The color of Chieks.

If you proured eggs of pure-bred fowls, and the chicks seem to differ and appear of various olors, do not be disappointed, as the chicks will be the proper coler when matured. The black breeds of fowls, such as the Langhans, Black Minorcas and Black Spania and the chicks nearly always have a large proportion of white on them when hatched. It am old saying that the more white on the chicks of such breeds the blacks tree plumage at maturity. We have often noticed broods of Wayandotte of Indian Game chicks, no two in the broods being alike, and differing the fell way during her sickmess and cure by Dr., Williams' Pink Pills, for I am sure they award make any proper use of this statement or my and the chicks are well advanced person to suppose that the chicks were mongrels; we were that the chicks were mongrels; we when they came to maturity it was a difficult matter to select the best one in the flock, so far as the plumage was concerned. Brahmas, Cochins, Piymouth Rocks and other breeds any also be classed among the uncertainties until the chicks are well advanced, and for that reason breeders often receive compliants from customers in regard to their hatches but the breeders simply advise them to wait awhile, when the matter rights itself.

Thave who keep their blood in a pure and healthy condition need have little fear of disease attacking them. It is the enfecibled, run-down system upon which disease fastens its fangs. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a perfect blood-intial as a blood builder, nerve tonic, and preventative of disease. Thousands testify the worded in Main Sparks.
