

experience in a rifle company. He is anxious to return to his unit at the earliest possible moment and I submit he should be allowed to do so. This capable man with his long service will serve the Canadian Army best, not in detention or as a private, but in action as an A. C. O.

117