~~her father should not say that~~ - What is your answer to them I said I heard them a little better which was given - but I think when did the house over and which mentioned that the property was given to me by you. Lady Maurin repeated that house is yours, and told as you like well. ~~She said you~~ ^{also} Sir Welfrid's words, I hope you like them. I said I had not any of Sir Welfrid's words except the one she gave me and his letter of friendship - that I had ^{just given to the ladies} the freedom of them. She said yes that is right; these are yours, but I thought you had his words too. ~~She~~ She repeated her indignation, and said what ignorance - the most conscience, how ignorant - it is preposterous. How dare they talk, the house is yours. I said I felt this myself, that she would wish me to feel independent, she said, certainly, it is to help you to be independent. The house is yours for all your life and for you to do with as you please for the time after. I said I felt she could feel sure I would do what was right. She said when I gave it I gave it I asked for no blessing for you and Sir Welfrid and that of the blessed ladies, it was my home for you, and that it might be a help to you. it was a part of divine love we feel for you, ~~that~~ ^(I did not feel for you in the last part) - She ~~said for the very reason~~ ^{we would speak to you that way} her father should not say anything like that. I said Mrs. Forster had helped to make everything clear.
No the house was given you to help you with your work, and with meeting distinguished people in the world. It is not a public house, I want you, unless want you to have your own friends there, we would like you to meet and make many friends, home leading people - clergymen, friends from other lands, but make it your home. We want to see people use the house, - no use it in a way that will help you to come more to the fore - ^{Sir Welfrid says} bring on the head lights and turn off the footlights - Sir Welfrid wants you to do all you can for others - keep in touch with the masses. We leave facts in your good principles and judgment. Hon. Sir.
