor guests were: V. C. Timbrey, Arthur Burdett and Mr. Isaacley. Brindley, the pastor of the church. Each of these gentlemen gave a talk to the boys. Mr. Timbrey spoke of the coming winter and said that the boys would have something new in line of scout work. Several of the speakers complimented Mr. Lawson on his good work among the boys. The scoutmaster thanked the committee for the splendid evening that they had given to the boys and he especially thanked the ladies for the great help that they had always given to the boys and he knew that in the future they will still aid the boys. Games and scout work took up a large part of the evening and at the end Miss P. Wood played God Save the King.

office. During the course of his remarks, Mr. Simpson said that the individual financial strength of the Canadian people had strengthened wonderfully since the first of the year, and that the outlook was particularly hopeful. In the evening a box was engaged at the Imperial and the members of the company enjoyed the show. Among the out-of-town members present were: N. J. Wooten of Perth, territorial vice-president of the Macaulay Club for the Maritime Provinces and Newfoundland; R. J. Lutz of Bathurst; T. D. Clarke of Fredericton; W. A. Kennedy of Woodstock, and George H. Harris, supervisor of the field service.

only seventeen years old. Her father, Cavalieri Canessa, is part owner of a gallery of antiques and ancient coins and is an art expert. The young couple's engagement, which was announced in July, met with the approval of both families. Mr. Caruso attended the Culver Military Academy at Culver, Ind., for some time. He sailed from Philadelphia for Naples last April. At the time the engagement was announced a wave of spiritualism was sweeping over Naples and a great deal of publicity was given to the fact that Caruso's spirit at a number of seances gave his approval of the match.

To Be Married in St. Catharines.

Miss Julia Margaret Cleary, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Cleary, Main street, leaves this evening for St. Catharines, Ont. She will be married on Wednesday, Sept. 27, in that city, to Francis Joseph Horgan. The bride-elect has been for some years an efficient member of the staff of T. B. & H. B. Robinson, Ltd., insurance, Prince William street. The groom is a civil engineer and a former resident of the Parish of Simonds, his family moving to Lansdowne avenue several years ago.

ENRICO CARUSO, TENOR'S SON, WEDS IN NAPLES

Naples, Sept. 23.—(Associated Press)—Enrico Caruso, son of the famous tenor, was married on Wednesday to Miss Eleanor Canessa. Her father was a close friend of the late singer, who is buried in the Canessa family tomb. Deputy Forio, who was a member of the Cabinet of Signor Nitti, acted as best man for the bridegroom.

Enrico Caruso, who is still under twenty, is a typical Neapolitan. His bride is
