CHANCELLOR VISITS UNIVERSITY LIBRARY

In contrasting to the usual furor created when U. N. B.'s chancellor comes to the campus Lord Beaverbrook's visit on Tuesday and Wednesday (Nov. 13 & 14) were on the quiet side. No striking proclamation, no new plans — at least none that any were willing to reveal — were announced. His Lordship spent his time browsing through the library, chatting with Dr. Baily and library staff and talking over questions of library policy and new purchases which he is continually making.

Among his new gifts are several excellent general reference books, which will soon be placed at the disposal of the students. His Lordship's generosity to the Library continues. One wonders whether the happy grateful faces of the artsmen overshadow the sad and hockey-hungry look of foresters and engineers. Like Helen of Troy's virtue, their arena was lost without a murmur. But the different faculties need one another's help. Dean Baily's influence appears not insignificant in the light of his Lordship's remark last May at the presentation of the New Wing: "Thank God Alfie doesn't skate!"

Lord Beaverbrook read with interest the signatures of their Royal Highnesses, Elizabeth and Philip, recently added to the Library's Visitors Book.

This time, it is His Lordship's home town of Newcastle, that is the object of his generosity. The United Church Manse of the town where he lived as a boy, will become the public library. Say! that means that with two libraries under his distinguished patronage, the Beaver will have to find new outlets for his munificence, so as not to favour either book bin.

Education Association Elects Officers

The Education Association having had two meetings and a field trip during October is well under way for the year. On October 16th an organizational meeting was held at which time the following officers were elected: President Bob Hanson; Vice-President, Isabel Adams; Secretary-Treasurer, Colin McCabe. Professor C. F. McIntyre is continuing in his role of faculty advisor.

Dr. F. E. MacDiarmid, Chief Superintendent of Education for New Brunswick, addressed the first regular meeting of the association on October 23rd. He discussed education in the province and gave some valuable advice to prospective teachers.

On Oct. 31st about twenty members of the association journeyed to Minto Memorial High School. They toured the school and sat in on various classes. Through the efforts of the principal, Mr. C. S. Day, and his staff the group received an excellent view of the modern regional high school and its work.

The Education Association is an organization for all those on the campus, both students and faculty, who are interested in education.

Dr. L. R. Thiesmeyer Addresses Students and Faculty on Research Institute

The reorganization and expansion of the Pulp and Paper Research Institute of Canada was described to students and faculty by the Institute's president, Dr. L. R. Thiesmeyer.

Dr. Thiesmeyer, who is one of America's outstanding scientific research administration, became head of the organization two years ago and was given the task of building the institute into a streamlined research centre capable of serving Canada's greatest industry.

In the past year the Pulp and Paper Research Institute has more than doubled the funds which it has for research by entering into contracts with the industry for specific investigations. Some of the projects thus taken on, the speaker, said include an enquiry into the nature of corrosion in the sulphate pulp cooking process, an investigation of methods by which sulphur can be recovered from waste liquors, and a study of design of pulp holding grounds.

Many of these projects are of a long range and fundamental nature, he pointed out and those he mentioned were being undertaken with the financial sponsorship of numbers of Canadian paper companies, acting jointly. Stressing the co-operative nature of the venture Dr. Thiesmeyer pointed out that all the resources of the industry as well as supporting industries, such as equipment suppliers, were at the institute's command in these tasks.

In future he hopes that research programs of a fundamental kind can be set up within the universities, aided by the pulp and paper industry and arranged through his organization.

MONTREAL STUDENT EDITORS DISMISSED

Four top editors of the University of Montreal student newspaper, Quartier Latin, were dismissed yesterday following a campus rumpus for anti-royalist treatment of Princess Elizabeth's visit here.

Current issue of the eight-page newspaper devotes 13 columns to the Royal visit to the University including five articles and two cartoons. One shows the Princess dragging the Duke of Edinburgh towards a marionette university student who drops to kiss her hand.

Dismissed at a Student Council meeting Monday following publication of the issue were director Gilles Duguay, his assistant Jacques Mackay, news editor Jean-Paul Ostigny and assistant news editor Pierre Renaud.

Syd Hyslop, Oak Bay, is the new "bull o' the woods" of the University of New Brunswick. In his honor a gleaming double-bit axe will be hung in the Forestry Building at the provincial university, with Syd's name engraved in a small plaque set into the handle, to be joined in other years by annual winners of the distinction.

The young Charlotte County student came by his new title Saturday by winning five first places and one second place tie in the contests of skill which comprised the U.N.B. forestry field day. No other of the 200 forestry students who attended the university came even close to Syd's record for the nine events. Hyslop is in the fourth year of his course.

Leon Pond, senior student from Three Rivers, Que., was in charge of the field day, which was run in cold wet weather, and Dr. J. Miles Gibson, dean of forestry, was chief judge. Prizes for first and second classes in each of the events were donated by Fredericton merchants and these will be

Law School Receives New Building From Beaverbrook

Lord Beaverbrook has purchased the Saint John residence of the late L. P. Starr and will present it to the University of New Brunswick for use by the University's Law School there.

Announcement of the purchase was made before Lord Beaverbrook left Saturday for Montreal en route to his winter home in Jamaica. He is chancellor of U.N.B. and has made numerous gifts of buildings and scholarships to the university over a long period.

The residence will undergo extensive alterations and will be newly furnished. After completion of this work early next year, it will be presented to U.N.B.

CAFE FORMAL FRIDAY NIGHT

The Lady Beaverbrook gymnasium was the scene of the first big social event of the year on Friday, the sixteenth, when it was transformed into the Cafe Formal for the occasion. Adding to the French atmosphere were the gay murals on the walls, sketched by Noreen Donahoe and Flora Jean Sears.

Refreshments were sold in the gym basement by members of the U-Y club, and the refreshment room threatened to outdo the dance-floor in popularity.

Casting for Drama Festival Entry Begins

The Dramatic Society is ready to begin casting for "An Inspector Calls", by J. B. Priestley. The bill of one-act to be presented tonight at Teacher's College completes the first half of the Society's programme for this year, and it is losing no time in beginning its second and more important production; the entry in the Regional Drama Festival.

Since the Dominion Drama Festival is to be held at Saint John this year, an even greater effort is being put forth to make the play a success in the Regional competition.

Copies of the play have arrived and are available from Professor Alvin Shaw and Wilma Sansom, to all those interested in reading for a part in the play. Notices of times and places for readings will be posted on all the bulletin boards.
