St. Martins

St. Martins, June 9.—The King's birthday was observed by the flying of flags and closing of business places.

There were a number of motor parties from St. John, but a rain came on and prevented any intended festivities. All felt grateful to see the much needed rain for the parched earth and to quench the fires in the woods which threatened the village several days.

"You have the finest beach and village in the Dominion of Canada," remarked Mr. R. Floyd who spent a few days here last week. Mr. Floyd was a former resident of St. Martins, but left about thirty years ago for the West and has since made his home in Vancouver, where he has been very successful in business.

St. Martins never looked better than at present, for besides its natural scenery for which it is so well-known, every foot of land is under cultivation giving a finish which the war necessitated.

Mr. Robert Moran of New York and Mr. Horace Hutchings of Montreal, were recent visitors here.

Loggieville, N. B., June 6.—A meeting of more than usual interest was held in Knox Church on Tuesday evening, when the Women's Missionary Society celebrated its twentieth anniversary. The President, Mrs. J. K. McKenzie, presided, and on the platform were Rev. F. W. Thompson and Rev. W. B. Williston, who has been engaged in missionary work in China for upwards of ten years, and who is now on furlough, spending the summer with his parents in Hardwick.

In the audience were members of the various missionary societies in the neighborhood of the town. The service began with singing "Jesus Shall Reign," then followed the reading of the Scripture lesson, Psalm 61—"The Lord is our refuge." At this point in the local auxiliary came into existence 20 years ago; prayer by Rev. F. W. Thompson; hymn, "Christ for the World We Sing." At this point in the meeting a presentation address was read by Mrs. C. J. Blake, the following being made life members (be- lieving charter members of the society): Mrs. J. W. S. Baskirk, Mrs. James W. Johnston, Mrs. N. I. Loggie and Mrs. D. Russell.

Rev. W. B. Williston then gave an exceptionally fine address, which was delivered with passionate earnestness and eloquence. Mr. Williston told how that when a boy he had listened to an address on missions and was so impressed by what he heard that the wish was born in his heart to be a missionary when he grew to manhood. This idea, formed in childhood, grew stronger with the years and finally became a fixed resolve. In the course of the remarks the speaker gave some very interesting accounts of incidents in connection with his labors in that far-off land. The devotedness of those who have embraced the Christian religion in that foreign country puts to shame many of the Christians in the home church. During the service W. W. Hurlbut and D. J. Galliver sang acceptably the duet, "Come, Spirit, Come." The offering was a liberal one. At the close of the meeting refreshments were served.

The rain on Wednesday interfered somewhat with the plans of many for the holiday, but proved a great blessing for the country where lumber lands were being destroyed by fires. Many spent the third quietly at home. A few went trout fishing, but were not rewarded with any quantity of fish.

Mr. and Mrs. John Savoy have a new member in their family circle. Congratulations are also extended to Mr. and Mrs. Eutrope Malley on the arrival of a stranger in their home.

The Path to Health

For many thousands of women the Path to Health has certainly been through Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. When this great remedy was first introduced, and for many years after, skeptics frowned upon its curative claims, but as year after year has rolled by and the little group of women who had been cured by it has since grown into a vast army of hundreds of thousands—doubt and skepticism have been swept away as by a mighty tidal wave, until today this purely vegetable medicine is recognized as the greatest remedy for woman's special ills in the world. This is because it is a wonderful tonic and reconstitutor which acts directly and favorably upon the feminine organization and is a specific for that purpose.

"The Canada Life Man"

(A word in behalf of our representatives)

The Canada Life Man comes into close touch with the people.

He is known to be honest and sincere, with a true appreciation of his mission, which is to relieve distress and point the way to thrift and prudence in the affairs of men generally.

The Confidential Man

He knows when the average man is prosperous and also when he is not, because he tells the Canada Life Man the story of his progress. The Canada Life representative in fact becomes the confidential man of the community.

To the Canada Life Man everything speaks of the need for insurance.

Finding this need all around him he tries to fit the plan of insurance to the individual need; just as the experienced lawyer is expected to give the best advice to his client or the physician the best course of treatment to his patient.

His sympathy and advice are indeed very important factors in his success.

Trained for Special Service

He is trained for this service through the "Canada Life Course of Life Insurance."

He visits factories, offices and homes, pressing forward his mission, arranging interviews for his clients with the medical examiner, discussing questions of health and finance, pointing the way of satisfaction and progress to everyone he meets.

The day ends before he is ready to give up his interesting work, but he has caused many a man to stop and think,—he has helped widows in need, and impressed upon all those he has met the importance of economy in their affairs and the need of protection for those under their care.

Will you, in the spirit of the above, discuss with the Canada Life Man, or correspond with the head office of the Company, freely and fully as to your need for protection,—your desire to save?

Thrift, always a virtue, is now a patriotic duty. Take stock of your affairs; adopt the best method of caring for your obligations; find out how to plan your estate.

In other words, consult an old, tried Company, with abundant evidence of success; experienced in life insurance, paying large dividends to policyholders, and safely and sanely managing its business.
