RIVER HIGHER

THAN USUAL

Considerable Damage Done by High Water in St. John River as Result of Friday's Storm.

As a result of the heavy rain which accompanied the gale of Friday last, the river has risen several feet. This has caused considerable damage and annoyance along the water front at Indian town.

The St. John Power Boat Club, yacht owners, the majority of whom have hauled their boats out for the winter are among those to suffer as the river rose to such a height that many of the boats floated and although some went adrift all had to be hauled higher up the bank.

A prominent resident of the North End who takes an active interest in river shipping said last evening that he had never known the river to be so high at this season of the year.

PLEASING LECTURE

BY JUDGE CARLETON

"Russell of Killowen" Subject of First Lecture in Winter Course Under C. M. B. A. Auspices.

The winter course of lectures under the auspices of Branch 124 C. M. B. A. was opened last evening in the society's rooms Union street. The first lecture of the series was given by Judge J. L. Carleton. R. J. Walsh occupied the chair, and in a brief address outlined the plans for the coming series in which a number of prominent speakers are to take part.

"Russell of Killowen" was the subject of last evening's lecture, and Judge Carleton, in his pleasing style, gave his hearers several interesting sidelights on the career and character of the noted Lord Chief Justice. He touched briefly on the early career of Russell, his rise to fame, and dealt at length with Russell's brilliant defense of Parnell against the efforts to incriminate the latter and destroy the party of which he was chief.

At the close of the lecture a hearty vote of thanks was tendered the speaker.

LECTURE ON LIFE OF

SIR GUY CARLETON

J. F. Owens Tells St. Peter's Y. M. A. of Stirring Career of One of Canada's Governors.

"Sir Guy Carleton" was the subject of an interesting and historical lecture delivered by J. F. Owens before the members of the St. Peter's Y. M. A. in their rooms on Douglas avenue yesterday afternoon.

In his address Mr. Owens dealt with the early life and education of Sir Guy Carleton, telling of his environment in Ireland which moulded him into a strong man. In 1776 he came to Canada, sent by the British government to settle the differences between the French and English colonists. This difficult duty performed he returned to England where he was prominent in the politics of those stirring times.

In 1788 Sir Guy Carleton was created Lord Dorchester and appointed to the governorship of the then two Canadas. He was also placed in command of the army. Both these offices he held until 1791, but continued active in the affairs of the country until 1796 when he retired to his farm where he died in 1805.

At the close of the lecture R. E. Hanson moved a hearty vote of thanks, which was seconded by B. J. McDermid and tendered to Mr. Owens by the chairman, W. J. Shea.

The Freight Handlers and C. P. R.
The negotiations between the C. P. R. and the railway freight handlers in regard to a new schedule of wages for the winter, have been discontinued. The men asked for 30 cents an hour, and it is reported the C. P. R. offered a slight advance on the rate of 21 cents an hour paid last winter. The C. P. R. is now advertising for freight handlers at 21 cents an hour.

Will Form "Winnipeg 1914" Club.

The meeting of the Supreme Lodge in 1914 will mark the fifty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the order, and will also be the first time since 1880 that the Supreme Lodge has met in Canada.

He Lost His Job.
Because of an alleged shortage in his accounts of about $72, a collector in the employ of an insurance company terminated his connection with the company last Friday night, according to a strong rumor prevalent in insurance circles. The man had been working for the company for several months, his field of operations being in the city. None of the officials of the local branch of the company would go into details in regard to the matter, other than to state that the office trivial and that the company was protected through the bonds furnished for collectors by the American Surety Company. One of the rules of the insurance company forbids employees discussing such matters.

A CHINESE

MARCONI

WORK HERE

Hum Jack Oak, of Waterloo Street, an Amateur "Wireless Wizard"

Has Complete Apparatus Installed in Room Over Ham Lee's Laundry and is Earnest Student of Electricity.

Possibly the only wireless station in America controlled and operated by a Chinaman is to be found on Waterloo street, St. John, Hum Jack Oak, is the Chinese Marconi, and the equipment was installed by him unassisted.

Nor is the apparatus any joke. Every night Hum gets in wireless communication with other stations, preferably amateur, but has in his experience incurred the wrath of the operator at "N.S.P." the government station on Partridge Island, and has heard more than once the signal "MO" to stand by and give the government a chance.

Hum is modest. He carries on his operation in a room over the laundry of his friend Ham Lee with whom he works. The room, however, is a veritable reference department on matters electrical while miniature motors, models, coils, switches, wire, etc., are to be found on every hand. The building is lighted with electricity and fully equipped with electric bells through Hum's genius.

Electricity His Hobby.
Electricity is the Chinaman's hobby. From the time he first came to this country from Canton nine years ago, at the age of 14, he found the science interesting. He was unable to speak English, but soon made arrangements whereby he could attend the "Central school on Brussels street."

After one year at school Hum was forced to give his entire time to work and he labored for four years to accumulate money to further his education, teaching himself as much as possible in the meantime. In 1908 he went to Montreal and spent the summer at the Montreal Technical High School, where he devoted his time to electricity and to his education.

When ever possible, Hum works at the electrical business and has found many opportunities to install electric bells in different parts of the city. Today Hum comes near to being a full fledged electrician as he is evinced by the many examples of his work which includes even wiring and installing coils in armatures, motors and dynamos.

An Ardent Student.
The Celestial is a student. He reads prominent trade books and magazines and although handicapped by technical phrases, adds to his education daily.

For the benefit of a Standard reporter Hum opened the key and endeavored to get in communication with John Dibble, of Silver Falls, who also has wireless equipment. The operator at Silver Falls, however, was off duty, leading Hum to enter into a detailed explanation of the working of his wireless. The spark coil is capable of sending but 20 miles, but his receiving coil enables him to receive messages within a radius of 300 miles.

Mastering the code was not as great a trial for Hum as to apply it to his knowledge of English. His sending and receiving is necessarily slow because of his imperfect spelling.

Another illustration of Hum's enterprise is a model of a biplane hanging on the walls of the room. The frame is of wood and seems complete in every detail. It was Hum's intention to build a heavier than air machine, but when he found that the cost would exceed $1,800, he abandoned the scheme.

Denver Man will Present New Brunswick Moose Head to Museum in His Native City.

As a result of a visit of two big game hunters from Denver, Col., New Brunswick will receive valuable advertising as the home of big game. H. C. James accompanied by his thirteen year old son, William, spent the past two weeks on the North Shore. They had a successful trip, young James bringing down a large moose, the head of which has been forwarded to Denver, and after being mounted, will be presented to the museum in that city as a specimen of what the forests of New Brunswick offer to attract the hunter. Besides getting the moose, the party brought down a deer and several birds.

Speaking of their trip Mr. James, Sr., said that the trip to the North Shore had been greatly enjoyed, and he was delighted with New Brunswick. He said that the scenery was grand, and that they had been very well treated by the people here from New York by auto and will return this morning.

COUNCIL

BE BUSY TODAY

Commissioners Have Several Matters of Importance to Bring Up—Cab Regulations are About Ready.

The common council will meet this afternoon, Com. McLellan who has been working on the new bye-laws to regulate street traffic is expected to have a report ready for the ratification of the council. He has been in conference with the owners of hacks, carriages, etc., trying for hire, and has taken up the matter with the other commissioners at their private sessions. It is understood the new by-laws will raise the fares to outlying districts, and the boundaries of the districts will be defined so that there will not be any difficulty as at present in understanding them.

Another change will be to require owners to carry light of some description when driving about the city streets at night.

Another matter which will come before the council is the recommendation of Com. Schofield to adopt a by-law prohibiting heavy motor trucks entering the city warehouses on the west side and requiring such vehicles to deliver or receive freight at a point near the C. P. R. elevator.

It is also expected the council will take the matter of enforcing the by-law prohibiting the discharging or receiving of hay or straw by vessels lying at the Market wharf.

Com. Schofield will submit a report on the question of erecting a new warehouse on the Quinn wharf.

PROFESSOR STERNE

HEARD ON EXMOUTH STREET CHURCH ORGAN

Social Recital, Last Evening Enjoyed by Very Large Number—Prof. Sterne a Master of Pipe Organ.

After the regular service in Exmouth street Methodist church last evening Prof. Max Sterne, of Amherst conducted an excellent sacred organ recital, which, in the opinion of those present, surpassed any in the city for some time.

Prof. Sterne, who was well known here 20 years ago when he was considered the lion of local musicians, has his home at present in Amherst, but returned to that city as organist of St. Andrew's church here. Last evening Prof. Sterne captivated a large audience with his wonderful rendition of several difficult selections.

The church auditorium was crowded to the doors by an enormous crowd. Indeed, such a number attended that many were turned away.

During the service a collection was taken up. This collection amounted to a considerable sum, and was presented by Prof. Sterne to the choir with the understanding that it be used to purchase sacred music.
