To Buyers Looking for a Good Stallion:

I have imported Percheron Stallions for years. Always bought from the best breeders in France, and beg to call the attention of prospective buyers to the fact that I have won this year at Toronto first and second aged class sweepstakes and silver medal. Also at Ottawa Fair, first and third in aged class, first, second and third in 3-year-old class, sweepstakes and gold medal. Those horses are beautiful dapple-greys and blacks, three to four years old, weighing 1,800 to 2,000 lbs., with feet and legs that cannot be beat, beautiful heads and necks the kind that good buyers are looking for. I do not intend, and I will not allow, if I can help it, any one to give more quality breeding for a fixed price than I will. Come to the home of the champion prizewinners and judge for yourself.

JOHN HAWTHORNE, Simcoe, Ontario.

put on a what new outside all stucco, you know, and the Prince who visited us last summer said he only had to close his eyes to think himself in Italy.

Verily, of such 'rials are these calls composed; and I have to keep my temper and not say a word of what rises to my lips, but she would not have understood if I had, poor soul, and so I let her clatter on.

Not but all those old flowers that you've had growing for ages down yonder have come in fashion again. Yes, isn't it strange they're quite in the swing, and those hollyhock roots that are scattered everywhere would cost a lot if you tried to replace them.

"Why, child, nature and all that stuff that you and the doctor always thought so much about and spent so much time over has come right in since you've been away. There is a princess or a duchess or somebody (anyway her name's in an aimanac-a patent medicine, I suppose, but I don't remember what she took it for), and she lives in Germany and is named Elizabeth, and she's written a book about her garden, and it made such things I read it all through, thinking I would get a great many swagger points, but I didn't, that is, not on gardening; but she was so chic, just did everything she wanted to, and never got rattled, and her house ran itself, except giving out the sausages, and she culy looked at Her husband didn't count for much more than furniture, for he liked cabbages and wouldn't dance, so how could he? But the children were so useful-always said something bright at the right time. But then, she had an unusal bringing-up and said her prayers in French while her mother went to parties, so you'd expect she'd be different.

Now you'll be right in it and not thought so queer as once. And as for birds, bird study's all the rage. I've stopped wearing feathers anyway until the excitement dies down. We've stopped driving birds out of the fruit, and put up boxes to draw them. They won't come in them, though, because your father says the rooms aren't separate and the openings draw a draft through. Though I call that going a little too far, as if birds that fly all day in the air can't stand a draft at night. In the spring, when we return here I'm going to have a bird class, and a professor to take us out and point out the birds.

It's awfully nice, my dear, much easier than giving a garden party, no trouble, no fuss, managed like a Cook's tour in Europe. He tells you everything you ought to see, so you don't have to think, you know. I went once this year across the river where I was visiting. There were twenty ladies in such becoming outing costumes, and such a delicious lunch, served quite in the woods, my dear. When we were eating we saw Yes, with its feathers on a quant! Yes, with its leather and all. Did you ever know thing so appropriate?

We learned two other birds besides—a blue Jane, and the other was a red-eyed virago " [vireo]. "I remembered the name as so appropriate because the bird sang or scolded, I don't know which you would call it, all the time we were lunching.'

As I think of that well-meaning, awful woman I nearly choke, and it is a relief to hear Delia creaking upstairs with my luncheon, which, as father has gone across country on a consultation, I am going to have spread on the window seat as of old when it rained and I was housed.
