THE GRANITE TOWN GREETINGS

Take Father Morriscy's "No. 10" (Lung Tonic) And Be Sure that it will cure your cough, cold or lung troubles. It is the very same medicine which the priest-physician himself prescribed so often and so successfully during his lifetime, and thousands are the cases it has cured.

Take it—or give it to the children—with confidence, because it is absolutely free from opium, morphine or any other harmful drug. Many cough medicines are loaded with these dangerous ingredients, but Father Morriscy would not use anything that was not perfectly safe even for a baby.

"No. 10" contains nothing but Nature's own remedies—Herbs, Roots and Balsams—combined as only Father Morriscy knew how to combine them. Keep a bottle in the house as a safeguard against all troubles of throat and lungs. Trial size 25c. per bottle. Regular size 50c.

AT THE OPERA

By James Douglas

I am a snob. I am an innocent. I am easily taken in by myself and by other people's emotions. I can enjoy the most preposterous nonsense and the most ridiculous humbug. Vainly I struggle against my innate or veytional. Hopelessly I strive to conquer my ingrained Philistinism. It is useless. I am a simple soul, addicted to platitudes and inured to commonplace. I am utterly unable to see through the shams of life. I am duped by everything and every body. I am as trustful as a child and as credulous as a heathen. I bow down to wood and stone every day of my life.

For instance, I know I ought to despise the opera. My best friends despise it, and then try to teach me to look down with lofty contempt on its infantile follies and banal peculiarities. They implore me to regard it as one of the shams of society. They beg me to boycott it in the name of art and in the name of democracy. I smile feebly at their entreaties, and I weakly protest that I like the opera. It amuses me. It is all they say it is no doubt, but its grace and its glamor and its glitter and its garnishment delight my foolish eyes. I fear I cannot sneer well. I am a native of Vanity Fair, and I cannot tune my fiddle to the high pitch of Tolstoi. I cannot soar to the moral altitudes of Shaw.

The other night I went to see Tetraxini, in Traviata or Traviata in Tetraxini. We were four, two brave men and two fair women. We were in a box in the pit. Now let me say candidly that when I go to the opera I am a snob. It is the only frame of mind which enables you to enjoy the opera. The charm of sitting in a box at the opera is due entirely to your conscious superiority to your neighbors. You can indulge in the luxury of believing they believe in your superiority. You can indulge in the luxury of believing they believe in your superiority. You can indulge in the luxury of believing they believe in your superiority.

Whether I make the moods for the stalls at the other great ones in the other boxes. Perhaps they are the genuine article. Perhaps their blood is blue. Perhaps they came over with the Conqueror. Perhaps they nobnob with Burke and play bridge with DeBrett. Even if they are like myself, they do not look like me. They have the air of of voices. It is silky and soft like the wash of the waves or the froth of the leaves. The voices are the cultivated voices of the wellbred people. They blend like the instruments of the orchestra. The sharp sword of a violin cuts into the low susurus as the lights are lowered. The glowing riot of color dissolves into shadowy vagueness, broken here and there by a white shoulder or a glowing lira. I like the twilight of the gods. It is as delicate as a sunset. Why should we refuse to appreciate this light of Nature? The opera, after all, is as real as moonshine, for it is a phase of the life we live.—London Leader.

Wisdom of the Ancients

Man's genius is a deity.—Heraclitus.
More worship the rising than the setting sun.—Pompey.
It is not places that grace men but men the places.—Agesilaus.
A fair exterior is a silent recommendation.—Publius Syrus.
There is no sound more pleasing than praise of one's self.—Xenophon.
They that do not prevent crimes when they might, encourage them.—Cato.
I have never repented that I held my tongue but often that I spoke.—Simonides.
The way to the realm of the dead is easy; one can go there with his eyes shut.—Bion.
There is nothing so easy but that it becomes difficult when you do it with reluctance.—Terence.
I would rather have a man that lacks money than have money that lacks a man.—Theophrastus.
Of all speeches none is so dishonorable for a general as "I should not have thought of it."—Iphicrates.
Thou wilt find rest from vain fancies if thou doest every act in life as if it were thy last. Marcus Aurelius.
What is gained by philosophy? To do without being commanded what others do from fear of the laws.—Epictetus.
Any one thing in the creation is sufficient to demonstrate a providence to a humble and graceful mind.—Epictetus.
I had rather excel others in the knowledge of what is excellent than in the extent of my power and dominion.—Alexander the Great.
Man's felicity consists not in the outward add visible favors and blessings of fortune but in the inward and unseen perfections of the mind.—Anarcharsis.

LUNG TROUBLE

Promptly relieved and permanently cured by inhaling Catarrhazone

Mrs. Biny Brown of Tennessee, N. S., was cured by Catarrhazone of lung trouble and catarrh after hundreds of other remedies failed.

If your lungs are weak; if there is consumption in your family; if Colds, Catarrh and Bronchitis bother you, be sure to use Catarrhazone. It is especially adapted for these diseases and cures every time.

Mrs. Brown took cough mixtures, but they made her sick. Then she used an atomizer, but, after restoring without benefit to poultices and numerous other remedies, she tried Catarrhazone.

"I used Catarrhazone Inhaler," writes Mrs. Brown, "five minutes every hour and soon recognized that it was going to cure me. I could feel the soothing medicated air spreading through the air passages of the throat, and it touched the sore spots in the lungs that other remedies failed to reach. Catarrhazone seemed to go just—here it was needed most, and soon put a stop to my cough. It restored me to perfect health, and I am convinced that no cough, cold or catarrh can exist if Catarrhazone is used."

No treatment is so clean, so pleasant, so certain to cure as Catarrhazone. By means of the Inhaler the local symptoms such as coughing, inflammation and congestion are speedily corrected. Ferrone tablets, which are taken after each meal, purify and cleanse the blood of all poisons and build up and strengthen the system.

This local and constitutional treatment is always effective, and cures cases that have been given up as hopeless. Money can't buy or produce anything better, and to get cured it is absolutely necessary to use Catarrhazone.
Complete outfit costs $1. Small size, 50c. At Druggists, or N. C. Pabon & Co., Kingston, Ont.

To Move off a Cold

Cough mixture "dope" a cold—but don't cure. Above all else, keep the bowels regular and stimulate the eliminative organs. More valuable than any cough syrup are Dr. Hamilton's Pills. They clear the system of every trace of cold—the dull headache, aching limbs, and cough disappears. Take the pills before retiring, they work while you sleep, and by morning your cold is broken and passes quickly away. All dealers sell Dr. Hamilton's Pills in 25c. boxes.
